GeraMond

Dear colleagues and friends,

At GeraNova Bruckmann, publishing is not only about creating beautiful books – it is also about engaging with the spirit of our time. Today, this spirit is defined by a commitment to building a sustainable future, where knowledge, inspiration, and responsibility belong together. Our program reflects this vision: works that broaden horizons, celebrate nature, promote health and well-being, and encourage reflection.

This season's highlights show how diverse and inspiring this mission can be. With National Geographic's InSights, readers are invited to travel to some of the most breathtaking places on Earth, while also embarking on a journey of self-discovery – a reminder that understanding the world and ourselves are inseparable.

From Frederking & Thaler, we present Elements, a spectacular tribute to our planet. Aerial photography of the highest quality meets the expert voice of a geologist, who explains the fascinating phenomena behind these natural wonders.

Bruckmann focuses on sustainable travel with Your Ultimate Interrail Guide. This book is both practical and inspiring, showing how Europe can be discovered in an eco-friendly way and on a small budget – a celebration of freedom, adventure, and responsible tourism.

GeraMond turns to cultural history with its new title on Europe's battlefields, tracing their legacy from past to present. It is both a historical exploration and a contemporary reflection, adding depth to our understanding of Europe's identity.

In the field of lifestyle and well-being, Christian Verlag's Fermented puts the spotlight on gut-friendly cuisine. With recipes that are both healthy and delicious, this book is the ideal everyday companion for readers who want to combine enjoyment with wellness.

Finally, Christophorus Verlag offers Selfcare from Nature, a warm invitation to slow down. Relaxing teas, healing herbal infusions, and gentle mindfulness exercises provide inspiration for greater balance and calm in everyday life.

Together, these titles embody what we at GeraNova Bruckmann stand for: respect for nature, inspiration for healthier living, cultural exploration, and the joy of discovery. We are proud to share them with you and your readers, as we continue shaping a thoughtful and sustainable publishing future.

With warmest regards,

The water of the Alps

The mountains' most precious treasure and how we can preserve it

Felix Neureuther, Bernd Ritschel, Michael Ruhland

The Alps supply more than 170 million people with water. It is the source of life and its beauty attracts millions of tourists. The Alpine states of Austria and Switzerland each meet about 70 percent of their electricity needs with hydropower. But the appetites continue to grow. The conflict between climate protection and nature conservation is becoming increasingly apparent. This opulent illustrated book documents the profound changes brought about by the climate crisis and shows ways to responsibly manage this most precious treasure of the mountains.

- Experiencing sustainability: Felix Neureuther visits projects that develop innovative solutions for water protection
- A book with a mission: Neureuther is actively involved in protecting the Alps

Our Alps

A unique paradise and how we can preserve it

Felix Neureuther, Michael Ruhland, Bernd Ritschel, Mayk Wendt

Felix Neureuther dedicates himself to his heart topic: sustainability in the Alps. The Neureuthers have been ambassadors for the mountains for several generations: as scientists, expedition travelers, painters, skiers and visionaries. This also drives Felix Neureuther to talk in this book about his favorite tours to the world of peaks, glaciers, mountain lakes and waterfalls. He gives emotional insights into a world of flora and fauna that is worth protecting. He looks back to the pioneers of the Alps and at the same time to today's "heroes of our mountains", conservationists who work on solutions on how to preserve the Alps.

- A book about the nature protection: Felix Neureuther and his favorite places in the Alps
- With groundbreaking ideas and research to preserve the Alps

Alzheimer's. Asshole. Algarve

An (un)forgettable journey. Me, my mother, and the attempt not to let go

Oliver Kneip

288 pages, 14.0 x 21.0 cm, ~ 30 images

Paperback

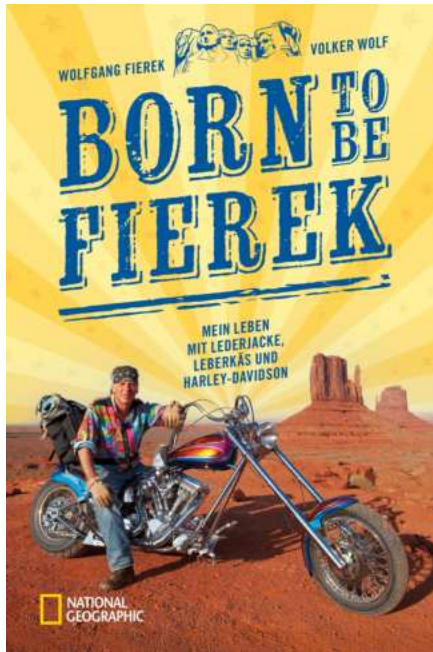

Retail price: €17.99

Publication date: October 2025

"Where are we going?"

The last family road trip turns out to be an unforgettable journey. Except for the mother – she suffers from Alzheimer's. Two parents in need of nursing care (84 and 75) accompany their son (39) and his dog on the traces of his previous van trips to Portugal – and to his new wife. Heading south, they enjoy the wine from toothbrush cups and eat their breakfast from the hood of the car engine. The family experiences precious highs after lows until they finally stand together in the salty Atlantic wind.

- A humorous story to the evergreen family motto "Oh, we can do that sometime"
- An honest insight into a taboo topic about which the author wishes for more awareness
- Alzheimer has become Oliver Kneip's worst and at the same time most beautiful life experience

Lasagne, moussaka and Co.: happiness in layers

The whole diversity of layered casseroles

Ilse Fischer, Ingolf Hatz

Lasagne is undoubtedly delicious. The original version comes from Emilia-Romagna, but every region in Italy has its own recipe. The casserole legend of Greece is pastitsio, in Alsace it is baeckeoffe. Scandinavia and England also have their own versions of the famous casserole – with potatoes, meat, fish, vegetables, or beans. This book brings together the best recipes from all over Europe.

- With the best recipes from star chefs from all over Europe
- A superbly designed cookbook for one of the world's most popular recipes

Pasta al pomodoro

55 variations of the Italian classic. Few ingredients. Lots of taste

Ilse Fischer, Ingolf Hatz

Pasta al pomodoro is something to be taken for granted, at least for Italians. Pasta, tomatoes, parmesan, olive oil, garlic or onion, basil, salt and sometimes a pinch of chili. But it is much more than just pasta with tomato sauce. With the right ingredients, it is a pure explosion of flavor and the embodiment of how Italy tastes. This book brings together the 55 best recipes - from the Italian nonna to the three-star chef.

- THE cookbook to Italy's most popular recipe
- A dish that combines the topics of the present: home, origin, identity

Finland. The cookbook

Feel-good recipes from the happiest country in the world

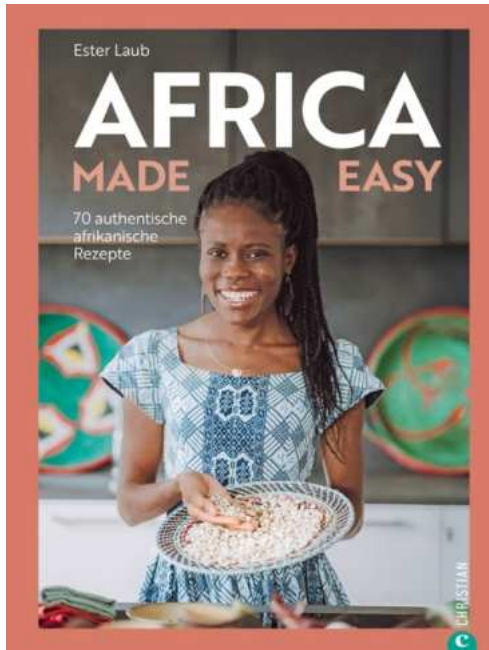

Michaela Fuchs

Finland is famous for the wild beauty of its nature and for being the happiest country in the world. Its cuisine is less well known, which is absolutely unfair. Because people value here the regional, the seasonal, the artisanal food, which is close to nature and unprocessed. There is fish and game, mushrooms, berries and home-made bread. Michaela Fuchs roams through her second home, visits foodies, bakeries and restaurants, she looks into the kitchens and has the best recipes revealed to her - from the traditional "summer soup" to "Karelian pierogi" to delicious "Runeberg tarts". A unique culinary journey!

- Finland: a wonderful cookbook
- Meeting the makers: the manufacturers and their best recipes
- Nowhere is the cuisine more creative: this is what Finland tastes like
