10 WAYS TO PUT A UNICORN TO SLEEP

Vanessa Pérez-Sauquillo Author
Mario Gushiken Illustrator

Beascoa, April 2023
Hardcover, 280 x 257 mm, 24 pp

Living with a unicorn is a lot of fun. But when night falls it is difficult to make them sleep... Here are the 10 ways to help a unicorn get to sleep, essential for bedtime.

Unicorns are affectionate and funny, and they love to play. But when night comes, they don't want to go to bed. A unicorn has to do many things before going to sleep: count fairies, turn off the rainbow, say goodbye to the monster that lives under the bed... But it cannot do it alone: it needs your help.

In this book you will find ten ways to help your unicorn get to sleep. Thus, the two of you will go to bed with a smile that will last you all night.

A BABY IS BORN: What Happens Inside Mom's Belly?

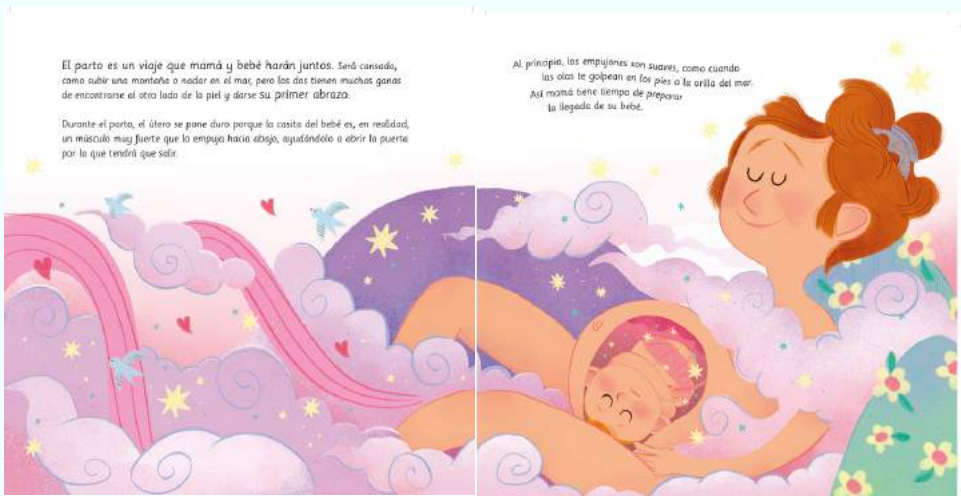

Nazareth Olivera Author
Marisa Morea Illustrator
Beascoa, June 2023
Hardcover, 270 x 270 mm, 32 pp

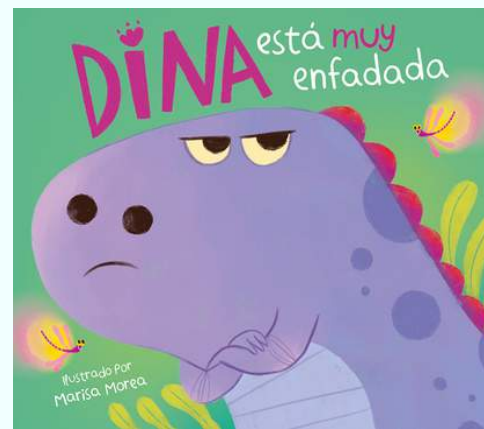

What happens inside mom's belly during pregnancy? All the little ones' questions about pregnancy, resolved in the first story by Nazareth Olivera, author of Being a Mom.

Inside mom's belly... is there a baby? How did she get there? What does she eat? How long will he be in there? And how is she going to get out? Nazareth Olivera, author of the successful Being a Mom, explains pregnancy to the youngest (and oldest) members of the family through a simple story. With full-color illustrations and a touch of humor, this album about pregnancy promises to resolve all doubts about how it is possible for there to be a baby inside mom's belly, in addition to entertaining and making the entire family learn. Ideal for future big brothers and sisters!

- The author is a real midwife with more than 90,000 followers on Instagram and 6,000 sold copies of her first book Being a Mom.

DINA THE TYRANNOSAURUS

Dina Is Really Mad

Dina Is Really Afraid

Marisa Morea Author

Beascoa, March 2022
Hardcover, 280 x 240 mm, 48 pp

A story about anger, friendship, diversity and the importance of asking for help when you need it.

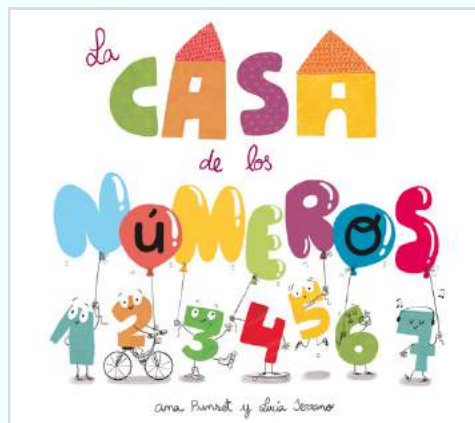

Dina Is Really Mad is the title of the first book in the series Dina the Tyrannosaurus, a collection of picture books about how to handle our feelings, featuring one of children's favorite animals as the star: a dinosaur.

Dina is a T-Rex, the most fearsome dinosaur in the wild. Other dinosaurs know that Dina's always in a bad mood, but they're never really sure why. One day, they find out: Dina's arms are so short she can't even scratch her itchy nose.

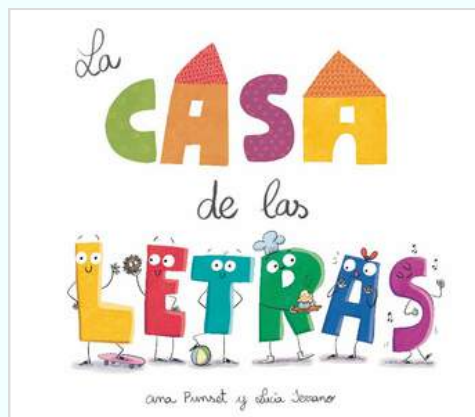

- Written in capital letters to help children who are learning to read.
- This series is focused on the value of friendship and the importance of asking for help whenever you need it, and offering to help whenever you can.

WE TREAT EACH OTHER WELL

Eligible for Institute Ramon Llull's Illustration Grant!

Lucía Serrano Author
 Beascoa, May 2023
 Hardcover, 240 x 280 mm, 36 pp
 Rights sold: Italy (Fabbri), Poland (Debit)
 Portugal (jacarandá)

A new book about friendship, respect, and the importance of treating each other well from the author of Your Body Is Yours.

We mustn't strive to be friends with everyone. But we must treat people well. Do you know how to do it?

This book by Lucía Serrano starts from the fact that we are all unique and different; from there it explains how we relate to others. Sometimes relationships are calm and serene, but other times we can feel bad about what others do. Or maybe we are the ones making someone else feel bad?

Based on a series of rules of good treatment, the book aims to explain what we should do. Although it is not mandatory to be friends with everyone, we must know how to get along.

THANK YOU, TEACHER

Eligible for Institute Ramon Llull's Illustration Grant!

Laia Berloso Author

Serres, May 2023
Hardcover, 270 x 230 mm, 32 pp

The perfect gift for that special teacher who has accompanied you during the course.

We all know the influence that teachers have, how much they care for us and teach us, and what better way to thank them than with this beautiful book.

A customizable gift in which you can paint, write and draw anecdotes and memories lived with the teacher and that will include all those reasons why teachers are so special and we are so grateful to them.

- With highly customizable content. Because every teacher deserves a unique gift!
- End of course gifts for teachers are increasingly popular.
- With very attractive full-color illustrations.

DADDY PAINTS A LOT

Eligible for Institute Ramon Llull's Illustration Grant!

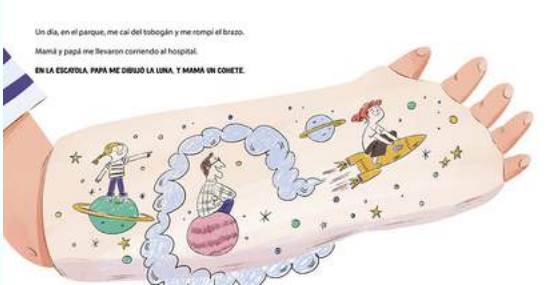

Bea Taboada Author
César Barceló Illustrator
 B de Blok, February 2023
 Hardcover, 240 x 250 mm, 24 pp
 Rights sold: Portugal (Alma dos Livros)

A new collection from Bea Taboada, author of Sometimes Mamma Has Thunder in Her Head, about real parenthood.

«When I was little, dad drew dinosaurs. Now he is an architect and draws houses and plans. But he also paints on my school diary».

An illustrated collection that doesn't idealize the father figure, but rather shows the realities of paternity and the shared responsibility between mothers and fathers. A story that reflects, from the eyes of a girl, what a normal father should be: committed, present in family life, involved in his daughter's daily activities—from talking to her teacher to taking her to the doctor.

Obligations that, on many occasions, fall on mothers, are the basic and functional tasks of a responsible adult. A story to celebrate that fathers—just like mothers do—paint a lot.

SKIN COLOR

Desirée Bela-Lobedde Author
Lydia Mba Illustrator
Penguin Kids, November 2021
Hardcover, 205 x 205 mm, 48 pp
Rights sold: South Korea (Dourei)

Because there isn't just one skin color, there are many!

A crayon shows up on the first day of school and thinks all the kids will use it to color pictures of themselves. But it's wrong. This is an overdue conversation in our society, especially when it comes to our little ones, helping them to unlearn stereotypes they shouldn't have been taught in the first place. This is a story about putting yourself in someone else's skin, learning that we're all different and recognizing that's something to celebrate.

A book by Desirée Bela-Lobedde, author of the successful Being a Black Woman in Spain.

En la fábrica de los colores, todos los colores están nerviosos y preparándose para el primer día de cole. Les han dicho que su trabajo es muy importante: ayudar a representar la realidad.
Color Azul pintará cielos claros, mares y ríos,
Color Verde, la hierba y los árboles, y Color Amarillo sueña con pintar soles radiantes.

Los niños llegan al colegio y se sientan en las sillas alrededor de la mesa. Todas las manos de los niños son distintas.
La maestra da indicaciones:
—Hoy toca dibujar qué hemos hecho en las vacaciones, dónde hemos estado y a nuestra Familia. ¿Qué os parece?

THE MAGIC OF SEASONS

Eligible for Institute Ramon Llull's Illustration Grant!

- Waldorf Pedagogy: a story to accompany children in their development, according to their maturational rhythm.
- Theme "The Seasons": an essential topic in the school curriculum.
- Author specializing in language and child development.
- Rhymed texts, perfect for learning to read and working on speech.

Tamara Chubarovsky Author
Mercè Tous Illustrator

B de Blok, September 2023
Hardcover, 280 x 270 mm, 32 pp

A rhymed story based on Waldorf pedagogy to work on reading and writing through play.

Story time is a magical time to enjoy as a family and can be of great help for the cognitive and emotional development of the little ones. According to experts, stories improve, among other aspects, the ability to generate mental images, concentration levels and listening skills, and both language and movement are key to promoting these benefits.

Tamara Chubarovsky, expert in language, child development and specialist in Waldorf pedagogy, brings us a story to see, hear and feel the seasons, introduce literacy and work on speech, sounds and sensory-motor development.

NADIA NEVER SAYS NOTHING

Eligible for Institute Ramon Llull's Illustration Grant!

- Childhood anxiety: one of the most discussed topics in child psychology and that worries families the most.
- A protagonist that all boys and girls can identify with.

Luisa Aguilar Author
Ricard López Illustrator
 Beascoa, November 2023
 Hardcover, 220 x 220 mm, 32 pp

After fifteen years, the author of Butterfly Ears returns with a story about childhood anxiety.

Fifteen years after launching the eternal Butterfly Ears, Luisa Aguilar returns to children's literature in style with a story about a girl's difficulty in expressing her emotions. Just as Mara conquered us with her particular vision of the world and bullying, Nadia, our new protagonist, will make us understand the importance of being able to express what we feel with freedom and tranquility.

Luisa Aguilar once again captivates us all with this delicate and poetic narrative about childhood anxiety, one of the least talked about and most present topics among the youngest and oldest of all families.

CAPTAIN ARSENIO

“A book should give the opportunity to wake up the appetite to read more, to keep on seeking. To avoid the passive role other formats give and link directly to the child's imagination. It has to nourish and simultaneously entertain. Must show that is friendly tool, where the neurons can do gymnastics without suffering.”

The Diary of Captain Arsenio

Sudamericana, November 2007
Hardcover, 195 x 270 mm, 32 pp

Two books with an absolutely brave, creative and a bit crazy protagonist who will show kids the beauty of the invention's world and how to believe in your ideas!

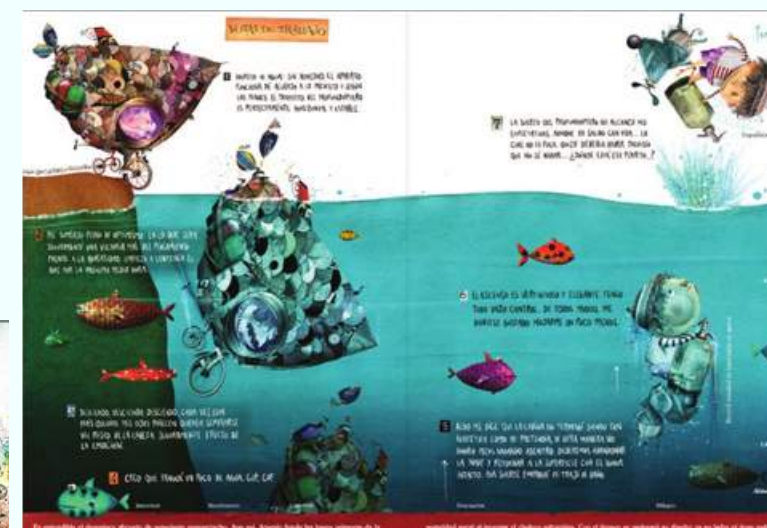

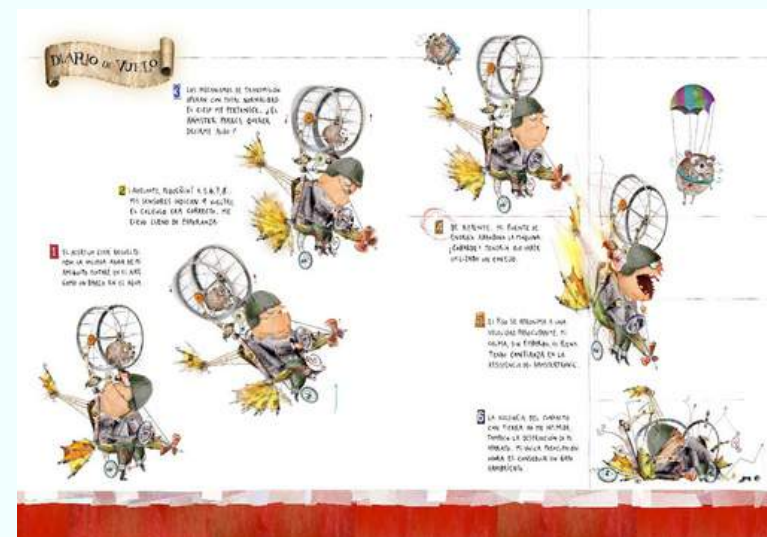

Flying, one of the oldest known desires, has inspired hundreds of fantastic creations. From Daedalus, the Greek architect, to the successful Wright brothers, history saw countless adventurers whose only and dangerous desire was to accompany the flight of birds. A reckless whim that often ended in failure. Scientists, philosophers, doctors, but above all crazy people, populate this extensive gallery of precursors of aviation. Each one made their own contribution, sometimes right, sometimes not so much. This is the story of one of them.

The Dreams of Captain Arsenio

In this story, we will meet Captain Arsenio as a child and learn the history of his other modern inventions: a scooter (the stampineta), the grass cutter (or swallower), the microwave oven (or heaterscope), the submarine (or profundóptero) and the elevator (or chanchovador), among others.

- Author and illustrator recognized internationally for the quality and originality of his works. In 2012 he was nominated as an Argentine illustrator for the H. Ch. Andersen Award.

"I consider children do not need to be taught about anything. I think they can naturally be safe from teachings and I promote it so. Short stories, stories are special ingredients that accompany their growth. My intention is to take another way. In this sense, rhetoric and metaphor work well, they are kind enough to be a helping hand without pulling imagination apart"

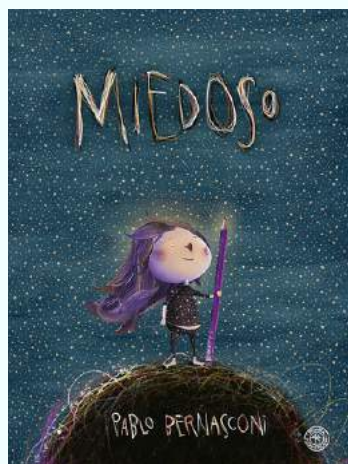

THE REAL EXPLANATION

Sudamericana, May 2013
Hardcover, 160 x 225 mm, 64 pp

The book tells us in an original, ingenious and crazy way, the true explanation of certain things: how was the Earth formed? How are nightmares created? How is the wind produced? Where do good ideas come from? How is thunder formed? Where does laughter come from?

In this beautiful album book, this comprehensive author presents the craziest and most ingenious material of all his work. He composed strange, funny and witty explanations about everyday issues and illustrated them in such a way that the words plus the illustrations make up the text of this book. Born from a conversation with his own son, it invites kids to foster their logics, curiosity and love for knowledge.

FEARFUL

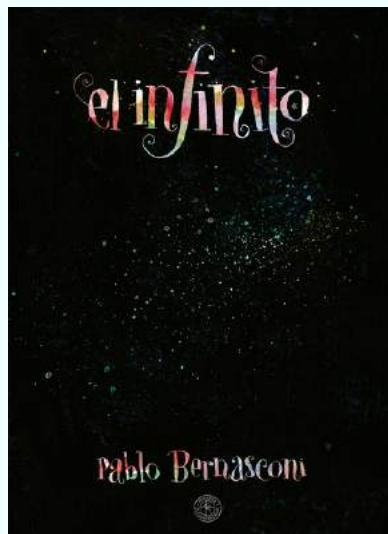

Sudamericana, October 2021
Hardcover, 160 x 225 mm, 65 pp

Why is fear fearful? Do we always have to be brave? What are fears for? What form do they take? What do they feed on? I am brave, but sometimes... I am afraid and yet...

Underneath Nina's bed lives a huge, enormous monster. It has thick nose hairs which poke out between orange snot. It has nine legs: one crocodile leg, one quail leg, three Chihuahua legs, two giraffe legs, one zebra leg and the last one is also a zebra leg, but from another zebra.... But this monstrous monster never leaves its den. Do you know why...?

INFINITY

Sudamericana, July 2018
Softcover with flaps, 160 x 225 mm, 64 pp

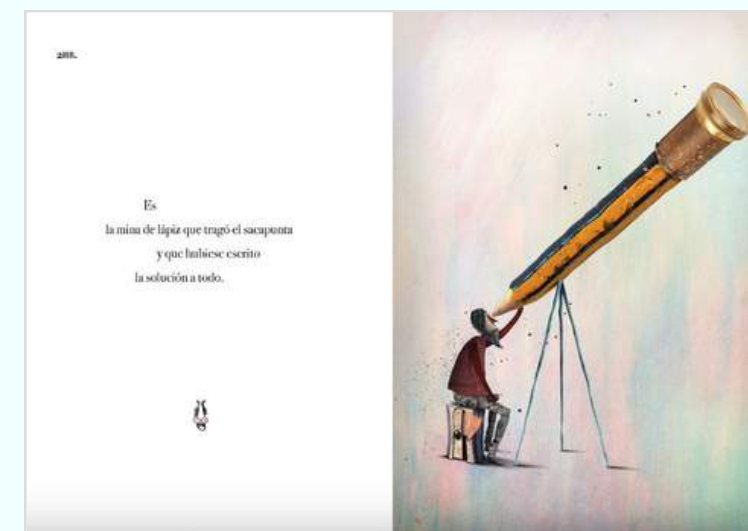

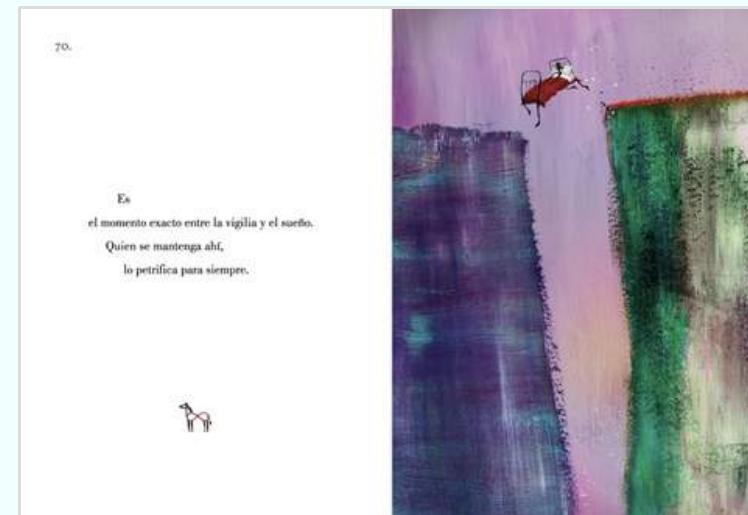

Another masterpiece by Pablo Bernasconi, finalist for the prestigious Hans Christian Andersen Prize 2022 and one of the most important integral artists in Spanish who mixes philosophy, fantasy and games in a delightful and intelligent way for young readers.

What is infinity? Is it far away or closer than we think?

Pablo Bernasconi combines his marvelous illustrations with a poetic text that tries to put into words what neither children nor grown-ups are truly able to comprehend: infinity.

Seized by this question since a young age, these pages are imaginative reflections on the beauty of life, little things, impossible questions and the mystery of our condition.

An album book with unforgettable sensitivity and refinement to read and treasure

MY BROTHER ISIDORO AND THAT'S IT

Cintia Roberts Author
May Clerici Illustrator

Sudamericana, March 2023
Hardcover, 280 x 240 mm, 32 pp

Amanda and Isidro are siblings. Isidro has Down syndrome and one rainy afternoon Amanda understands a little more about "that condition." The thing is that just as there is one world of Amanda, there are many other worlds. And Isidro's has words that come out like bubbles, fluffy hugs, some strong anger and many smiles.

"Isidro and I are siblings. Isidro and I also play like brothers and we fight like brothers. Isidro has something that makes him mysterious, because despite making me angry, he makes me laugh a lot and also gives the fluffiest hugs in the entire world."

This is the story of the day I understood more about Isidro and that condition, the day I began to understand that everyone, we are all unique.

Hardcover, 270 x 300 mm, 64 pp
Rights sold: France (Eyrolles), Italy (Mondadori)
Portugal (PRHGE), Poland (JednośĆ),
Basque (Erein Argitaletxea)

A precious collection about the invisible bonds that give us roots and reconnecting with ourselves, two facts which make us happy and stable adults.

According to psychologists and parenting specialists, a stable bond gives children the strength to overcome traumatic experiences and develop emotionally. The present illustrated collection shows us in a way that the whole family will love what a bond is (in nature, among animals and human beings) and why it is important.

- The Invisible Thread has been in the Amazon's Spanish top 100 albums of the year.

THE HIDDEN FOUNTAIN

B de Blok, April 2021
Hardcover, 270 x 300 mm, 64 pp

A beautifully illustrated album that teaches us how to connect with ourselves and look for the essence we carry within.

Pol used to love singing. When he sang, he felt like he was flying. It was as if he could spread some imaginary wings and visit places in the world that he had never been to before. It was as if he could touch the sky with his hands. He often wondered if that sensation had a name. Happiness? Peace? He was sure that it was something even stronger than that.

SENSITIVE

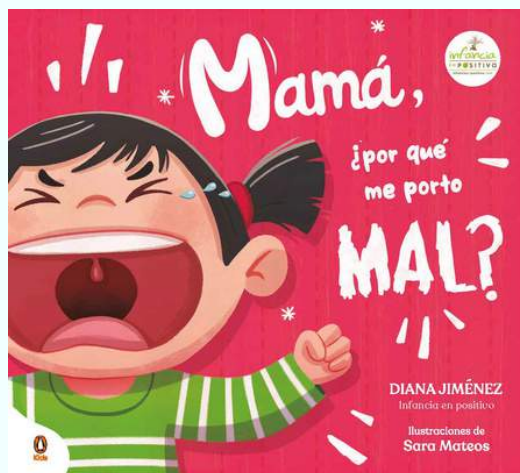

B de Blok, September 2022
Hardcover, 278 x 307 mm, 64 pp

After The Invisible Thread and The Hidden Fountain, Miriam Tirado is back with a new picture book that encourages us to embrace our feelings and sensitivity.

Everyone is sensitive, but highly sensitive boys and girls are especially vulnerable to the stimuli around them; they're less able to tolerate noise, more bothered by itchy clothes, or need space in order to think clearly. After talking about bonds in her first picture book and searching for our essence in the second one, Miriam Tirado dedicates her third children's book to a very important topic that affects children in particular: sensitivity and high sensitivity.

MOM, WHY DO I MISBEHAVE?

- Neuropsychology for everyday life: understanding and managing emotions by understanding the brain.

- Profile with great engagement: with more than 110k followers on Instagram, the author is a reference in positive discipline.

- Fundamental story: to know the child's emotions thanks to its scientific basis and manage them better as a family.

Diana Jiménez Author
Sara Mateos Illustrator

Penguin Kids, October 2023
Hardcover, 280 x 250 mm, 48 pp

A story to read as a family and discover how the brain works, and together we can understand our emotions.

To understand emotions we have to understand our brain! Inside it there are three little animals: the crocodile (primitive brain), the little monkey (limbic and emotional brain) and the turtle (rational neocortex brain). And depending on who is in charge, we behave one way or another!

With an educational approach, this story presents in a very visual and simple way one of the great concerns of all parents: is it normal for my child to have tantrums? A tool for adults and children to learn all the keys to emotional management in a fun and tender way.

I DON'T WANT TO GO TO SCHOOL!

Daniel López Author
Valentí Possa Illustrator

Serres, July 2023
Hardcover, 247 x 247 mm, 32 pp

A story to prepare and accompany children for that special moment: the start of school.

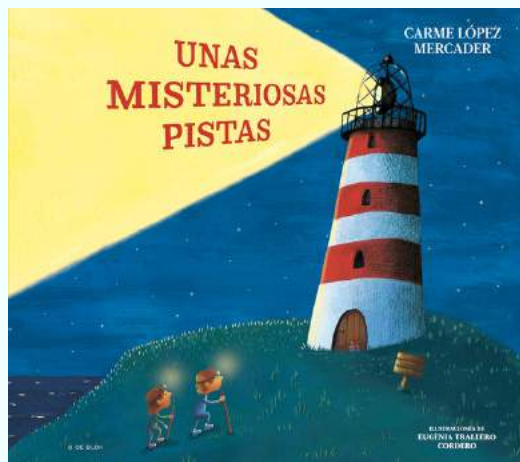

I have been hearing that I am going to go to school for a long time, it seems that there are many boys and girls who do not want to go and but I am dying to know what "going to school" means.

From the hand of the charismatic teacher Danny comes a story about the first day of school and all the emotions that it produces in us; explained with humor and with the closeness of a teacher with Danny's experience and talent

- A tender and fun story in equal parts.
- Perfect to accompany boys and girls in the change from daycare to "grown-up" school.
- Author with a great presence on social networks.

WHAT SHOULD I DO WITH MY EMOTIONS?

Anna Morató Author
Laura Estrada Illustrator
Beascoa, September 2023
Hardcover, 228 x 212 mm, 64 pp

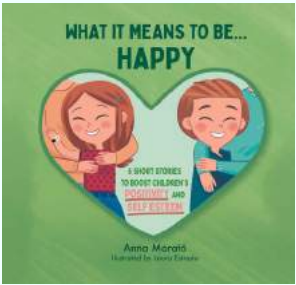

The protagonists of this book are Julia and her gang of friends. With them we will LEARN, UNDERSTAND, EXPLORE AND PRACTICE the management of emotions.

In this book there are no magic formulas or immediate solutions. It is not about erasing the emotions that make us feel bad. It is about explaining to the little ones in a very visual way what to do with their emotions. And who are the ones who can explain it best? Well, it is the adults around them who have to explain it to them with a lot of patience, like when they teach them to read, write or ride a bike.

This book provides a beautiful opportunity to do this valuable and necessary life learning together.

Alexia and Tasi are hooked on their tablets. There's nothing Rocky can do to let them come off. Luckily, Florestán comes and invites them to live an adventure of a lifetime.
Because it's good to have cell phones, but it's also good to reconnect with people and the world that surrounds us.

Siguiendo a Florestán, los niños se pusieron sus paraguasombleros y se agarraron a la escalilla del
Barco de las Emociones. Pero esta vez, en lugar de hacia arriba, ¡bajaba hacia la calle! Y bajando, bajando, se encontraron todos en
medio de un buen charco de agua...
—Pero, Florestán, ¿qué haces? ¿Qué
es esto? ¡Estamos en la calle!
—protestaron los niños—. ¡Y el bar-
co está arriba!
—Claro, ya os he dicho que para encontrar alegría no hace falta ir lejos—repitió Florestán con firmeza—. ¡Nos quedamos aquí! ¡En vuestro barrio! Vamos al mercado.

A delightful, tender and humorous story – beautifully illustrated – that encourages children to think and act for themselves.

An extraterrestrial boy arrives at Tomas's school as an exchange student. The experiences they share lead to some very amusing situations, while highlighting the different perspectives of their two cultures. The alien asks Tomas about this strange behavior.

Why this? Why that? That's the way things have always been! Although... couldn't Tomas change things if he put his mind to it?

When Little Mole wakes up... there's no peace for anyone! He loses things. He can't sit still for a single second. They have all kinds of words to describe him: restless, hyperactive, nervous, annoying, impulsive... His parents are worried. His teachers are desperate.

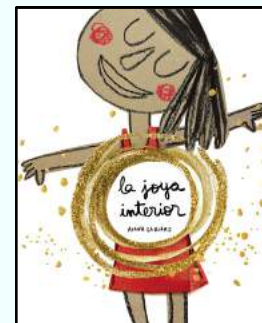

Everything is peaceful in the forest until Little Mole wakes up. It's hard for him to pay attention, he doesn't do his homework, loses things, breaks fragile objects... even the other kids are sick of poor Mole! It has been days since anyone has wanted to play with him... The adults say a lot of stuff about him: that he's very nervous, good for nothing, a weirdo... But one day, his parents take him to have a class with the Forest Fairy. Will Little Mole manage to change his "labels"? And most important of all: will he be able to finish his class project on time?

THE INNER JEWEL & VOID

Lumen Ilustrados, November 2021
Hardcover, 230 x 278 mm, 64 pp
Rights sold: France, Italy, Portugal, Brazil, Turkey

A crossover book for adults and children who want to understand the importance of self-care.

Lumen Ilustrados, September 2021
Hardcover, 230 x 278 mm, 84 pp
Rights sold in 10 languages

A key topic: the value of self-understanding and knowing how to find the essence inside ourselves.

As we grow up, the world makes us look outward, rather than inward at our own needs, emotions, reflections... and slowly, we lose our connection to our inner jewel. Because no matter how many times we stumble, make a mistake or mess up, we shouldn't forget that if we have our inner jewel, we'll never be alone; we'll have ourselves for company.

Julia is a normal girl who lives at the top of a big hill in a small house in an average-sized town. Her life was quiet and happy until, one day, it fell apart, and she was left with nothing but emptiness. She tried to fill it in a thousand different ways, with lots of different things. But nothing rid her of that empty feeling... Until one day, she heard a voice that changed her perspective. That's where the secret lay. In the words of the author, "Void is a book that talks to us about resilience, or the ability to overcome adversity and find the hidden meaning inside."

ERWIN THE QUANTUM CAT 1: Mystery Through Time

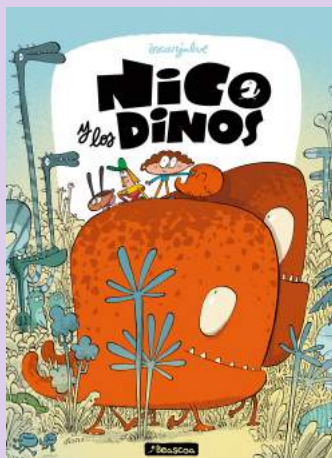

Oscar Julve Author
Beascoa, October 2023
Hardcover, 155 x 215 mm, 96 pp

A cat, a robot and science fiction mysteries! Discover the adventures of Erwin, the Quantum Cat; the new comic series for early readers by Manuel Bartual.

Erwin is a special cat. Not because he talks (which he does), and not because he walks on two legs (which too), or because his best friend is a robot named MARVIN with a screen for a head. Erwin is special because he is a quantum cat, and that allows him to travel in time, among many other things. In this first adventure, Erwin and MARVIN will travel to the past to prevent Biotopia, the world in which they live, from being completely destroyed by the evil Dr. Rufián. But things get complicated when Erwin and MARVIN realize that, in reality, the cause of the apocalypse could be... themselves! Erwin, the quantum cat is the first comic for early readers by Manuel Bartual.

NICO & THE DINOS

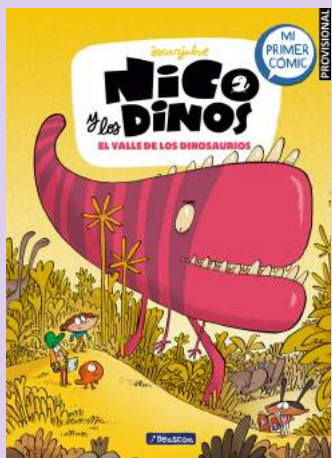

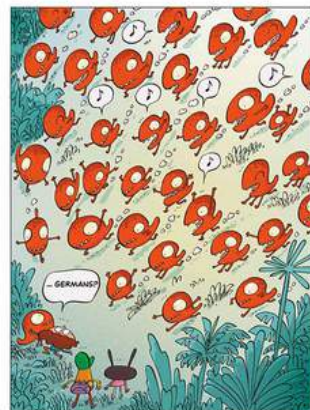

Oscar Julve Author

Beascoa, June/November 2023
Hardcover, 155 x 215 mm, 64 pp

A hilarious Jurassic dino-adventure to make you laugh non-stop! The new children's comic book by Oscar Julve, creator of I, Elvis Riboldi and Aventura Total.

In the middle of the forest, on the way to the bandit's rock, Nico stumbles over a stone and... surprise! It's not a stone but a dinosaur egg! From that day on, Nico becomes Dino's "human daddy" and begins an adventure that is as dino-fun as it is dino-exciting. Nico embarks on the quest to find out what a Jurassic offspring is doing on Earth, and where its real dino-awesome parents are.

Nico and the Dinos is the latest comic book series from Beascoa's My First Comic collection.

A comic about dinosaurs, adventures and more dinosaurs that will delight all boys and girls who are starting to read alone.

Ever since Nico stumbled upon Dino's egg, human and dinosaur have become inseparable. Together they discovered a secret door to a Jurassic world, the valley of the dinosaurs, a wonderful place full of dinosaurs where they will meet Silva, a brave girl who has grown up among them and with whom they will live exciting adventures. But Mr. Gil, the dangerous egg collector who kept the key to the valley, wants to capture all the dinosaurs to become rich and famous. Can Nico and his friends prevent it and keep the valley safe?

Beascoa, February/November 2020
Hardcover, 200 x 260 mm, 48 pp
FR sold: USA (Graphic Universe)

The children's comic series from Artur Laperla, the creator of Super Potato.

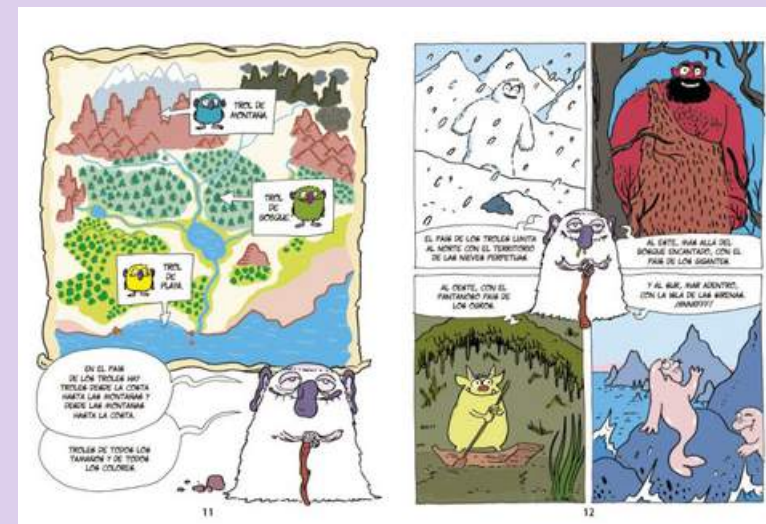

#1 Epic! A troll has sneaked into Felix's room! And... yuk! It smells like... rotten cheese! Her name is Calcite, she has come through the toy chest and eats stones, yes, yes, stones! Félix will discover that his house connects with the world of trolls, he will travel there with Calcita and will discover that they have been fighting with the gnomes for years.

Will Felix get trolls and gnomes to be friends again? And... will he make it back home in time for dinner?

#2 Total fail! Félix has looked in every corner of the house and has turned his room upside down and... confirmed! Robocan has disappeared and his remote control gives no signal. Normal, Felix's favorite toy is lost in the land of giants, where huge, hairy red monsters live. Luckily, Calcita will accompany him on this rescue mission and demonstrate his troll skills.

#3 Félix and Calcita's amusing adventures continue. After helping resolve the misunderstanding that pitted the gnomes and trolls against each other and rescuing Robocan in the land of the giants, Félix and Calcita will travel to the land of the ogres on an important mission: to find the muddy stone and save the Master Troll.

Action, adventure, fantastic characters, and lots of bad jokes. All this in the third volume of Felix and Calcita.

LILY HALFMOON

Enter a new world of witches and magic with the Lily and the Magic Gems' universe.

Lily Halfmoon seems like your average little girl, although lately strange things have been happening to her. Everything flies around her, it rains inside her house... Lily and her family have just moved to the town of Piedravalles and seems to be a place where nothing extraordinary happens. Or maybe it does? A library that hides a magic school, a creature that threatens the town, and magical new friendships that will help Lily discover that she is the only witch who can save the town of Piedravalles.

The new witchy schoolyear is upon us! Samhain (or, as non-magicians know it, Halloween!) Is a festival in early autumn to celebrate the world going dark and the beginning of long nights. It's scary, right? Well, in the Royal Library of Piedravalles, they are preparing everything to celebrate it for three long days and nights! Nothing could go wrong, but clouds are beginning to close in on the Council's bright sky. The steering committee of the Royal Library suspects that the corrupted gem is more familiar than they first imagined. Why did someone send a ruminant and what was the purpose of it? Could it have something to do with Lily's gem? Or is it the Workers' Union best kept secret?

Bruguera, April/November 2022
Hardcover, 210 x 290 mm, 48 pp

The new series of Magicians of Humour, Bruguera's lighthouse collection, is brought to you by one of the most prestigious and best-selling authors on the Spanish scene: Pedro Mañas.

McMoon is an intelligent but naive, stubborn and somewhat clumsy girl. The story begins when Frida and the rest of her class go to the Great Museum of Art, History and Science in their city. Frida is eager to visit, but an incident with her teacher and classmates causes her to become separated from the group and trapped inside the museum... only to discover that, at night, in the most unlikely corners of the building, a host of mysterious guests lurk, leaving their hiding places after dark! Although they are reluctant to talk to her at first, Frida will eventually discover that those strange boys are in fact... THE GUARDIANS OF TIME!

After the adventure in the museum, where Frida met the chrononauts and became one of the team of trainees, comes a new mission for time travelers!

This time, the apprentices, bored with studying, start a pitched battle with rusty armor and old swords... but they end up punished by Madame Curie, and having to clean the museum's warehouses. In them, they will discover a mysterious armor that has turned to pure gold... which means that someone is, once again, altering the past, and, specifically, the year of the piece: 1293. Solving this mystery and restoring time will be a mission for... Frida McMoon and the chrononauts!

ATLAS OF EXTRAORDINARY PLACES

Pedro Torrijos Author
Laufer Illustrator
Beascoa, November 2022
Hardcover, 270 x 350 mm, 48 pp

Discover the six continents by visiting their most unique locations, described for little ones by Twitter star Pedro Torrijos.

They say that in Antarctica there's a building shaped like a caterpillar that ploughs over piledup snow on skis. They also say in a desert city in the Middle East there are skyscrapers built on sand. And we know that once, in Taiwan, they built a city with colorful UFOs. In Atlas of Extraordinary Places, Pedro Torrijos leverages his talent as a writer and architecture expert to share these wonders with the young and the curious. An easy, fun, and educational book.

Softcover with flaps, 160 x 230 mm, 160 pp

Everything you should know to have consiente sex - from day one

Okay, so now we know how to put a condom on a penis and how to prevent STIs. But are you really not going to tell us anything else? With total honesty and without mincing her words, Sonia Encinas tells us everything we need to know (and no one dares to tell us) to enjoy our sex life without fears or taboos.

How can I learn to love my body? Is it normal to have sexual fantasies? Is it bad to masturbate a lot? Is it bad not to masturbate? How can I find out if I like boys, girls or everyone? How can I have relations that make me feel good? And, above all: Why does nobody talk about pleasure? If you are going to have sex... Do it with information. Do it with permission. Do it with pleasure.

AINA PÉREZ

Ana Pérez was born in Almansa (Albacete) in 2000. She decided to study psychology because she always felt that she needed to know a little more about her mind, and of other people's, to be able to better manage everyday life and help those who need it... Graphic design is another of her great passions, which is why she created the account @nacidramatica, where she shares psychology tips with a direct, practical, useful and stylish approach.

Takeaway Therapy is a short, fresh, agile and very useful book: to take with you everywhere and consult as a little counselor. It is made up of 20 key concepts of psychology and 5 practical tools to better carry out day-to-day life: relativize, avoid dichotomous thoughts, manage failure and fear, understand emotions...

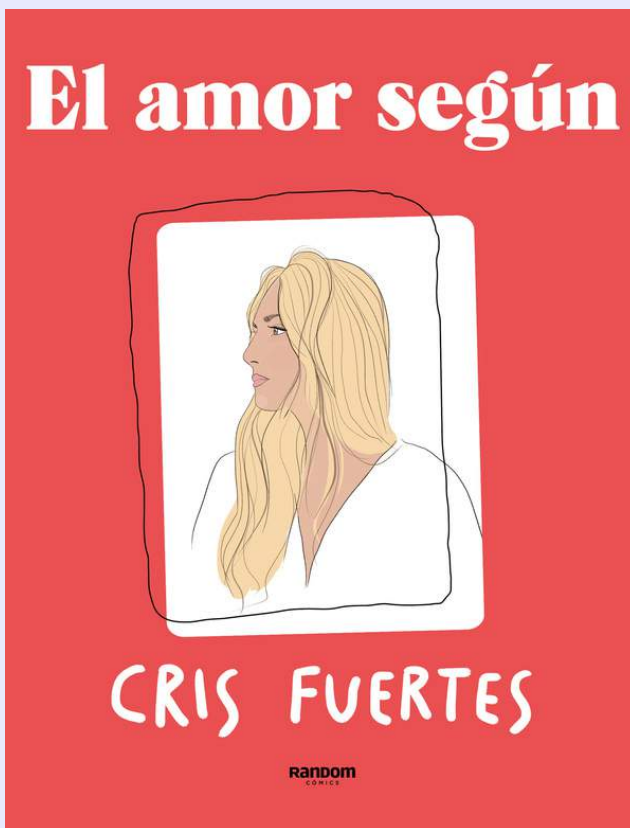

It deals with the topics that interest them the most, with examples of their day-to-day situations, and above all with their own language: humour, drawings and graphics and a very pop and striking aesthetic.

CRIS FUERTES

Cris Fuertes lives by and for music, literature and cinema. The love she has for her art has made her the artist she is today. Love According to Her is her first book, in which she will delve into the most important events in her life: the death of her father, her first relationships, her work, etc. At times to the rhythm of the Beatles and Julio Iglesias and at others to the rhythm of Leiva and Arctic Monkeys

LOVE ACCORDING TO...

Random Comics
March 2023

Hardcover
170 x 220 mm, 128 pp

The first book by Cris Fuertes, the illustrator who has revolutionized social networks with her particular vision of love, always to the rhythm of the best music.

Through the very close relationship that the author has with music - which is present in each and every notable moment of her life - Cristina Fuertes builds this book, which also has some very beautiful illustrations, many of them exclusive.

Love According to Cristina Fuertes offers the opportunity for readers to immerse themselves in a private diary; one in which the image has replaced the word because this illustrator expresses herself from the drawing with total sincerity, without hiding anything and without ceasing to portray herself on each page.

With hundreds of thousands of followers on her Instagram account (@cris.fuertes), where she not only publishes her illustrations but also talks about curiosities from the world of music and literature, the young artist has become one of the better evidence of the power that music has on emotions, feelings and memories.

The result is a book to enjoy, in which opening any page will make the reader connect directly with some moment in their past or present and that, through the life of Cris Fuertes and music, they can be moved, reflect, laugh, cry and, why not, fall in love again.

Alberto Sánchez Illustrator
 B de Blok, December 2020
 Hardcover, 135x215mm, 176 pp
 Rights sold: Italy (Gribaudo), Russia (Eksmo)

This story can't move forward without you. Decide the course of the adventure and become an expert hunter of myths and legends.

You had plans for this summer: pool, console and games of Goblins and Dungeons with your friends. But your parents said: «You will spend the entire summer with your grandmother, there is nothing more to talk about.»

The entire summer away from home and ALONE with your grandmother? Let's see, it's not that you don't love her, but spending the holidays with an old lady is not your ideal option!

What you don't know is that your grandmother is dedicated to traveling the country looking for legendary creatures and this summer she has been determined to find a dragon in Sierra Morena. And it looks like you're going to help her.

Come on, your grandmother is not a normal grandmother. Neither does this book. It's a gamebook!

Because it turns out that your grandmother is not a documentary filmmaker, but a hunter of legends. And you're going to have to help her find and protect creatures that you thought only existed in your imagination. And your summer plan also includes... enemies.

In Legend Hunters, readers will put themselves in the shoes of a character that they will create from the first book and, following a game-book and role-playing mechanic, they will travel through the different regions of Spanish geography investigating local creatures and legends.

- With it you can play to live different stories following a series of rules: get a dice, choose the characteristics of your character and make decisions based on his personality to immerse yourself in this adventure with multiple endings.

 B de Blok, December 2020
 Hardcover, 135x215mm, 176 pp
 Rights sold: Italy (Gribaudo), Russia (Eksmo)

The Last Mermaid, awarded the 2018 Boolino Prize, is a fascinating story about friendship, the magic of the sea, and everything that a summer can change our lives.

Clara is an eleven-year-old girl whose frenetic life is cut short due to a serious family crisis. When summer arrives, Clara is forced to give up the camps her friends go to and spend the entire summer with her aunt and uncle on a small island in the Mediterranean. In her uncle's house, Clara discovers that she is capable of leading a quiet life, in contact with nature, and entertaining herself. The place is beautiful and Clara is fascinated by her enigmatic aunt Esmeralda: a lady who reminds her of an elf queen, she is in a wheelchair and sings wonderfully, but breathes melancholy and mystery. But little by little Clara realizes that neither her uncles nor her island are as peaceful and kind as they seem. What are her uncles hiding from her? Where do the songs heard every night come from and... who is the mysterious young woman who swims at dawn on the beach?

THE MEIGAS' REVENGE

Jara Santamaría Author

B de Blok, November 2023
Hardcover, 150 x 215 mm, 272 pp

A new danger stalks the magical world of Alboria: someone has broken the peace treaty between witches and magical creatures, and any wrong step could spark a war that would end up destroying all magic.

To save her, Ingrid must discover who her true enemy is. However, not everything is what it seems.

TO SAVE THE MAGIC, SHE MUST LEARN TO TRUST HER ALLIES...AND HERSELF.

Months have passed since her adventure in Alboria and Ingrid tries to continue with her life in Oscuritas, our world. However, she will soon discover that the fantastic land she discovered last summer needs her once again.

Ingrid and her friends must travel to Imberis—which humans know as Galicia, Asturias and Cantabria—to restore peace between witches and magical creatures before it is too late. And, in the process, they will try to discover who has broken the peace and survive in the northern lands of the country, full of magic and unexpected dangers. Powerful forces lurk in the shadows and will change the fate of both worlds forever.

Míriam Tirado makes the leap to Middle Grade with a series set to become a benchmark for adolescence.

Goa is a girl like any other but, overnight, her world turns upside down. His parents are separated! And, suddenly, she will have two houses, her father has a new partner and she... a little brother!

There are many things for a 12-year-old girl, who just wants to be with her friends, go to camps and take advantage of the little moments that they let her spend with the tablet to chat with the boy she likes. So when she has a moment, she shares her thoughts and emotions in a video diary that she records for herself. Because when you're 12, it's easy to think that no one can understand you... and that you wish life had an instruction manual.

¡Bien! Era el mes de abril, el 25 para ser exactos, y se notaba en el ambiente que estaba vez iba a ser un verano. La casa de Goa era de las de antes, de las que todavía no han sido derribadas para construir un edificio nuevo de ocho plantas y que sobreviven en las ciudades sin que nadie sepa cómo. Pero era acogedora. Estaba decorada con gusto y siempre había perfume, tanto algo que a Julia, que la había comprado hacía tantos años, antes de tener a Goa, le encantaba. Aquí ella, en el patio, todo el mundo miraba a la niña de pelo rizado y gafas de color azul marino con aquella cara que pone la gente en los cumpleaños cuando alguien va a robar la velas.

¡Qué vergüenza!, pensó Goa, que no se iba a poder llevar de las treinta fotos que su madre estaba a punto de hacer. Cansó los ojos y comenzó a pensar: ¿Qué difícil elegir solo un decenio? ¡Qué sea tener que ser así y no tres! ¡O cuatro, ya por favor! ¡Total, al menos era gratis, por qué no! Siempre le había costado elegir. Antes de decidir, pensaba en todos los variables del mundo y, entonces, todavía le costaba más elegir una de ellas. Le empezó a pasar cuando era pequeña y, aunque ahora ya era mayor y gestionaba mejor algunas cosas, le seguía pareciendo difícil decidir.

Susi, Vega and Dani are three inseparable friends, but each one of them is a world. Dani's parents have separated, Vega isn't sure who she is, and Susi, who has always been the best at everything, feels like her life is being derailed by anxiety.

But together they can do everything, because that's what friends are for!

Dani's parents have separated and she has no desire to start a new school, Vega is not entirely sure that Martina, her best friend ever, is a real good friend and Susi, who has always been the best in everything, he is very afraid of failing.

Susi, Vega and Dani couldn't be more different. Between themselves and others. But when they learn that together they can do everything, they will become inseparable.

A series about the value of being unique and friendship.

Por eso es mi mejor amiga. Por eso también dejo que haga lo que quiera.
Ser amiga de Martina es para mí muy importante. NADA LO QUE QUIERA POR ELLA!
Estamos en el patio. Durante los recreos, en vez de jugar, lo que nos gusta hacer es pasear o sentarnos a hablar en un banco. Hoy nos toca lo primero, así que caminamos del brazo mientras Martina charla de sus cosas.
La observo cuando habla y estoy contenta de verla tan animada. También estoy contenta porque ha cambiado de tema, la verdad. ¡Ya, era, hora!

«Se acabaron las competiciones! Por fin volveremos a ser solo nosotras dos y nadie más...»
—¡Eh, Martina!
Paramos y buscamos a la persona que ha dicho eso. Un chico de nuestra clase se acerca corriendo hacia nosotras mientras saluda. Se llama Raúl y está en el equipo de fútbol.
He me cae muy bien, la verdad.
Un día hablé de él en casa. Raúl había ganado un partido con un gol tremendo y lo celebraba con sus amigos de una forma un poco... fea. Como alegrándose de que los otros hubieran perdido y no de su victoria, como hace Martina. Creo que por eso lo comenénté mientras comíamos. Aunque mamá no me hizo caso, Max empezó a reírse de mí. Dijo que parecía que le tenía BMW, pero que tenía que aguantarme porque las chicas no juegan al fútbol. Cuando dijo eso, Richi se metió y dijo que el fútbol era para todo el mundo, TANTO CHICOS COMO CHICAS. Entonces, como siempre, mis hermanos empezaron a pelear.
Al final mamá acabó castigándolos a los dos. El enfado le duró toda la tarde. Yo recuerdo haberme quedado muy rara pensando que nunca le había dicho a nadie que quería jugar al fútbol, aunque fuera verdad. Por alguna razón, que Richi lo hubiera adivinado me hizo sentir muy INCOMODA. Por eso fui a preguntarle.

La búsqueda de Dani, la chica nueva, no va muy bien el resto de la semana. Solo la veo en clase. Pero en clase no le puedo hablar, claro, y cuando terminamos sale corriendo y desaparece. ¡ME FUE TANTO PENSANDO POR CON ELLA!
Pasaron varios días. Hacemos el examen de Lengua (el examen en el que se ha apostado ganar a Martina). Todo el mundo está expectante por saber quién ganará, pero yo solo estoy nerviosa por no poder hablar con ella. Al final estoy tan frustrada que tomo una decisión: voy a hacerlo delante de todos. Si, ¡y me da igual que Martina me vea y se ría! Si la única forma de hablarle es en clase, pues que así sea...
Por eso el viernes, sin aguantarlo más, lo hago. Decido hablarle. Me planto en clase, dispuesta a saludarla por primera vez, llena de nervios. ¡BUNA! ¡BUNA! ¡Ojalá quiera ser mi amiga! Hasta he practicado en casa qué decirle para no quedarme en blanco... Pero, justo cuando me pongo a su lado y abro la boca, alguien me interrumpe.
Y no, no es Martina, es la profe!
—¡Buenos días a todo el mundo! He corregido los exámenes. ¡Y si damos las notas antes de empezar?

 They are THE CLUB OF THE BRAVE!
 María Menéndez-Ponte's series to experience the greatest adventure of all: daring to be yourself.

Kavinchi, Martina, Nico and Lu had nothing in common. Nothing, except that they can't stand injustice. They got together to fight against bullying at school and thus helped two classmates, but it seems that something strange is happening in another course... Will they be able to help someone who is closing in on a group? Be that as it may, they are going to try with all their might: They are THE CLUB OF THE BRAVE!

#1 No One Is Invisible

#2 You Can Count On Me

Kavinchi is the opposite of Martina. He spends all his evenings at the park with his dog and his skate. She is never alone: her friends love her for always being perfect, they even follow her to History class! Lucía has never talked to Nico: she already has her band even if she doesn't always feel well with them, and he doesn't have a minute to lose in such thoughts because he is always training for the next basketball match.

Each of them has their own concerns, but when strange things start happening at school they do not hesitate: they must get united and find out what's going on. Despite not having anything in common, they realize there's something they share: they can't stand injustices. This is the reason why they will get together and live an adventure which will unite them forever. They are the Bravehearts Club!

Random Comics, May 2023
Softcover with flaps, 150 x 230 mm, 384 pp

The first illustrated novel by Gema Vadillo: Friendship, love, Berlin and... trips through the looking glass?

If you see a graffiti on the wall that says it will rain tomorrow, you probably won't even look at it, but

What if that graffiti predicts your future?

Aaron works in a coffee shop and settles for little. The tranquility of routine won't last long because one night, at a nightclub, Aaron sees a man jump into a mirror.

Wait to?

Yellow graffiti that predicts the future, trips between mirrors, unknown travelers, a kidnapping and a conspiracy that has plagued Berlin: what do those graffiti mean? And, above all, who is behind them?

A plot full of intrigue and mystery, and incredible full-color illustrations.

Do you dare to cross the mirror?

Busqué a Tilda, pero todo el mundo tenía purpurina en la cara y el destello me dañaba la vista. Creí caminar un rato considerable hacia mi hermana, pero miraba a mi alrededor y Ubby se había quedado solo un poco atrás. ¿Estaba muy lejos de él o solo había caminado dos pasos? Cuando las luces volvieron a ser verdes, las distancias parecían muy largas, pero cuando volvieron al rosa... el dorado de la camiseta de Ubby se nublaba. Seguía caminando hacia mi hermana. Espera, ¿por qué caminaba hacia mi hermana?

«Aaaa, no te reconozco», me dije. Me miré al espejo y tampoco me encontré: mis manos seguían borrosas. Vale, protocolo. Espejo. Luces. Buscar a la amiga de Tilda que era un poco más alta que ella. Espera, había perdido la pista de esa chica hacia ya unas horas. Ahora buscaba al dios de la muerte, que era más fácil de encontrar. Bang, bunge. ¿Y si la amiga de mi hermana, que había estado en mi coche hacia unas horas ya no estaba allí? ¿Y si era ella a la que teníamos que cuidar y no a Tilda?

Pasaba entre trajes dorados y reflejos y la música sonaba a cámara lenta. Nadaba en un mar de luces, a contracorriente, y todo lo que veía se difuminaba como si estuviesen bajo el agua. Creo que vi a Tilda. A veces le cambiaba el peinado y las facciones de la cara; a veces parecía que me quería decir algo y a veces la perdía entre los destellos. Espera, ¿desde cuándo Tilda se había puesto barba en el delfín? Ah, era el otro chico. Estaba muy cerca de ellos, diría que intentaban decirme algo. ¿Gritaban? Porque la música seguía descomponiéndose en mi cabeza. Todas las personas parecían iguales. Volvía a mirar mis manos y no encontraba mis uñas. Entrecerraba los ojos, cada vez más fuerte, y no se enfocaban. ¿Qué está pasando?

—¿Greta? —Sonaba ruido blanco—. ¿Estás bien?
—Hola, hola. ¿Y cómo voy a estar? —contend—. ¿Qué pasa?
—¿Estás en Berlín todavía? ¿Estás bien?
—Claro, ¿quieres una postal o qué? —¿Am me hizo señales para que pusiese el altavoz—. ¿Qué quieres? ¿Está bien mi caso? —Está hecho mierda el techo, puedes pagar los arreglos o vas a volver a pasar de mí?

—Sí, está genial. ¡Adiós! —Y colgó. ¿Qué acababa de pasar?

—Bueno, pues todo bien por Berlín, ¡no? —dijo Jan.

—Tío, se ha fallado preguntar que hiciese dos afirmaciones seguidas si estaba hablando con su secuenciador al lado —dijo Ubby. Nos despedimos de las chicas y fuimos a la cafetería. Últimamente en los trayectos en coche por la ciudad nos dedicábamos a ir tachando los muros de ladrillo con la mente. Buscábamos aquellos que tuviesen pintadas y descartábamos los que no tenían. Pensaba que cualquier muro vacío podía convertirse en cuestión de segundos en uno maldito, que si un any amarillo había hecho desaparecer a una chica por ahí, entonces quizá el siguiente podría hacer algo peor. Pensé también en hablar con Tilda al respecto, porque con la aduleña de haberme encontrado con Judith en el pasillo de las pinturas, se me olvidó por completo comentarle a mi hermana lo de los botes amarillos. O quizá antes de alarmar a todo mi círculo con la paranoia de las pintadas, debería comprobar primero que los botes de pintura amarilla seguían desaparecidos. Esa era la prueba definitiva. Tuve un impulso enorme de volver a la tienda, aunque lo dejé para otro día.

—Oye, Aaron —me habló Ubby poniéndose el delantal—. ¿Estás más calmado que ayer?

—Sí, creo que sí. Seguía dándole vueltas a lo de mis padres, no te voy a mentir.

—¿No crees que estarán muy liados con su trabajo?

—Puede ser, pero tengo que hablarlo con mi hermana, me empieza a preocupar.

—Ya, normal. Pero no culpes a la ciudad entera, ¿eh?

Nube de Tinta, October 2023
Softcover with flaps, 140 x 213 mm, 256 pp

A beautiful crossover novel by Andrea Tomé about eating disorders, in the vein of her success Corazón de corazón.

A beautiful crossover novel on eating disorders, with all the know-how of Andrea Tomé and a love story that you will not be able to forget.

Everyone wants to know how Zoe does it. Her family, that cute boy she always runs into at the ice rink, and her classmates. They want to know exactly how many kilos she weighs on her scale and how many calories she consumes per day, and if she doesn't she's worried about not waking up the next morning. They want to know why, but they don't want to hear the truth, because the truth is not sensational. The truth is...

The limit is on an ice rink. It's October my seventeen years, carols sound everywhere public and I want to be a real girl. a girl from I really wouldn't even think about the fries they shared her classmates but she didn't dare to try, neither would she have asked her sister for all the details about donuts from the new cafeteria, she couldn't even estimate how long she has to skate exactly in order to burn enough calories to feel good but not enough to falling asleep on English homework.

And of course, a real girl wouldn't bend over half of the municipal ice rink at rush hour because The math has betrayed her and she is getting dizzy. A real girl wouldn't cause a triple collision with some hockey players.

«I hate myself because I feel SO HUNGRY / because I don't I know how to function in public no matter how hard I try/because "I am not a girl but the carcass of a girl." A sudden, searing pain shoots up from my wrist. up to the elbow, but it is drowned under the "Shit!" the "Fuck!", he "Did you hurt yourself?" and the "Hey, does your father it's not...?".

I lean on the fence to get up (a whiplash of pain runs through my shoulder, my back).

-I'm fine. You don't know my father. I'm fine. Have I have to go study. The three hockey players look at me like I'm done to give me a stroke.

-Are you OK? —one of them, the blonde one, asks me although I just assured you (twice) that it is. To this, his friend intervenes (redhead, obscenely high):

—Your hand is starting to swell. And the dark one, who looks like he doesn't know what to do with the situation:

—But what were you doing lying on the ice? Do you find yourself evil?

"I'm fine," I repeat. Really. And I have to go. I'm so sorry... for all of this.

I head as quickly as I can to the ticket office, without worry about putting the protectors on the skates or about the shrill noise that the blades make against the floor of metal.

"It. Have. All. Low. Control".

Have you ever noticed that your body doesn't respond to you? That the head goes in one direction but the tongue moves in the opposite? That your feet don't keep up with your thoughts? I think I'll sit in the hallway to regain my strength and regulate my breathing, but when I open my eyes I am lying down rest on one of the wooden benches in front of the ticket offices and at least ten guys from the hockey team are watching me, besides the janitor. A waitress at the track cafeteria hands me a hot chocolate. I can't/don't want to accept it. They know me, at least they must have prepared it with oatmeal milk and not with standard whole milk, which people drink. Normal people who don't care what milk they use to prepare the chocolate.

BEYOND THE JOKE

Alfaguara I&J, June 2023
Softcover with flaps, 150 x 215 mm, 192 pp

An exciting youth thriller that deals with topics such as social networks, bullying and anxiety, from the expert hand of the writers' duo.

Alex does not understand each other with his classmates. His only motivation to go to class is Paula. One day, she invites him on a trip to an old hospital, on the outskirts of the city, reputed to be haunted.

When you're the new kid at school, someone may want to take you down a peg. They may also play a joke on you, even a very cruel joke. What doesn't usually happen is that you turn up dead that night. A joke is a joke, right?

* A novel which deals with current topics and social interest such as bullying, social networks, anxiety and identity problems.

* A success of Fiction Express: A plot developed with a teenage classroom and winner of the Fiction Express Awards 2020.

MALENA

Despite everything, she liked Paula. She was one of those people that everyone liked and that had never had a conflict with anyone. She listened, smiled and invited to open our hearts and trust her.

—It was very strange, I was hoping they would screw me up, but they ignored me... as if I were invisible, you know?

—Yes, Lara has to change victims, if not, she gets bored.

—Today I was born again.

—I'm happy for you, said Paula.

—But I'm sorry for the new one.

—"Alex," Paula sighed moved, "poor Alex..."

ALEX

Paula did not let herself be carried away by what the majority did. She was an independent and special girl. She was the only one to be kind and call him by his name.

He liked her a lot. He liked how she looked at him, how she chewed on her pen when she didn't understand the problems of math, how she never completely closed the backpack and how she pronounced all the letters of his name.

The show ended there and Alejo breathed a grateful sigh. The students, disappointed by the outcome, began to leave, but Paula continued by his side in silence, to make it clear that she was not afraid of anyone and that she was his friend. Alex felt the desire to kiss her, but he didn't want to do it. Ridiculous. Paula was cold. He was in love?

YOUNG ADULT FICTION

—Half naked and with his sweater tied around his waist. He took a deep breath. It would take him centuries to forget that traumatic day.

"I'm so sorry," Paula muttered, her eyes teary. "If you wait in the bathroom I'll bring you a tracksuit of mine and so you can go home. Maybe it's too small for you... She looked very affected and Alex rushed to calm her down.

—Thank you very much, but it's not your fault. Absolutely! You are the only one who has helped me.

Paula smiled gratefully, although she did not relax.

—They have gone too far, it has been going on for a long time and you... you don't deserve it, Alex.

PAULA

—We have received a letter from your tutor. You have been harassing a colleague. You've gone too far, Paula. Her parents understood each other wonderfully when they got together. However, that one was unfair.

—He was naked! They had taken his clothes! I only...

—Even worse!

—The more you talk, the more you ruin it! How could you do this to Lara! Paula counted to ten before feigning calm.

—What has Lara's mother told you?

—You know perfectly well that you accused Lara of having messed with that boy, while everyone knows that this boy's been harassing her. She can't understand that you, her friend, are doing this to her.

—We are not friends of hers and I have not done anything to her!

Before I finish speaking I have already opened the door, which causes the tinkling of a small bell to warn you that you have entered clientele. The first thing that greets us is the strong smell of incense of the premises. Cough; The truth is that it bothers me a little scent.

"Go ahead," we heard an unknown voice, "don't be afraid." to get closer In fact, I don't get the impression that it is the query of a psychic if it weren't for what we've looked at on the internet, I would have believed that, in effect, it was a coaching business or even the office of a psychologist.

—Delighted, I am a witch of the lineage of those who died at the Salem trials. —She smiles at us behind the counter—. I'm here to serve you.

Martha snorts under her breath in a mocking tone, which provokes make my cheeks blush. Can't she behave a little more discreet way? She is embarrassing me with her attitude. "I would like to know how my future is going to go," she commented. However, the witch remains doubtful. —Are you sure? Because I see that she worries you more about the past. I am speechless at how quickly she said that.

"It's not that," she replied, embarrassed. It's just that I'm...

"I'm sure she'll tell anyone," my companion whispers to me in the ear-. "People usually come with their hearts broken."

—In you, redhead, I see a skepticism full of resentment. Don't you worry, I'm not like that fake witch who scammed your grandmother. I am a real one.

YOUNG ADULT FICTION

Now it is Martha who is silent. The witch has nailed it: that's exactly what happened. Her grandmother spent a fortune on calls to a person who promised to put her in touch with her husband from the Beyond.

—So—the woman points at me with her eyes—tell me about that past that keeps you awake.

"I've been with a guy for almost four years and we broke up months ago. I wasn't very happy at that time and I'm not very happy now. I can't stop thinking about what would have happened if..."

—You would have made different decisions.

I swallow, uncomfortable. I can't help but think about the conversation with Martha the day before.

"I imagine," I answer, looking down. But, well, I I want to know if the future..."

—And how much do you want to live, what would have happened if you had acted differently? —She interrupts me. —Eh... —I remain thoughtful before her question—. I'm sorry, but I have lost myself. How to "live what would have happened"?

The witch sketches a tender smile. It's as —In your eyes I see the desire to be able to know different paths. To know what could have been, but not only to know it: to live it Live other realities, even other loves that stayed. I'm here to help you," she continues. So I can offer your consciousness to travel in time so you can discover it by yourself. Well, actually it's a jump between dimensions. If you want, we can do a regression so you know how it was, one of your past lives. And, of course, what were your great loves. What do you prefer?

IMPERFECT CHRISTMAS

Montena, November 2023

Softcover with flaps, 150 x 215 mm, 480 pp

A fun, exciting and beautiful Christmas story with a protagonist who hates Christmas but will be captivated by its magic during her holiday job at the Merry Hotel with a very intriguing boss...

Olivia Rivera hates Christmas. And Noah Merry. Noah Merry hates that Olivia is so stubborn, proud and spiteful. And he also hates that she insists on making his life difficult without caring that he is her boss. 25 days. 25 Christmas tests. A TikTok account broadcasting everything live. Trouble, deception, reproaches and a good portion of resentment. What could go wrong?

OLIVIA

"What don't you understand, dear?" —Nicholas asks to Avery.

It's hard to get mad at him, I think as I watch him caress, distracted by the thick white beard. He's like a fucking Santa Claus. Next to him, his wife, Nora, is just as sweet and kind, she does have a maternal look and a typical movie grandmother's smile. Damn, they're taking advantage of that, I have no doubt.

"What Avery is trying to say is that he doesn't understand that we have to spend time together outside of our working hours," I intervene to help my colleague. Silence settles in the room in a somewhat uncomfortable way, I have that gift. Maybe I'm a little harsh speaking, but I like it.

—No, what I don't understand is the calendar thing. I don't mind spending more time with you!

I roll my eyes as many smile at him.

—The problem is that we noticed that there was no Christmas spirit. Except for Roberto, who delighted us with a series of new cocktails. The Merry Hotel has always been a family business. We have families with small children who deserve to enjoy these holidays properly. We are in New York, guys! The city of Christmas!

—It's a joke, right? You can't force us to do Xmas stuff, that's not in the contract!

—Come on, we can include some activity for your birthday and celebrate it!" I was born on December 25th and my father loves to remind everyone that I was his Christmas present.

YOUNG ADULT FICTION

—We are not going to do absolutely anything for my birthday. —I tell him very seriously.
"It's a shame you don't want to celebrate," he says then, my boss-. I still remember that year when your father bought you that pretty elf costume. Noah Merry has dark brown hair and although I'm sure even though he uses a good hairspray, he always looks casual. He has blue or gray eyes, depending on the day, beard of various days, a rogue smile very in keeping with his personality that brings out shine every time he wants to achieve something or bother someone. He nails his outfit with a dimple that looks too good on him, in my opinion.

NOAH

I close the door and watch the way Olivia drills me with her look. I should say I'm not having fun, but that'd be lying. She has dark eyes, long brown hair, almost black, pretty impressive full lips and a fucking perfect nose. She entertains me by pissing her off. Asher, my best friend, says that what actually happens is that she turns me on, but it's not true. She doesn't turn me on, no. With her things are a little more complex. We're only a year apart, now she's almost twenty-five and I am twenty-six, but when I met her, we were two brats running around my grandparents' hotel and, even then, there were days when we couldn't even see each other.

ROSE LAKE

#1 When the Heavens Break and the Stars Fall

#2 When Winter Ends and We Fly Once Again

Montena, May 2022
Softcover, 140 x 215 mm, 480 pp

A new Cherry Chic saga where the events take place in a small Oregon town: the mythical Rose Lake. Love and the struggle to start over in a new country will mark the pages of this new saga.

#1 In Rose Lake there is a Free Library mailbox contest every Christmas and the neighbour with the most beautiful book box wins. There's an autumn festival that includes pumpkin auctions and axe chopping contests. There is only one restaurant. There is a lake, of course, surrounded by mountains and thick forests, and the population is barely more than a thousand people.

It is, according to Vera, the perfect village to make a comeback. According to Maia, it is a lost corner of the world, among the mountains of Oregon. According to Martin, it is the best place to be born in and to grow up. And according to Kellan... For him, Rose Lake is the most beautiful and painful place in the world.

#2 In 7 years a lot can happen.

Ashley Jones would tell that in 7 years one can learn everything about losing and getting the most vital in life. Brody Sanders would tell you that they are enough to plan the perfect revenge.

Maia Campbell would say that, with a lot of effort and a big family's support, you can rule your new life like no one imagined. And Kellan Hyland... Well, if you ask him, he would probably look at you through his sunglasses and would ignore you completely while bringing his attention back to the guitar.

What's for sure is that there's still a lot to fix and solve.

THE TIME WE HAD

Montena, May 2023
Softcover with flaps, 150 x 215 mm, 480 pp

Liam and Grace: a story of love and memories impossible to forget. A new and essential standalone by Cherry Chic.

Liam O'Callaghan and Grace Fitzgerald are neighbors and best friends. A life united by the care of their respective farms and a unique love story that will be born with a pact: meet every two years to sign a contract and bury it inside a box under the Fairy Tree. Over time we will see how this relationship evolves, its good and bad moments, discovering new things together, what it means to share a whole life with another person, etc. In short, a song to love, friendship and unforgettable memories.

"Are you ready to sign?" he asked, taking a pen out of the pants
"First we have to read it aloud."
"What for?"
"So that we both agree."
"Of course we agree. We've done it together, Grace!" I gave him a dirty look and he sighed so hard that his black bangs fell on his eyes, he left them covered for a moment until he snorted and put his hair back up.
"Fine, read it."
"I'll read one part and you the other."
He was going to snort again, but I glared at him so badly that in the end he didn't. But, his blue eyes became smaller, as they always did when he was annoyed with me. I did not care. Actually, Liam had little patience and it wasn't my fault he never wanted to do things the right way. As we should. I opened the notebook on the first page and read:

We, Liam O'Callaghan and Grace Fitzgerald, promise to be friends for all of our lives. No matter how many times we fight or that Liam is a bit silly sometimes or that Grace is a tiny bit bossy. The important thing is that we love each other, and we will always, always, always find a way to get back together.
"Why am I a bit silly and you are only a tiny bit bossy?" You're very bossy, Grace."
"Nonsense. Read your part."
His brow wrinkled, but he yanked hard on the notebook that I had and read:
We sign this contract today, June 23, because tonight we will celebrate the summer solstice party and so we will know when to return to dig it up and sign again. We will sign every two years to show that best friends can be for life.
I nodded, pleased and proud of that part; I had come up with it. Actually, I wanted to sign every year, but Liam said no. That it was a lot of work to dig up a time capsule every year.

The sea, the passion and the right kind of romance all come together at a beach bar on the coast in this series.

#1 Cherry Chic's got all the ingredients for a highly addictive treat. And just like the best summer of your life, you won't want it to end. Three cousins, one summer, a house and beach bar overlooking the ocean. Felipe has lost his job, his girlfriend cheated on him with his best friend, and he's been dragged into living with his childish cousins. He's got one summer to get his life on track, and if that weren't enough, a girl who looks like she's got more problems than him just showed up, and she's irresistible... If life turns your world upside down... enjoy the view!

#2 In that same remote southern village, just a few meters away, our hero, Jorge de las Dunas, tries to survive life with his cousins, and he wonders if he'll ever be able to focus on the things he wants from life, rather than his family's needs. Tragically, our heroine never gets to make decisions, not even when they affect her own life. Meanwhile, our hero has spent his whole life making decisions and trying to do his best, to do what's right. She needs to recover her freedom. He needs to start fighting for the things he wants. She is plagued by questions. So is he, though he doesn't know it. One stormy night, with only the rain and the raging sea as witnesses, their lives cross paths. Our hero and heroine find one another. To learn more, you'll have to read on...

#3 The bad thing about growing up obsessed with Disney is that you get older. The good thing is that, as you grow up, you can choose to keep believing. Mario Dunes has spent his whole life preparing himself to find his ideal princess. In his imagination it's clear: she'll be sweet, giggly, brave and he'll like nothing better than to sit and watch a children's film together. Everything is going well, until she comes along and shows him that sometimes princesses wear black lipstick, have tattoos, are sharp-tongued and would rather stick pins in their eyes than watch a Disney film. This is a tale in which the princess does not want to be a princess and the prince is the one who is waiting for his true love. A story to dream, laugh and cry because, sometimes, happy endings require not one but many battles.

SPENCER

—So we're going from seeing each other a couple of times a year to living together," Jordan says as I drive.

—I feel the invasion.

—Nah, you know I don't care. But there are rules.

I raise an eyebrow and look away for a second to look at him. Jordan smiles sideways and I turn my attention to the road. "Rules," I repeat, he lets out an "uh-huh." As which?

—The guys on the team come whenever they feel like it. That son't be surprised to find that someone stays to sleep in the living room without warn.

—And the rule is...?

—Rule number one: my house, my friends' house. Right now you are an intruder, so they have more power than you under my roof. I guess it makes sense. It's so typical of him to want to set limits and having everything under control which doesn't really surprise me.

—Good. What else?

—Rule number two: see, hear, shut up. What happens in my group, it stays between us. We are not going to behave because you are here, I have promised in your name that you will be discreet.

"Rule number three and the most important," he continues, "No make out with my friends. I burst out laughing at that. "I mean it, and so seriously. He turns right on the next one.

"Are you worried that I'll hook up with one of your friends, anyway?"

"We are single," he explains to me, "we are university students and we just want to have a good time. And I know perfectly well that anyone would have a great time with you. I don't want drama. Because they are my best friends and you are part of me family. I don't want to be in the situation of having to choose anyone, you understand?"

NATE

Is this the chick Jordan was with last night? How the hell did I not notice her? I was so wasted that I didn't realize this girl was right next to me. Fuck. She seems not to care about my presence, as she leans forward and steals one of the donuts from the box. I find it impossible to stop looking while she takes a bite. She frowns.

—What?

None of us usually sleeps with girls after having sex, like that we avoid awkward moments on both sides, goodbyes or even the lucidity of the next morning. No chick that has ever slept with me and no one that has ever slept with Jordan. What does she have that he let her stay? She clears her throat and arches one of her sharp eyebrows again. I notice that I haven't responded. I remain silent, contemplating her. For a second, just one, I get nervous.

"I don't usually see my friends' dates...later," I answer. Although she looks at me as if she had just spoken Chinese. "Oh, the blowjobs you have to do so Jordan let you stay." Her donut stays halfway to her open mouth. Then she slowly closes her mouth and frowns at the same time.

—Excuse me?

I consider talking to her in sign language, but I think she has heard perfectly. I just put on my best innocent face, —Hey, man, did you seriously just ask me if I give blowjobs?

"I haven't asked you, I've stated it. You are the first girl who I see that he sleeps with. Jordan appears in the kitchen at that very moment, yawning. "Spens, this is my best friend, Nate. And Nate... this is my stepsister, Spencer." My smile disappears in a flash. That's why it was familiar to me. Oh shit.

Changing institutes is a pain. Changing schools because your parents are spies is something else. Being sixteen years old and receiving your first mission? This is where things get interesting.

When you become a lie, discovering the truth is the biggest challenge.

The daughter of two spies and trained since childhood to continue the family tradition, Timantti has always wanted to emulate her parents and join them in their fight against crime, but after receiving a new mission, her parents decide to keep her away.

Timantti cannot even imagine that in her new destination, a monotonous and peaceful orphanage for rich children in Australia, she will have to face unexpected threats that will put her life in danger.

SYNERGY

Montena, October 2016
Hardcover, 160 x 210 mm, 160 pp

«I encourage you to make your way through my heartbeats. I encourage you to discover heartbreak, pain and anger, recovery and true synergy. Here, in your hands, I place part of my story.»

Rebeca has had a very difficult year. A year of strong emotions, bittersweet memories and complicated situations. But if Rebeca Stones has one thing, it is that she is a brave girl and instead of letting herself be crushed by the weight of her thoughts, she has used them as inspiration to write a poetic diary about her feelings. Combining poetry and poetic prose, Rebeca tells us the story of her most intense year and does so from the point of view of her feelings and her emotions.

SOTAVENTO

Montena, July 2022
Softcover with flaps, 152 x 215 mm, 256 pp

Sotavento is the story of a world that is dying, of a generation that needs to invent its own ways of being in the world or else the world as they know it will die.

In this fictional story, which has many parallels with our current situation, Rebeca Stones invents an island, Veira, that faces extinction, an unprecedented ecological crisis. Her young ruler must banish everything she has learned, including her previous leader, and face the challenge of saving her people. As happens in the best tragedies, along the way she will know herself and find true love, which sometimes is too similar to what makes us who we are.

WITCHES KINGDOM 1: LONGING FOR SHADOWS

Alfaguara I&J, May 2023
Softcover with flaps, 150 x 215 mm, 360 pp

Here comes the romantic fantasy duology that will dazzle readers of Sarah J. Maas, Jennifer Armentrout and Shelby Mahurin.

Ovidia belongs to a secret society of witches. However, she is distrusted by many of her peers due to the nature of her powers. She has to keep them as quiet as possible. On the night of Samhain, Ovidia finds the leader of her society brutally murdered, and everyone believes that she is the culprit. Before she can stand trial, Noam, her greatest rival, rescues her.

Perhaps, for Noam, she is not a rival... but something else.

▪ A YA romantic fantasy book, the genre that triumphs among teenagers right now.

* A fast-paced novel, with a mystery plot and an enigmatic boy who will steal the hearts of readers.

* An author with a history: self-published, acclaimed, published by PRHGE.

The shadows always accompanied her. As strange as it might seem, she hadn't had a hard time getting used to it to them. After all, they were part of her being. They were born from her. They were strange and fascinating in her own way. They had always been three, and although at first she had wanted to avoid it so as not to feel more affection than she should have, she had named them. Ovidia opened the window a little, she felt the afternoon breeze of that September 23rd. That day was one of the most important dates for her people: the autumn equinox. The entire Sensible Society would be there that evening. The carriage turned sharply and Ovidia knew that they were entering on the path that led to the entrance of the Academy. The representatives of the Society would choose a Sensitive under twenty years old to make the Samhain speech next 31 October. It was an opportunity to give way to the new generations and so that the Sensible Society could see the speakers of each celebration as new possible representatives. Whoever led the Society was not someone chosen at random, but every ten years a vote was held so that there would be a representative of each type of witch: of the Night, of the Day, of the Earth, Gray and Seer. And then, decided which of them would be the leader. And even though she was a possible candidate, what continued to fill Ovidia's concern was not being able to control herself.

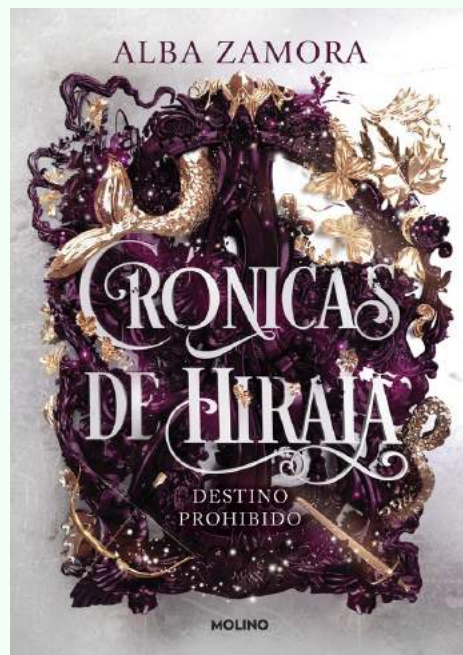

And suddenly, it seemed as if time had stopped for everyone in that room. And right at the entrance to the great hall, dressed in an opulent suit and followed by his parents, the boy who had broken her heart appeared in front of everyone with that familiar walk. Ovidia stood petrified, her old pain suffocating her again from the deepest. And a moment later, she felt that honey-toned look. The look of Noam Clearheart. It's happening again, she thought. —Feste... What is that? The small shadow did not turn, but Ovidia could sense it in her mind: You know what it is, sister. The shadow began to take shape until it looked almost human, like a girl of Ovidia's age, no more than fifteen or sixteen years-old. It was just like her other companion, all black, with undefined edges and two bright yellow spheres. Ovidia looked at her face. Sister. A pleasure to meet you. Ovidia's eyes widened, but she didn't notice. It moved. The vibration of her body seemed to be in accordance with the voice of that shadow, which seemed more like a slight echo within the stay. I can end the cause of this pain, sister. It's true, Feste answered for her, and turned around, hers golden eyes shining with the same tone as the new shadow. We can do whatever you ask of us. —Where you come from? —Ovidia whispered, getting up, and the shadow imitated her. Why do you appear just now? Your pain has woken me up. You have called me and here I am.

CHRONICLES OF HIRAIA 1: FORBIDDEN DESTINATION

Molino, October 2023
Softcover with flaps, 1150 x 215 mm, 352 pp

A romantic fantasy from one of the booktokers of the moment, perfect for fans of Jennifer L. Armentrout and Sarah J. Maas.

DREAMS

Everything was normal until the dreams started. From a magical world, inhabited by wonderful creatures and in which he, Derek, appears. Mysterious, attractive and with whom he shares a bond that not even she understands. But when dreams begin to take over her life, Alessa must make a decision: stay and face madness or travel to another world and find the boy her soul longs for.

REALITY

But Alessa's new world is not what she expected: there is evil and corruption. And then there's Derek, who is no longer the boy she fell in love with in her dreams. He is distant, cruel and leads the army of an unjust kingdom that segments its inhabitants by species and in which Alessa's humanity has no place.

I noticed the knot in my stomach again. I didn't want to talk to him but I couldn't keep it all to myself or blame my friends. I knew I could trust Darío. "When you left, I saw Derek at the door," I said, looking at my legs that kept moving nervously. I swear it was very real, more than other times. I started seeing him awake five days ago, after the dream of the Plaza. — He nodded his head-. When I'm sleepy, I start seeing visions of him. I saw him and the strange creatures. — Darío laughed at the description, but I continued with my gaze downcast. — When you left..., Darío, I can swear to you that he was really there. He was as real as anyone else. I do not know why. Maybe what's happening to me is more serious than I thought... I couldn't continue talking, I felt pressure in my chest which forced me to take a deep breath. Darío did not move, he waited for me to recover. —What's wrong with me? "Please, Darío," I murmured, raising the look for the first time. I don't want jokes or games. "Alessa," he murmured, "I want you to listen to me carefully, OK? —I nodded —. I'm not going to lie to you, I never have. His eyes were shining. He was being sincere. —So please, I need you to believe me, to open your mind and to deconstruct everything you have always thought was true for a... —he put his hand to his chin— different reality. —Okay, I'm listening to you. —You see, let's start from the basis that you have been taught that your world is the only one.

YOUNG ADULT FICTION

And I'm not talking about planets, I'm talking about realities," he clarified. "Do you know the theory of multiverse?" According to this theory there are infinite parallel universes. And it's true. I looked at him waiting for him to explain himself better.

— If several universes coexist among themselves... could we pass from one to another? Yes we can.

No one knows that these other universes exist, for obvious reasons.

There is a prophecy that says that there are people who are born in the universe that does not belong to them. As you might guess, it is rare for this to happen to someone, it happens once every thousands of years.

—And how do you know when someone doesn't belong to the world what corresponds to it?

—I knew it right away.

It took me a few seconds to react. I couldn't hide my surprise upon hearing the teacher's statement.

—I started having dreams a long time ago, a long time ago. When I turned 21.

—Weren't you 26 years old?

—I've been 26 for a long time, Alessa.

—What does that mean?

—It means that you humans have to start considering that you are not the only ones in the universe. That there are people like you in other realities, but not only that. There is magic and darkness. There is also evil and corruption.

But her dire warning went over my head. I could only think about one thing:

«Everything I have always dreamed of is real. The magic is real.
