FREDERKING & THALER

Dear colleagues and friends,

Finally I can share the great news with all of you that Conbook is a part of GeraNova Bruckmann since January 2024. Conbook has already inspired a young generation of travelers to see and explore the world beyond the classical travel guide tips and ideas. Conbook authors have given exciting insights into their life choices and life styles. All these breathtaking and entertaining stories by digital nomads, vagabonds, hitchhikers, a slackliner, a film tourist and many others are a wonderful enrichment for our publishing portfolio and I am happy to discuss these books as well as new titles by our other imprints with you.

“Pride on tour” is the novelty by Conbook, which is published this season and which will inspire the members of the LGBTQIA+ community and allies to find a queer-friendly travel destination.

Frederking & Thaler presents a highly illustrated edition with stunning aerial photography and texts by one of Europe's leading environmental historians, which will try to answer the question, how we humans are changing the Earth.

National Geographic will inspire the readers to immerse themselves in the timeless adventures by the “hunters of lost places”.

Bruckmann continues its successful Secret-series with 2 new titles: “Secret places London” and “Secret places Scotland”.

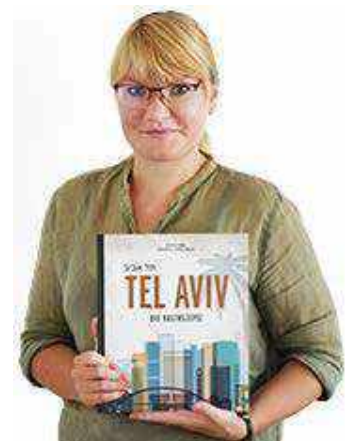

GeraMond has prepared a book on tanks made in Germany for all readers, who are interested in military history.

Christian Verlag will inspire the readers to feel good with food cooking easy, colorful and satisfying meals as well as to travel to Salina and visit the restaurant, where Martina Caruso cooks – Italy's youngest star chef.

Christophorus Verlag will illustrate how the Japanese art of Kintsugi is created at home as well as which philosophy is hidden behind this modern upcycling technique.

I am excited to discuss these and many other titles presented in this catalogue with you!

If you would like to take a closer look at them – please do not hesitate to contact me.

Honeymoon among monkeys

What happens when a down-to-earth civil servant and a daring animal rights activist meet and marry? Sleepless nights, smelly enclosures and chasing snotty monkeys in the shade at 40 degrees? That doesn't exactly sound like the perfect honeymoon! And yet, after their wedding, Marc accompanies his wife Michi to the other side of the world and swaps the familiar all-inclusive hotel with cocktail bar and pool for mud huts, monkey poop and machetes. With a lot of love and even more escapades in tow, the two not only save the life of one of their protégés, but also realize that their worlds are not as far apart as they actually thought.

This book takes its readers on a journey, where they can recognize themselves. Even if not everyone is as different as the two of them, the adventure of marriage can sometimes feel like a monkey circus.

- Travel essey of a primatologist and an animal rights activist
- Exciting mix: important animal welfare message meets a touching story

The best stories of a male friendship, which grows stronger with every stamp in their passports

Work hard, travel smarter: This book is perfect for world explorers with full-time jobs. Things don't always go smoothly when traveling, the authors of this book know this way too good. In humorous stories, the two friends tell how they discover the world in their own unique way. The special thing about the authors is that they are neither travel bloggers nor self-employed. They have full-time jobs and want to experience as much as possible with their 30 days of vacation. In this book they reveal how they do it and what they have experienced in over 120 countries they have traveled to - and tell the readers about large and small disasters, unique encounters and strange means of transport.

- Entertaining and informative
- Stories on how to explore the world and keep a great friendship

Away

How I had nothing left to lose and hitchhiked from London to Australia

Nic Jordan

320 pages, 13,5 x 21 cm, ~ 50 images

Softcover

Retail price: €11.95

Publication date: July 2023

The diary of a vagabond

After a painful breakup, the author decides to leave her dead-end everyday life behind and expose herself to absolute loneliness. And so she embarks on a radical journey: hitchhiking from London to Australia, through the coldest and most isolated places on the Earth. Along the way, she finds herself in precarious situations and is confronted with her biggest fears. But she also meets strangers who have so little and yet give so much.

Hauntingly and at the same time humorously, Nic tells the story of her life as a vagabond, of the great power of serendipity, and of her eventual insight: in order to really understand a journey, you have to return to the place where it all began...

- A great story from an author who could be a role model for many
- Entertaining and yet philosophical

Truths and misconceptions of my Way of St. James

Johannes Thon

352 pages, 13,5 x 21 cm, ~ 14 images

Softcover

Retail price: €16.95

Publication date: September 2023

The most entertaining pilgrimage

Johannes has messed up: his job is gone, his life plans must be abandoned and he has just broken up with his long-term girlfriend. Something has to change, he thinks and takes the curtain rod from the wall, which becomes his first walking stick - and he catches a train to Spain. For him it seems all too logical to put 1,400 kilometers between himself and everything else and then walk another 1,000 kilometers to make sure that his previous life is left behind. But on the Camino del Norte, one of the life-changing Ways of St. James, instead of self-discovery, the pilgrim carousel turns into a routine of eating, walking and sleeping. Same as in his everyday life. The change comes when he meets a special person and the meaningful questions arise.

With lots of wit and self-irony, the author takes its readers on an entertaining pilgrimage story. He reports on the truths and misconceptions of pilgrimage and takes his readers to all the corners of his journey of self-discovery.

- Entertaining and philosophical
- A story of walking the Way of St. James in Spain

The big Junkers aircraft book

Hugo Junkers and his constructions
 Helmut Erfurth

As an engineer, scientist and industrialist, Hugo Junkers was one of the most influential personalities responsible for the boom in German aviation in the 1920s to 1940s. The author draws a precise picture of the life and work of the aviation pioneer, who, among other things, also built measuring devices, metal houses, and heavy and light oil engines. The focus of this illustrated book, however, is the Junkers aircraft, especially the legendary Ju 52, which is presented with some previously unpublished photos.

- Hugo Junkers' life and work: aviation pioneer, researcher, industrialist, aircraft designer
- Numerous previously unpublished images from aircraft construction and operation
- With the complete chronicle of the Junkers works

144 pages, 22.5 x 27.1 cm, ~ 160 images

Junkers G 38: the gentle giant

The world record aircraft with the thick wings
 Helmut Erfurth

Four engines, huge dimensions, thick wings that could transport cargo and passengers. In other words: the largest passenger aircraft of its time. A technical daring that resulted in a high manufacturing price. In the end, only two machines were built in Germany. Six more followed under license in Japan. It is high time to pay tribute to this aviation sensation with this richly illustrated volume.

- The book on an aviation legend, the largest plane of its time
- Exceptional collection of historical original photographs

Advent season is DIY time!

When it is gray and dark outside, the kids have to be kept busy indoors. Preferably with craft ideas that are easy to implement even for the very young, with materials that can be found at home anyway. A star made of cotton swabs, a reindeer finger puppet made from craft scraps: the ideas in this book are fun and guaranteed to succeed.
