XLIV Children's Fiction Award 2025 Guillem Cifré de Colonya

The writer and puppeteer Xavier Margenat has been awarded with the XLIV Guillem Cifré de Colonya Children's and Young Adult's Fiction Award 2025 for his work Nils, don't be afraid. The Guillem Cifré de Colonya Children's and Young Adult's Fiction Award are sponsored by the Guillem Cifré de Colonya Foundation and has the support of Editorial Barcanova, which publishes the winning works. The award rewards novels in Catalan aimed at readers from 8 to 14 years old.

Xavier Margenat Godoy was born in Girona in 1964. He is a computer programmer and has worked for many years in a bank. He writes novels for children and young adults and performs puppet and ventriloquism shows with the aim of promoting literature among children. He is a Red Cross volunteer in the play center of the Josep Trueta hospital, where his puppets distract and cheer up the hospitalized children. Furthermore, he has completed several fiction workshops at the Writing School of the Ateneu Barcelonès and in 2020 he received the Montserrat Roig Writing Scholarship. He has published novels for children and young adults such as Ter's Treasure (2006, CCG Edicions), The Drums Boy (2018, Curbet Edicions) and Saint George and the Book Eater Dragon (Editorial el Pirata, 2020). He also is part of the program of the Generalitat de Catalunya "Authors in the Classrooms".

Nils, don't be afraid is the story of Nils, a small, rat-faced boy with thirteen phobias who suffers from bullying. He will become friends with Oriol, a boy who loves mysteries and who will invite him to visit the ruins of the old casino of Arrabassada. There they will witness a crime but, when they report it, the police will not listen to them. Nils and Oriol will investigate the clues of the crime, and this will lead them to live a kind of escape room for the most sinister places in Barcelona in search of a legendary treasure. Throughout the adventure, Nils will have to face his fears.

With this work, Margenat presents a dynamic thriller full of humor with a protagonist with whom current readers will easily identify. With a clear and direct style and inviting the reader to let their imagination run wild, the work naturally deals with bullying and difficulties in socializing. Friendship and self-improvement also play a key role.

Since its first edition in 1981, the Guillem Cifré de Colonya Award has supported children's and young adult's literature in Catalan and has published more than forty works by authors such as Joaquim Carbó, Josep Francesc Delgado, Lolita Bosch, Rosa Maria Colom, Pere Rosselló, Miquel Ferrà, Pere Morey, Miquel Rayó, Montse Homs, Mariona Bessa and Carlota Gurt. Most of these works have become common reading for younger readers and have also been part of the selection of books with which schools teach and spread Catalan language and culture.

A LEGENDARY BOOKSTORE

Diego Arboleda

Diego Arboleda comes back with the universe created in "A Bookstore in the Wood" and proposes new adventures, with fantastic beings, brave characters and challenges that are not easy to overcome.

With the usual humor and overflowing imagination of the author, in addition to the audacious illustrations of José Frago, this book narrates a new adventure starring Ana, the tireless reader and former servant of Mrs. Beatriz; Mateo, the young blacksmith, and Bemi, the great storyteller. This time they go in search of the legendary bookstore of Nemesis Mercury, and they must overcome all kinds of obstacles, visit shelters of fantastic animals, find a way to cure Adrastea -the bibliophage who has been poisoned by Gudulus-, save themselves from the tricks devised by Lupercio Quismondo, visit the temple of the Oracle, flee from a pack of chewers and make all kinds of surprising discoveries until they reach a secret bookstore, guided only by their cleverness and bravery.

Other titles in the series:

A Bookstore in the Wood

In this book, you will travel to a fascinating time where reality and fantasy are mixed in an amazing way. A few years in which extraordinary people lived: Beatriz Bernal, the first novelist in the Spanish language; Philip II, a king obsessed with unicorns, and Papa Gregory XIII, an expert in international conspiracies. And, along with them, others who do not appear in history texts: a servant girl, a blacksmith's apprentice, a legendary bookseller or a headless archer.

THE ADVENTURES OF THE KNIGHT CRISTALIAN

Beatriz Bernal

The Adventures of the Knight Cristalian is, in addition to a book of chivalry full of adventures and magical events, the first novel written by a woman in Spanish literature.

"El Cristalián de España" is a novel of chivalry romance written by Beatriz Bernal (Valladolid) and published in 1545. It is considered the first novel written by a woman in Spanish literature and narrates the adventures of Prince Cristalian and his brother Luzescanio, who embark on a journey full of challenges to recover a lost kingdom. The work, typical of its genre, features fantastical elements such as dragons, giants, and spells, and explores themes such as honor, loyalty, and love. This special illustrated edition collects one of the episodes narrated in this book, with text adapted by Diego Arboleda, and with illustrations by Eugenia Ábalos.

THE FIRST SPANISH CHILVARIC ROMANCE WRITTEN BY A WOMAN.

About the author

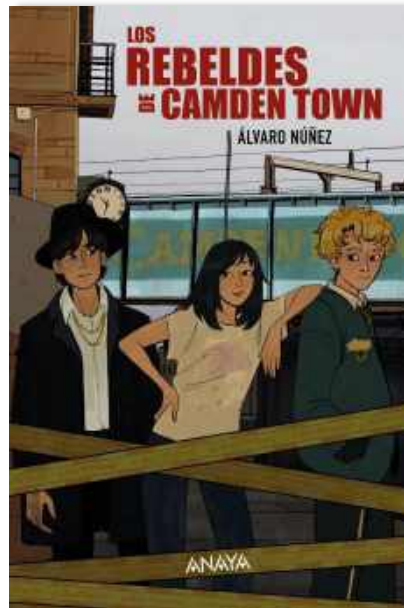

Beatriz Bernal was a writer of the Spanish Golden Age, born in Valladolid and considered the first novelist of Spanish literature. She is the author of "Cristalián de España" (1545), the first novel of chivalry romance published by a woman in Spain, initially anonymously. Widowed on two occasions, she lived in a literate environment, which favored her training and access to books. Her work stands out for giving greater prominence to female characters in a traditionally male gender. After her death, her daughter Juana de Gatos managed to republish the novel in 1586 under the author's name, consolidating her legacy. Bernal left a valuable library and is considered a key figure in the history of Hispanic literature.

THE CAMDEN TOWN REBELS

Álvaro Núñez

After the death of his parents, Shane has to leave Cork, his hometown in Ireland, to go live with his uncle Scott, a man he barely knows and whom he detests for ignoring his family for years. The fact that his uncle enrolls him in the elite school where he works, where the boy is despised by his classmates, does not help their relationship or Shane's mood. Luckily, the boy will find refuge in Camden Town, the London neighborhood that in the early 80s was at the forefront of the avant-garde and the punk counterculture.

There, he forges a friendship with Ana, a Spaniard who works as a cleaner in a hotel, and with Jim, the son of an aristocratic family whose father, Thatcher's minister, is involved in a murky affair of corruption and deaths in which they will end up involved.

A mystery novel with murders, social vindication and soundtrack by The Clash.

About the author

Álvaro Núñez was born in Madrid in 1972. After studying architecture and graduating in Business Sciences, he decided to work on what he liked most: drawing puppets and writing stories. Since then, he has illustrated a zillion textbooks for Spanish and international publishing houses; for children and adolescent. Half a dozen stories written by others have been drawn by his hand, although he has also participated in magazines with his own comics and jokes. He undertook audiovisual projects, wrote scripts and has drawn numerous pieces of animation. He went around schools in half of Spain, drawing his stories while telling them. Álvaro is also the author of the Green Dog and Pandilla Wasabi series. In addition, with Miguel Can and Alberto Díaz he created the successful Detective Owl series; all of them published in Anaya.

WHO IS AFRAID OF THE FEROCIOUS TIGER?

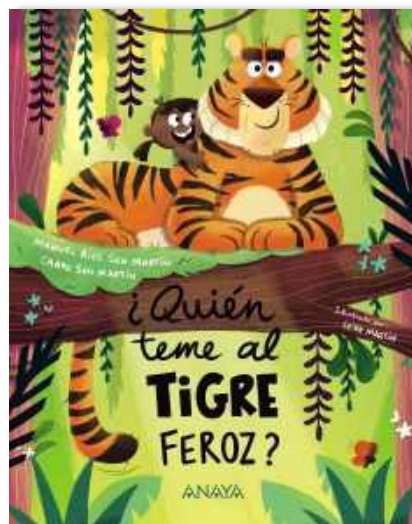

Manual Ríos San Martín and Charo San Martín

THE SEEKERS AND THE LOST TOMB

Rafael Salmerón

Dani accepts Carlos' challenge and enters an abandoned house in the residential area. There, before being rescued by Zoe from a presence that roams the place, he will take a box with strange engravings on its surface. When the boy opens the box, he discovers a pendant that will give him the power to control the will of the people and that seems to be related to the Visigothic tombs that the group wants to unearth to save a nearby natural environment. First love, disturbing dreams and faltering friendships complete a story that has only just begun. What begins as a challenge between friends will transform into an adventure full of ancient magic and overwhelming mysteries.

About the author

Rafael Salmerón was born in Madrid in 1972. He studied Education Sciences and Illustration and Graphic Design. He began his career in the world of children's and young people's literature as an illustrator back in 1994. But, since 2001, he has dedicated most of his time to writing his own stories. Exciting, hard, funny, sad, joyful stories. Stories of adventure, love, war, conflict, friendship, denunciation and, above all, hope. Life stories, after all. He won the Lazarillo Prize for Literary Creation in 2017 and was included in the IBBY Honour List in 2020. In 2021, he won the Anaya Award for Children's and Young Adult's Literature with La rama seca del cerezo ("The Cherryblossom Dry Branch"), a book that in 2022 won the National Prize for Children's and Young Adult's Literature awarded by the Ministry of

MY AUNT JANE

The first biography of Jane Austen

Espido Freire

Based on strict historical facts and documents, Espido Freire brings the life story of the famous writer Jane Austen and the environment in which she grew up closer to younger readers. Special edition on the 250th anniversary of Jane Austen's birth. In July 1817, the young James Edward Austen attended the funeral of his beloved Aunt Jane, his father's younger sister and the perfect accomplice in games and in confidence. But Aunt Jane kept a secret: she was the author of "Pride and Prejudice" and "Emma", two of the most successful novels in England at the time. A secret that almost no one shared and that, upon his death, neither James Edward nor his family will be able to keep for much longer. James Edward discovers that, in reality, very few people got to know the true personality of his aunt, and with the information he handles and the questions he will ask those around him, he sets out to clear up the mysteries that surround her aunt and become her first biographer. In addition, the book includes a family tree of the Austen family, a dramatis personae and a brief guide-summary of Jane Austen's novels.

About the author

Espido Freire is one of the most recognized experts on the life and work of Jane Austen in the Hispanic sphere, with several books written about her. She is a passionate "Austenite", and a tireless disseminator of classic literature. In this case, she tries to bring younger people closer not only to the English author, but also to what it means to live with a writer, to the difficulties of creating a work and to the importance of creating a world of one's own... in the past, but also in the present.

Espido is a famous Spanish author with numerous works. She won the 2025 Anaya Award for Children's and Young Adult's literature with her novel "The Plague Diary".

Valencia, Spain, 1977. Alma can kill with a single whisper. She is a black magician, although the streets of Salinas whisper something else in her wake: "witch". For Silvestre, who has blood and uses green magic, life is much easier. Or so Alma believes, although, in reality, they stopped talking to each other a long time ago. Now, Silvestre has returned to the village after years studying in Paris, but the circumstances could not have been worse. If it were up to them, their paths would never cross again.

However, when they are forced to work together to prove that they deserve the position of municipal magician, protecting their neighbors from natural and supernatural dangers, Alma and Silvestre will discover that the two of them harbor shadows that neither of them suspected, and that the feelings they thought were forgotten are not as extinct as they would like.
