Tim Ruster, also known as „Astro-Tim“, is a science YouTuber and presenter who simplifies complex scientific concepts on his social media channels. His engaging videos bring the vastness of space closer to viewers, earning millions of views and demonstrating a widespread thirst for knowledge. In addition to his online presence, he is a successful author of several books about space.

► Expedition through our universe and the future of mankind

The young astronomer Tim Ruster explains the new great moments in space travel. We go on an expedition: we have been to the moon and sent probes to distant planets, moons and even to the outermost limits of the solar system. But what will the future hold for mankind in space? What visions and concepts currently exist? And are mankind perhaps even on the brink of new stellar moments of unimagined interstellar breakthroughs? We learn what fascinating ideas tomorrow's space travel has in store. Chapter by chapter, he provides an exciting outline of important milestones of the future – from the colonisation of Mars to interstellar travel – and the most important basic concepts of astronomy are explained in an easy-to-understand way. An inspiring look at the promising future of mankind in space!

Fermentation power, a new approach with plants from nature. Kimchi, kombucha, kefir, yoghurt – fermented foods have become an integral part of modern cuisine. No wonder, because these sour treats are not only tasty, but also very healthy! The use of wild or cultivated bacteria or yeasts preserves food and increases its vitamin and nutrient content enormously. In this book, the authors combine the art of fermentation with the powers of wild nature. A unique guide full of tasty and innovative ideas on how fermentation beginners and experts can add new flavour to their culinary lives.

► Bestselling author on genetics

It was long thought that a person's genes were immutably fixed. But today we know that we can very well influence the activation or deactivation of genes. Epigenetics gets to the bottom of this and investigates which factors can be consciously used to regulate our genes. What effects do our lifestyle, our diet or the diseases we suffer have on our genes? Which habits have a positive effect on our genes and which have a negative effect? And how can we consciously influence our own genes in order to live a healthier life? Biochemist Martin Auerswald addresses all these questions. He presents the current state of research in an understandable way and gives practical tips for everyday life.

► Fight the insulin resistance; exercises for a sustainable healthy life

What is insulin resistance – something like diabetes? Wrong, because while the latter has been documented since ancient times and is now one of the most widespread common ailments in Western civilisation, insulin resistance is even less well known and often goes undetected. In this book, Dr Bernhard Dickreiter sets out a very conscious impulse to holistically counteract the precursor disease of diabetes, obesity and the like. He answers the most important questions about cause and effect of insulin resistance and shows ways out of the insulin trap through diet, more exercise and conscious relaxation – for a healthier lifestyle.

► Dealing with high sensitivity; ending sensory overload

Being highly sensitive is a challenge, but the author celebrates these abilities to feel and see. Highly sensitive people suffer particularly from the everyday sensory overload. This title encourages highly sensitive people to recognise their sensitivity and see it as a strength, to have the courage to stand up for their own limits and the courage to accept themselves. With specific questions and exercises, it provides those affected with the ideal companion to a self-determined life.

Our Recommendations

„Great accessibility to difficult subjects, entertaining as well as informative. A very young and active author, who really knows and loves his stuff.“

„Which aroma has love? What is the best scent for which undertaking? A title that makes you want to immediately create these scents yourself, you can practically smell them while reading.“

„Hobby Horsing – not only a new and fun hobby for everyone, but quite an economic way as an introduction to the equine sports.“
