AGATHA CHRISTIE SEEK-AND-SOLVE

By Sarah Dvojack

Put your little grey cells to the test with devilishly puzzling Agatha Christie seek-and-find mysteries. Now you can play detective as you immerse yourself in beautifully illustrated scenes from the adventures of Hercule Poirot, Miss Marple, and Tommy and Tuppence Beresford. Search for suspects and collect clues as you explore a snowed-in train car on the Orient Express, a ritzy cruise ship on the Nile, an isolated island full of strangers being picked off one by one, a deceptively quaint village in the English countryside, and more iconic locations from twenty of Agatha Christie’s most beloved novels. But don’t be distracted by the stylish characters and elaborate settings. Remember, it is up to you to crack each case and identify the murderers!

PIZZA PRACTICE
Perfect Pizza, Focaccia and Pita, Plus What to Have for Dessert!
By Tara Jensen

Pizza, pita, focaccia: these are gateway breads to building a bread-baking practice. For all home bakers and curious professionals, here's THE go-to pizza primer, with 80+ recipes for accessible flatbreads (plus desserts!) and aspirational food and lifestyle photography (pizza parties! a recipe flowchart!) from celebrated and beloved baker Tara Jensen.

These are recipes any baker can access, using the equipment already in their kitchen, with explorations of different ingredients, techniques, flours, and heat sources for perfecting pizza and so much more. Jensen steps bakers through 10 essential and foolproof doughs, using yeast and sourdough, which range in difficulty from simple to advanced. Once you “get” one, you can advance, or endlessly riff on the dough you've mastered. Beyond this “primer” section, the book will cover other types of pizza (grandma! Neapolitan! pan!) and how to use pizza dough for other bakes, such as stromboli, semolina rolls, and calzone. Recipes for salads and desserts are here, too. Many baking books and bakers are dogmatic in their approach to sourdough, resisting the addition of commercial yeast. This guide uses both—each alone or in combination—so bakers can experiment and find out what makes the dough of their dreams. Also included are step-by-step instructions, timelines, and photography for all phases of the dough-making process as well as folding, shaping, stretching, and baking.

WILL THIS MAKE YOU HAPPY?

By Tanya Bush, photographs by Forsyth Harmon

The antithesis of unattainably aspirational, Will This Make You Happy? embraces the messy, maddening realities of baking while empowering would-be bakers to learn real and applicable skills along the way. Divided into 52 recipes and themed by season, the book stretches over a single year, following Tanya as she explores and builds on her baking skills. Reflecting the flow of the seasons, recipes build off of each other, using the skills learned in the previous sections. While the recipes are utilitarian and easily recreated, there are choose-your-own-adventure paths to success, enabling freestyling to suit a mood: Recipes for when you want to measure out each ingredient to a tee and those that will find success regardless of which flour or fat you use. Recipes for days when you require a treat to complete a baseline task, need a midnight snack during a night of quaking insomnia, have an urgent craving because you're low on energy, or need a pastry project that will distract you for three days. Each also includes lively suggestions for adapting according to personal tastes or dietary restrictions. This is a recipe book that centers the you in baking, that reckons with the home baker as a multidimensional person rather than just an obedient rule-follower in the kitchen. Will This Make You Happy? honestly articulates the way people are turning to baking today: often out of emotional necessity or in search of a tactile distraction or therapeutic hobby.

DOBRE DOBRE

Baking from Poland and Beyond

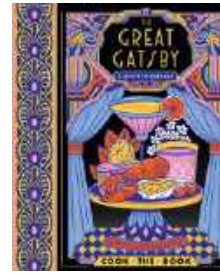

By Laurel Kratochvila, photos by Malgosia Minta

Poland's distinctive baking culture is a product of its rich and complicated history, from the World Wars to the rise of Communism to the cultural exchange that inevitably happens to a country with seven neighbors and endless migration. Step into a piekarnia (bakery) and be greeted by tiny, pretty rugelach, a classic Jewish cookie; decorative layer cakes, recalling the over-the-top, factory-made products of the late twentieth century, now reinvented for the modern palate; and Lithuanian black bread, a sweet, dark rye loaf—all in the same resplendent bakery case. In this repertoire-expanding baking book, American-born baker and 2023 James Beard Award finalist Laurel Kratochvila goes back to her roots to bring us more than 120 familiar and inventive treasures. Vivid storytelling and fascinating historical details illuminate each recipe's significance. Beautiful photography makes it feel as if you're right there beside Kratochvila, stepping into a warm bakery on a cold winter's day, picking baskets of wild bilberries in July, and biting into a soft yeasted bun, jammy strawberries oozing down your chin. Cheesecakes, wafer cookies, gingerbread, country loaves: These recipes aren't just for those curious about the new wave of Polish bakeries or nostalgic for the old-world treats or Jewish delights of their childhood—they're for any home baker looking to fill their cookie jars and bread boxes with inspiration.

MAMA NEEDS A MINUTE! A Candid, Funny, All-Too-Relatable Comic Memoir about Surviving Motherhood

By Mary Catherine Starr

From Mary Catherine Starr, the artist behind the @momlife_ comics Instagram account celebrated by moms all over the world, this deeply funny illustrated memoir captures the chaos, joy, exhaustion, guilt, well-intentioned-but-clueless partners, and infinite loads of laundry that come with being a mom.

Packed with humor, warmth, and all-too-relatable anecdotes, this comic memoir explores the (often invisible) labor of modern motherhood that leaves so many moms feeling like they are losing themselves—and their minds! Whether you're navigating a hellish sleep regression, wiping sweet potato off the walls, seething with spousal resentment (deserved and undeserved), or simply hoping to pee without a toddler watching, this candid and irreverent account perfectly captures what every mom knows in her heart to be true: motherhood is @#$$% hard (and also really amazing)!

Filled with Starr's signature wit, warmth, and observational humor, Mama Needs a Minute! tackles all the absurdities of mom life and will make you laugh, cry, and feel seen in a way only a true mom-friend can offer.

COLD JOY

Experience the Wondrous Power of Cold Water

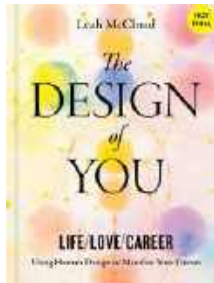

By Libby DeLana

For most of her life, Libby DeLana believed she hated the cold—fear of cold became part of her identity. Then, in the midst of a dark period of deep personal turmoil and self-doubt, an impromptu dip in icy water cracked something open in her heart, forcing her to reexamine the limiting stories she told herself. If she could learn to love cold, what other beautiful life experiences might await? In this exhilarating guide to well-being,

DeLana explores how creating a daily cold plunging practice taught her self-love, courage, and resilience and illuminates the many physical, mental, and spiritual benefits of cold water. Combining personal storytelling with step-by-step guidance and essential tips for safety, plus fascinating details on the science and history of cold-immersion, Cold Joy provides everything you need to experience tremendous power of cold water—whether you're dipping in a sea, lake, river, or tub.

SLOWING

Discover Wonder, Beauty, and Creativity through Slow Living

By Rachel Schwartzmann

An inviting guide to reclaiming your time and discovering the wondrous pleasures of slow living.

“Slowing combines memoir, interview, and instruction for a volume that feels more like an invitation than a guide. Rachel Schwartzmann wants to coax her readers to recognize slowing as something essential, powerful, and transformative—rather like time itself.” —Elle

“Rachel Schwartzmann’s Slowing is an enchanting and soulful examination of what matters most: time, joy, creativity, and feelings. This is a beautiful book, filled with optimism and light.”

—Debbie Millman, author of Why Design Matters and host of the podcast Design Matters

“The first half-sentence I fell in love with was ‘Worries attach themselves to mailbox keys,’ and everything that followed was a considered balm, though one that provoked such varied thought. The book holds awareness and secrets and a close attention, but more than anything, it is such a soft place to land.”

—Ella Frances Sanders, New York Times bestselling author and illustrator of five books, including Lost in Translation and Everything, Beautiful

“Both a reflective guide and a stirring meditation on time, connection, and pace.”

MURDER MOST PUZZLING PERIL AT QUANDARY PARK A Mysterious Case to Solve

By Stephanie von Reiswitz

The game is afoot! This sumptuously illustrated book invites you to solve a series of murder-mystery-themed puzzles set on an English country estate.

When the beautiful socialite and heiress of Hatchett's Biscuits & Wafers is found dead at her annual summer soirée, you find yourself at the scene of the crime: the mysterious Quandary Park, a country manor full of riddles, hidden doors, and secrets. Thanks to your puzzle-solving prowess, you've been hired to investigate the events surrounding the death of Adelaide Hatchett and her quirky cast of party-guests-turned-suspects, including the high-spending scoundrel Cyril Blight, the infamous tattoo artist Tatiana Outlawe, and Bertrand Hellebore, the retired botanist who is convinced Adelaide's last will and testament was forged. Over the course of one week, you will explore the eccentrically decorated manor, discover clues in the sculpture garden, and sleuth out evidence in the nearby village. But be careful—the murderer is still on the loose! With sumptuous illustrations on almost every page, this clever book of logic puzzles will have you poring over both the story and the art to catch the Quandary Park killer. Prepare yourself for an intriguing adventure full of wit and opulence, plus a touch of the macabre.

COLOR CURIOUS
Your Guide to Observing, Combining, and Applying Color in the Studio and Everyday Life
By Ana Bianchi

This playful and highly visual book invites you to refresh your relationship to color by observing the world around you. Artist Ana Bianchi is on a mission to help people use color confidently in any creative practice. Each chapter takes a deep dive into a different type of color scheme—from monochromes to the famous “pop of color”—and helps readers find inspiration in art history, travel, household objects, and more. Hands-on projects sprinkled throughout the book feature a wide variety of media and applications, from painting a still life to making a gallery wall in your home. This book is perfect for art students seeking their personal voice, creative types hoping to integrate more color into their lives, and professional artists in need of a new perspective.

THE GRATEFUL DEAD BY JIM MARSHALL
Photos and Stories from the Formative Years, 1966-1977
Photographs by Jim Marshall, afterword by John Mayer, curated by Amelia Davis and David Gans

Jim Marshall took over ten thousand photos of the Grateful Dead throughout their career—from Woodstock to the last free concert on Haight Street and beyond. Marshall's magnificent images chronicle the band's trajectory as hairstyles changed, relationships came and went, and the music evolved into the sound that would become beloved by generations to come.

Marshall's instinctive eye matched the Dead's improvisational style, and he was welcomed into its family as he immersed himself in San Francisco's counterculture scene throughout the 1960s and '70s. Whether you were there from the beginning or wish you had been, this is your chance to see a glorious era of music history as you've never seen it before, through the eyes of a visionary artist.

GRIT TO GRIND
Shaping Montana Communities One Skatepark at a Time
By Andy Kemmis and Chris Bacon

A photographic and narrative exploration of skateboarding culture in Montana, following the stories of the Montana Skatepark Association (MSA) and Jeff Ament's Army (the grassroots organization dedicated to supporting the Pearl Jam co-founder's charitable activities and artistic endeavors) to build skateparks and promote community building in underserved communities. The inspirational story behind the birth, growth, and continued relevance of the MSA is showcased here, including an appearance by Tony Hawk at the opening of the first skate park, profiles of some of the kids for whom these skateparks make a huge difference, and the founders themselves—a ragtag bunch of adult skateboarders who had a dream of making skateboarding accessible for all. Includes an introduction by Jeff Ament.

MUSIK

The 1960s Photographs

By Bent Rej

This monograph is the first major international publication to survey Bent Rej's seminal photographs of 1960s rock legends, including The Rolling Stones, The Beatles, The Who, The Kinks, The Animals, Jimi Hendrix, Bob Dylan, and more.

In 1965, as a twenty-five-year-old photographer, Bent Rej was assigned by a Danish newspaper to cover The Rolling Stones' European tour. Rej developed an immediate rapport with the burgeoning British Invasion band, especially with Brian Jones, who became a close friend, often staying with Rej's parents whenever he was in Denmark. As part of The Rolling Stones' entourage in the late '60s, Rej was soon swept into the bustling celebrity underworld of London. There he met and photographed the Stones' notable peers, gaining unfettered access to the young musicians of the day who would go on to become legends. With a camera always on hand, Rej took some of the most iconic, behind-the-scenes shots of the most influential rock musicians of the era. This deluxe volume includes an insightful introduction and both well-known and rare color and black-and-white photographs of the most beloved rock stars of a generation.

AND AND AND STUDIO

By Annie Ritz and Daniel Rabin

And And And Studio captures the playful yet sophisticated aesthetic of the Los Angeles-based architecture and interior design firm founded by partners Annie Ritz and Daniel Rabin.

As the name of their studio implies, they take a holistic approach to design that brings together all aspects of a project from the architecture to the interiors—including juxtaposing materials and color and creating custom cabinetry, furniture design, and lighting—to extending these ideas into the outdoors as well. All of these contribute to an elegant and laid-back quality that evokes a utopian indoor-outdoor Southern California vibe. From extensive remodels to from-the-ground-up new construction, Ritz and Rabin have a keen sensitivity to creating inspiring and livable spaces with an eye for light, materiality, color, and details. Their widely published and celebrated residential interior projects have a distinct quality rooted in modernism but with a refreshing sense of warmth and personality. The projects featured here share the optimism inherent in their work and provide a glimpse into the possibilities of design as an aspirational and functional way to enhance everyday life.

CREATIVE COLLAGE
Techniques, Projects, and Inspiration
By Naomi Vona

Appealing to a broad audience, Never Beautiful Enough provides both inspiring examples of Naomi Vona's work as well as a how-to guide on creative collage and art journaling as a form of personal expression.

Naomi Vona's prolific and inspiring collages transform fashion ads into feminist art pieces that question conventional notions of beauty and the overwhelming consumerism that supports them. Through paint, collage, and hand-lettered text, Vona creates her own artistic beauty that is subversive, detailed, colorful, patterned, layered, and visually bold. Over 200 full-color, full-page illustrations from her Selling Lies series that reinterprets photographs from the pages of Vogue are featured in this softcover book that looks and feels like flipping through a fashion magazine. Vona's visually dense style includes her integrated, handwritten text in response to the images she builds upon. The alternately hidden and legible commentary questions notions of physical perfection and the pervasiveness of advertising within the beauty industry. In addition to highlighting this unique collection, Vona also extends her creative process in a step-by-step how-to guide. Storyboard-like photos of the process with captions offer detailed and easy-to-follow instructions. She also shares all her techniques and tools, from what types of acrylic paint pens she uses to the specific Washi tape she favors to how to explore pattern and color palettes through layering and hand-lettering. Individual sections in the guide include working with magazine images, building your own art kit, sourcing vintage photos and ephemera, and creating your own abstract art pieces.

PROMPT-BRUSH 1.0
The First Non-AI Generative Art Model
By Pablo Delcan

Unlike AI tools that generate art based on text prompts, Prompt-Brush 1.0 brings back the human element in art creation. In this project, Delcan invited the public to submit text prompts, which he then manually interpreted and translated into images. This book is a curated selection of submitted prompts and original artwork that has been personally created by Delcan, with a unique, human touch to every piece—a stark contrast to the instant, automated process typical of AI art models, offering a personal and nuanced interpretation of the prompts. The project gained popularity for its distinctive approach. The collection of diverse, often humorous artworks has attracted attention and praise with Fast Company calling it “infinitely more layered than its AI-generated counterpart.” Delcan's hand-drawn interpretations and deliberate, individual style emphasize the value of human creativity and effort over the speed and efficiency of AI models. The simplicity of the black ink drawings is direct and childlike, offering a refreshing departure from the increasingly detailed and hyperrealistic outputs of AI art generators.

SPEAK DATA
Artists, Scientists, Thinkers, and Dreamers on How We Live Our Lives in Numbers

By Giorgia Lupi and Phillip Cox

From the global scale of financial markets and communication networks to the smallest moments of personal observation and social connection, data is created, shared, and analyzed at a speed and volume once unimaginable. Whether we realize it or not, we are surrounded by invisible ecosystems of data. Looking at the topic of data from a variety of distinct vantage points, Speak

Data will feature global thought leaders drawn from the worlds of business, tech, health, art, and more who can provide unique insight into the dynamic and surprisingly interdisciplinary nature of data today. Interviewees include technology pioneer John Maeda on the value of data visualization during global emergencies, museum curator Paola Antonelli on whether data is art, marketing legend Seth Godin on how to use data to get people to really care about climate change, AI data artist Refik Anadol on how big datasets can dream, and many more.

BENDING THE RULES

Fashion Beyond the Binary

By Camille Benda, illustrated by Gwyn Conaway

Bending the Rules is a visual exploration of identity and gender throughout history. It combines insightful text that is both engaging and deeply researched with distinctive custom graphics, timelines, and photography.

Using the lens of dress, costume, fashion, and body image, the book will highlight how we make space in society and culture for human expression. Clothing and the physical body interact intimately, so dress is a non-verbal, powerful way to delve into the boundaries that frame our views of self, identity, and gender. Fashion and dress crisscross all parts of our experience, meaning clothes can show both serious and playful aspects of selfhood and identity: joy, longing, aspiration, power, fear, negotiation, happiness, community, and fun. In the West, a wide cultural shift has been happening in body identity, sizeism, gender pronouns, access, and personal rights. In traditional, Indigenous cultures, space has existed for centuries for flexible identity, gender roles, and personal definition. The gap is narrowing, but clothing, fashion, and body image can show us how the West is wrestling with these global concepts while Indigenous cultures are conserving or reviving ancient identity practices. The book will feature a rich range of resources—from art to sculpture, original illustrations to designers' doodles, and embroidery to social media. Archive and museum research, combined with first-person interviews, never-before-seen photographs and images, and newly photographed and documented extant dress will spur the reader's imagination and seamlessly weave together the cutting-edge and the historical.

OLLE LUNDBERG
An Architecture of Craft
By Olle Lundberg

Lundberg Design is an award-winning architectural office based in the Dogpatch neighborhood in San Francisco. Founded by Olle Lundberg in 1987, the studio focuses on handcrafted details and the use of recycled materials and objects. This book explores Lundberg's personal and architectural journey—from a young UVA student to becoming the go-to architect for the Bay Area's digital elite—in addition to his obsession with materials and how his studio pushes them to their limits. Five selected projects are featured, including Lundberg's Northern Californian cabin, the Rolling Wall Museum in the Bay Area, The Dog Leg House at Pebble Beach, the Lava House in Hawaii, and Lundberg's workshop and studio in San Francisco.

FRANK S. MATSURA
Iconoclast Photographer of the American West
Edited by Michael Holloman

Japanese immigrant photographer Frank S. Matsura (1873-1913) was a local hero, a charismatic original, an enigma, and a man of the community whose legacy has increased over time. Today, the details of Frank's unconventional life are still being compiled by historians, and his identity and images have seen a revival due to an expansion of academic scholarship, documentaries, exhibitions, and regional historical interests, particularly regarding his Native American portraiture. Matsura's photographs of local tribal members reveal an honesty and an empathy that are anything but contrived or nostalgic, as one might see in his contemporaries' images from the same period. His oeuvre of just ten years (due to his unexpected passing from tuberculosis) documents mundane local events and the cacophony of characters who visited his studio for dime portraits. There are parallels to be found between Matsura's work and today's society: in attempts to rise above Asian hate, the continued pursuit of cultural agency, and a desire to individually define what America can and should be. This resonates throughout Matsura's captivating photography as a look into immigrant artists, American identity, and the history of a fluid and multicultural exceptionalism.

DESIGN AGAINST RACISM
Creating Work That Transforms Communities
By Omari Souza

Thought-provoking essays offer an anti-racist approach to design practice based in an understanding of history, a focus on community building, and a commitment to inclusion. Design Against Racism delves into this impact, with a focus on how design directly affects historically excluded communities, while offering frameworks and examples that foster collective improvement and community. The heart of Design Against Racism lies in its blend of essays on design history, illustrated case studies, and discussions of practical methods adapted from the restorative justice movement. This is an anti-racist handbook to creating equitable futures and redefining design practice as an inclusive, culturally responsive blueprint for positive social change.

MAKING SPACE
ADUs for Modern Living
By Lili Weigert

The convergence of extreme weather events and the COVID-19 pandemic has profoundly shaken our sense of stability and certainty about the future and created a "new normal" for all of us. We recognize the ecological and cultural value in adding housing within pre-existing infrastructures, as opposed to continuing to push suburban sprawl farther and farther from existing towns and cities. We reject the "bigger is better" suburban McMansion in favor of the flexibility and opportunities of more intentional and efficient living spaces. Cue the ADU (Accessory Dwelling Unit). Typically described as a self-contained structure on the same property as a single-family home, ADUs range in size (from 400 to 1,200 sq. ft.) and generally include a kitchen, living area, and separate entrance. Their efficient use of residential areas, contribution to the housing pool, and provisions for additional income for homeowners make ADUs a welcome addition for life in the new normal. Whether used as a rental property, an office, or for intergenerational housing, the ADU has never made more sense.

TIMESCAPE: JANE AUSTEN'S PLIGHT

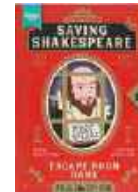

Agents of Timekeepers Incorporated, we need you!

The talented Miss Jane Austen's reputation has been tarnished, and the ripples across the timeline are threatening to erase her works from history. Of course, some may see no harm in this, but it is a truth universally acknowledged that it would be of no use to live in a world where Mr. Darcy never existed! Travel back in time to Regency-era Bath, England, where social standing means everything and scandal can be ruinous. You and your fellow agents must work together to unravel a mystery of intrigue and deceit and unmask the scoundrel who slanders Jane Austen's name. Use your courage, wit, powers of persuasion, and tremendous sensibilities to solve the puzzles and, thereby, the crime. If you fail, history will be rewritten. But succeed, and the true timeline will be restored!

MURDER MOST PUZZLING PERIL AT QUANDARY PARK A Mysterious Case to Solve

By Stephanie von Reiswitz

The game is afoot! This sumptuously illustrated book invites you to solve a series of murder-mystery-themed puzzles set on an English country estate.

When the beautiful socialite and heiress of Hatchett's Biscuits & Wafers is found dead at her annual summer soirée, you find yourself at the scene of the crime: the mysterious Quandary Park, a country manor full of riddles, hidden doors, and secrets. Thanks to your puzzle-solving prowess, you've been hired to investigate the events surrounding the death of Adelaide Hatchett and her quirky cast of party-guests-turned-suspects, including the high-spending scoundrel Cyril Blight, the infamous tattoo artist Tatiana Outlawe, and Bertrand Hellebore, the retired botanist who is convinced Adelaide's last will and testament was forged. Over the course of one week, you will explore the eccentrically decorated manor, discover clues in the sculpture garden, and sleuth out evidence in the nearby village. But be careful—the murderer is still on the loose! With sumptuous illustrations on almost every page, this clever book of logic puzzles will have you poring over both the story and the art to catch the Quandary Park killer. Prepare yourself for an intriguing adventure full of wit and opulence, plus a touch of the macabre.
