From the author of global bestseller Japan: The Cookbook, more than 250 delicious, healthy vegetarian recipes for home cooks

In this collection of new recipes, Nancy Singleton Hachisu, the most authoritative voice in Japanese home cooking today, showcases Japanese vegetarian dishes, bringing the exquisite flavors of the nation's elegant cuisine to those who follow a plant-based diet or want to lower the amount of fish and meat they eat. Recipes are divided by cooking style – dressed, vinegared, deep-fried, simmered, steamed, stir-fried, grilled, pickled, and sweet – alongside which Hachisu shares her expert knowledge of the ingredients, culture, and traditions of this unique culinary style.

Nancy Singleton Hachisu is a native Californian who has lived with her Japanese farmer husband in Saitama prefecture since 1988. She is the author of four books, including Japan: The Cookbook, and has written for The Art of Eating, Lucky Peach, Saveur, Food & Wine, Travel & Leisure, National Geographic Food, and BBC Travel. Hachisu also participated in the 'Salt' episode of the Netflix series Salt Fat Acid Heat.

Key Selling Points

- A brand-new and exciting cookbook from the author of the hugely successful Japan: The Cookbook – over 150,000 copies sold worldwide – a wide-ranging collection of plant-based recipes from a leading expert in the field of Japanese cuisine
- The book includes an extensive introduction to Japanese vegetarian cuisine, with essays throughout exploring the ingredients, culture, and tradition associated with it, plus a detailed glossary
- Perfect for the foodie, armchair traveler, and every health-conscious and vegetable-forward eater
- The latest title in Phaidon's bestselling regional vegetarian book series
- With 120 specially commissioned food photographs to bring the recipes to life

An unprecedented survey of more than 250 architects who continue to define one of the most polarizing yet celebrated of styles

Brutalist architecture inspires a passionate response, be it adulation or contempt. There is no disputing, however, that the style produces some of the world's most breathtaking buildings. This landmark volume documents the movement as never before, by profiling the architects behind the style. Featuring more than 250 historic and contemporary architects, it includes international icons alongside those who are less well known or who have for too long been neglected, providing a unique record of this influential global architecture movement.

Owen Hopkins is an architectural writer and curator. He is Director of the Farrell Centre at Newcastle University. He is the author and editor of numerous books about architecture, including Postmodern Architecture: Less is a Bore, also published by Phaidon. Hopkins has written widely on architecture for publications including the Independent, Dezeen, Icon, Architectural Review, and Domus.

Key Selling Points

- Presents Brutalism as never before, profiling more than 250 architects who defined and continue to define this unique style
- Includes 350 images of iconic Brutalist buildings alongside fresh and surprising masterworks from 1936 to the present day
- Features images of more than 200 buildings, accompanied by engaging texts, and reference information, including an illustrated timeline
- The same size as the new 'classic' format of the Atlas of Brutalist Architecture, creating a must-have dual record of both the architecture and the architects
- An essential volume for fans of Brutalist architecture and concrete buildings, which are beloved by not just architects but those from all design disciplines

Guitar: The Shape of Sound

100 Iconic Designs

Ultan Guilfoyle

The 100 most iconic guitars from around the globe, from early modern beginnings to cutting-edge electric models

The guitar is the iconic instrument at the heart of all popular music. From Delta blues on acoustics to electric rock & roll, and all that came in its wake, the guitar has proven the most versatile and emotive conduit for musical expression and experimentation. Across more than 300 years, master guitar-makers have striven continually for new sculptural and aural peaks, yet the guitar's immediacy and intimacy endures, however loud the volume controls on the amplifiers are turned. A delight for design enthusiasts and music aficionados alike, Guilfoyle's latest book charts the development of this pillar of popular music and the charismatic performers who have used the guitar to transform our lives.

Ultan Guilfoyle is an award-winning producer, director, and writer, whose films include Sketches of Frank Gehry (2006) and Making Space, Five Women Architects (2015). His books include The Motorcycle: Design, Art, Desire (Phaidon, 2020)

Key Selling Points

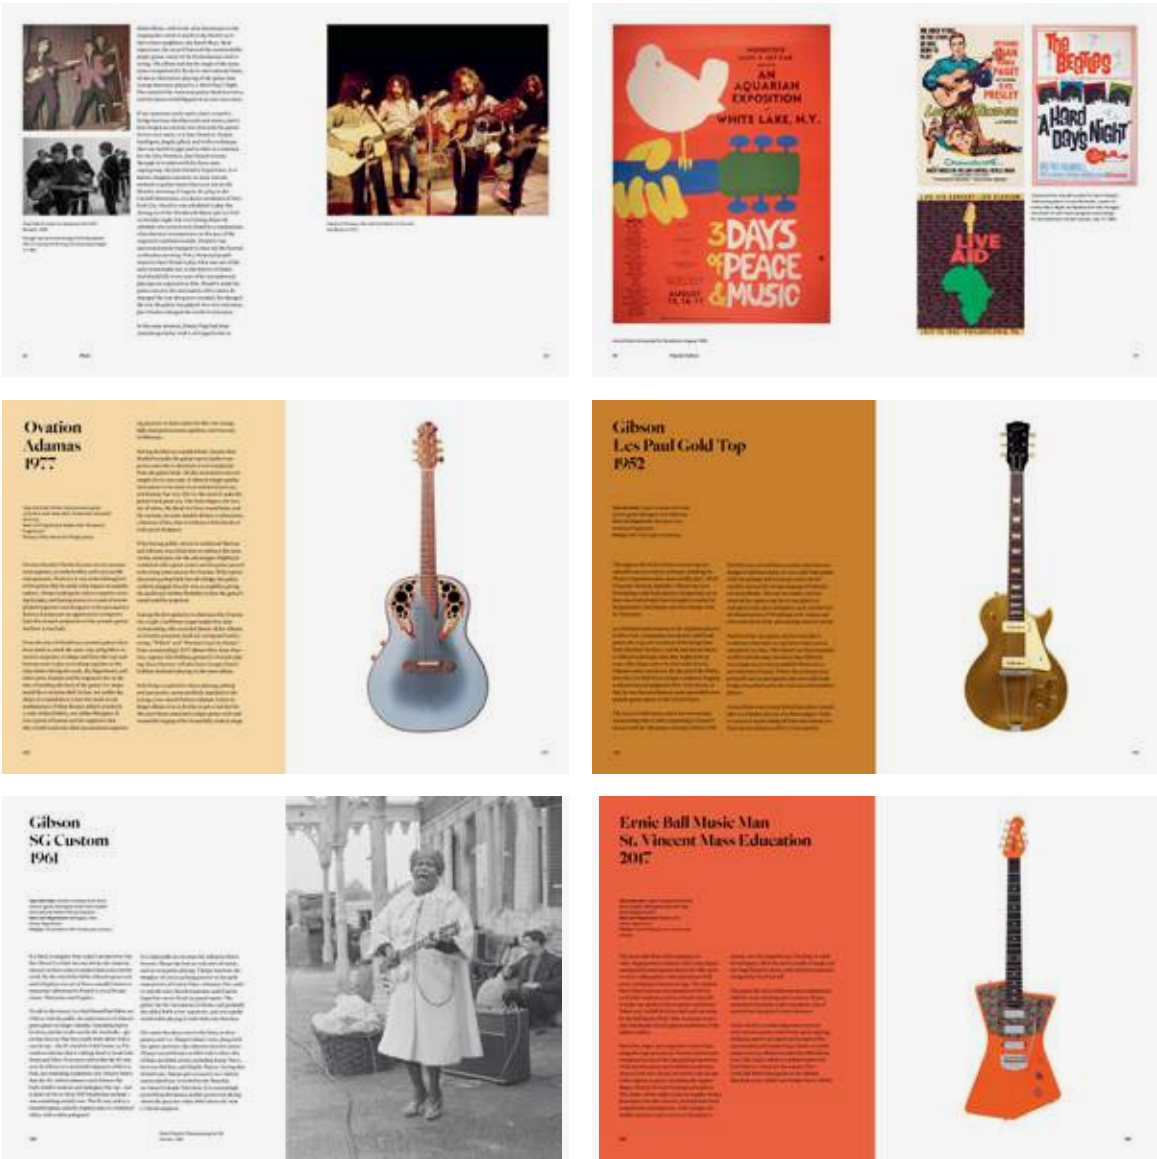

- 100 of the finest and most innovative models of guitar from the 17th century to the present day alongside the players who changed the face of popular music
- Includes fascinating stories behind iconic models from an eclectic mix of brands, including Alden, D'Angelico, Fender, Gibson, Gretsch, Ibanez, Kay, Martin, Millimetric Instruments, Mosrite, Greg Smallman, and Stauffer
- With detailed photography of the instruments and artfully captured performance shots
- Includes a wealth of fascinating and lesser known information about enigmatic performers including the Beatles, Woody Guthrie, Jimi Hendrix, Robert Johnson, Pat Metheny, Joni Mitchell, St Vincent, Sister Rosetta Tharpe, Jimi Hendrix, and Neil Young

John Pawson: Making Life Simpler
Deyan Sudjic

The only comprehensive book on the facinating life and work of celebrated architectural designer, John Pawson

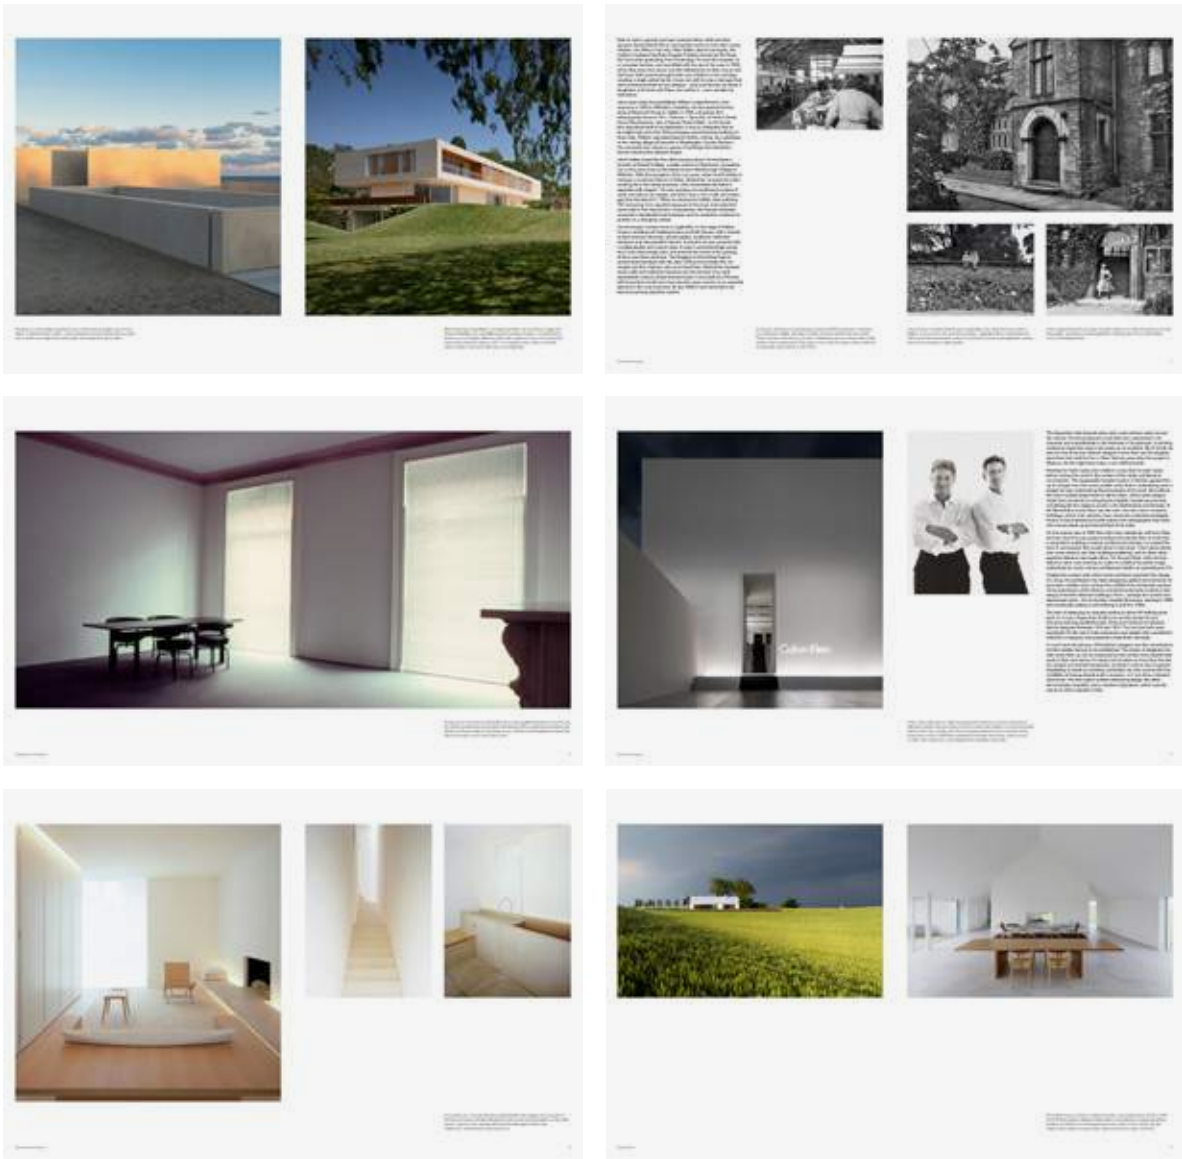

This visual biography brings together John Pawson's architecture, life, clients, travel, photography, design, books, and ideas. Written by Deyan Sudjic, an architectural historian and long-time friend, it explores the full scope of Pawson's life, from his Yorkshire upbringing and time spent in Japan to the fashion years and the influence of art, and provides a thoughtful and intimate insight into his life, inspirations, and work. Deeply personal and richly illustrated, this is the ultimate book on John Pawson.
Deyan Sudjic is Director Emeritus of London's Design Museum, and Distinguished Professor of Architecture and Design Studies at Lancaster University. A co-founder of Blueprint magazine, Sudjic also edited Domus magazine and has been the architecture critic for The Sunday Times, the Guardian and the Observer. He was the director of the Venice Architecture Biennale, and has curated exhibitions in Copenhagen, Istanbul, and Seoul.

Key Selling Points
- A fascinating insight into the life and career of the influential architectural designer
- The book shows the full range of Pawson's work from the first flat he designed and the iconic Neuendorf House to landmark projects such as London's Design Museum, 'Life House' for Alain de Botton's Living Architecture, and his own house, 'Home Farm', exploring how they came into being and reflect his ideas about life
- It features wonderfully engaging stories and anecdotes about Pawson's work with such clients as Bruce Chatwin, Calvin Klein, Karl Lagerfeld, Shiro Kuramata, Martha Stewart, and many more
- Richly illustrated with documents, photography, and ephemera, including never-seen-before images from Pawson's personal and professional archives

The North African Cookbook

Jeff Koehler

A collection of 445 exciting and accessible recipes that celebrate North Africa’s vibrant and diverse food culture

Life in North Africa heavily revolves around that most important of passions, food. Drawing on Berber, Arabic, and Ottoman influences as well as French, Spanish, and Italian ones, this gorgeous cookbook explores the culinary diversity of the Maghreb, a region that spans Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, and Libya. From griddled flatbreads and zesty salads to aromatic tagines, grilled meat and fish, and honey-rich pastries, The North African Cookbook showcases an authoritative collection of traditional and contemporary recipes for the home cook.

Jeff Koehler, winner of a James Beard award, International Association of Culinary Professionals (IACP) awards, and Gourmand World Cookbook prizes, is an American writer and cook who lives in Spain. For the past two decades he has traveled widely in North Africa. He is the author of seven critically acclaimed books, and his writing and recipes have appeared in the Washington Post, Saveur, NPR, Afar and other media outlets.

Key Selling Points

- 445 delicious and authentic North African dishes that can easily be recreated at home
- Irresistible recipes and stunning photography bring the region to life, from the Atlantic and Mediterranean coast in the west and north, across farmland, orchards, plateaus carpeted in wheat, and mountain peaks, to the great Sahara in the south and east
- Essays throughout the book introduce key ingredients and cultural traditions
- Jeff Koehler's compelling introduction provides a brief history of North Africa and a celebration of food culture in Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, and Libya
- Phaidon's highly successful regional bible category is a proven success model (including The Nordic Cookbook and The Latin American Cookbook) and the books are staples in kitchens worldwide

'Traditional North African food draws inspiration from the culinary traditions of Europe, Africa, and the Arab Middle East. From the rich tagines of Morocco to the harissa-spiced dishes of Tunisia, the sea-meets-desert cuisine offers of wealth of hearty, comforting, and complex meals worth getting to know.' – Saveur

'Moroccans and Tunisians know healthy doesn't have to be bland. Eating a Mediterranean diet – rich with beans, olive oils, and yogurts – is good for you and just so happens to be super tasty.' – Epicurious

'Middle Eastern and North African dishes are currently the height of gastronomic fashion.' – Telegraph

'North African cuisine is unscripted. It is informal at its heart, and meals are often prepared by a cook who has never used a cookbook or a written recipe. It's a no-holds-barred, anything-goes cuisine that invites improvisation, as long as you understand the underlying rules and traditions from which it derives.' – Fine Cooking

The New Antiquarians

At Home with Young Collectors

Michael Diaz-Griffith, with primary photography by Brian W. Ferry and additional photographs by Leon Foggitt

An inspiring collection of idiosyncratic interiors assembled around eclectic collections of objects with life and history

The once rarified and exclusive world of antiques is bursting open thanks to a new generation of collectors. The New Antiquarians captures 17 of the spaces of these young connoisseurs, spirited interiors formed from unorthodox approaches to collecting and living with objects with history. Flouting conventions of good taste and revealing irreverent modes of decorating with antiques that echo the way we consume visual material today, they brazenly blend the historical and the contemporary, embrace anachronism and pastiche, employ serious knowledge with wit, and consider historical objects through the lens of present-day values.

Michael Diaz-Griffith is a writer, designer, art-world leader, and Executive Director of the Design Leadership Network. Prior to joining DLN, Diaz-Griffith served as Executive Director of the Sir John Soane's Museum Foundation and as Associate Executive Director of The Winter Show, America's most prestigious and longest-running art and antiques fair.

Key Selling Points

- Features a who's who of creative luminaries, their collections, and living spaces – including CFDA Award-winning menswear designer Emily Bode, and AD100 designers Aaron Aujla, Adam Charlap Hyman, and Giancarlo Valle, among others
- An exuberant and accessible entry point into the once rarified and staid world of antiques with featured collectors of all stripes, with varied interests and resources
- Featured residences on both sides of the Atlantic lend the book international appeal

Piet Oudolf At Work

With an introduction by Cassian Schmidt and text contributions from Noel Kingsbury, Hans Ulrich Obrist, and others

A monograph on the Dutch garden designer, featuring his gardens and the largest collection of his drawings ever published

Step into a Piet Oudolf garden and you are transported into a dreamlike meadowscape, filled with perennials, seasonal color, and texture. Made in close collaboration with Oudolf, this book showcases gardens throughout his career and across the globe – from New York’s acclaimed High Line to the newly planted Vitra Campus in Germany. It offers unprecedented insight into his design process, working methods, and inspirations, and features original sketches and drawings – many of which are published here for the first time.

Cassian Schmidt is a gardener, landscape architect, and director of Hermannshof Garden in Germany. Noel Kingsbury is a planting design consultant and a prolific writer on gardens and naturalistic planting. Hans Ulrich Obrist is a curator, critic, art historian, and artistic director at the Serpentine Galleries in London.

Key Selling Points

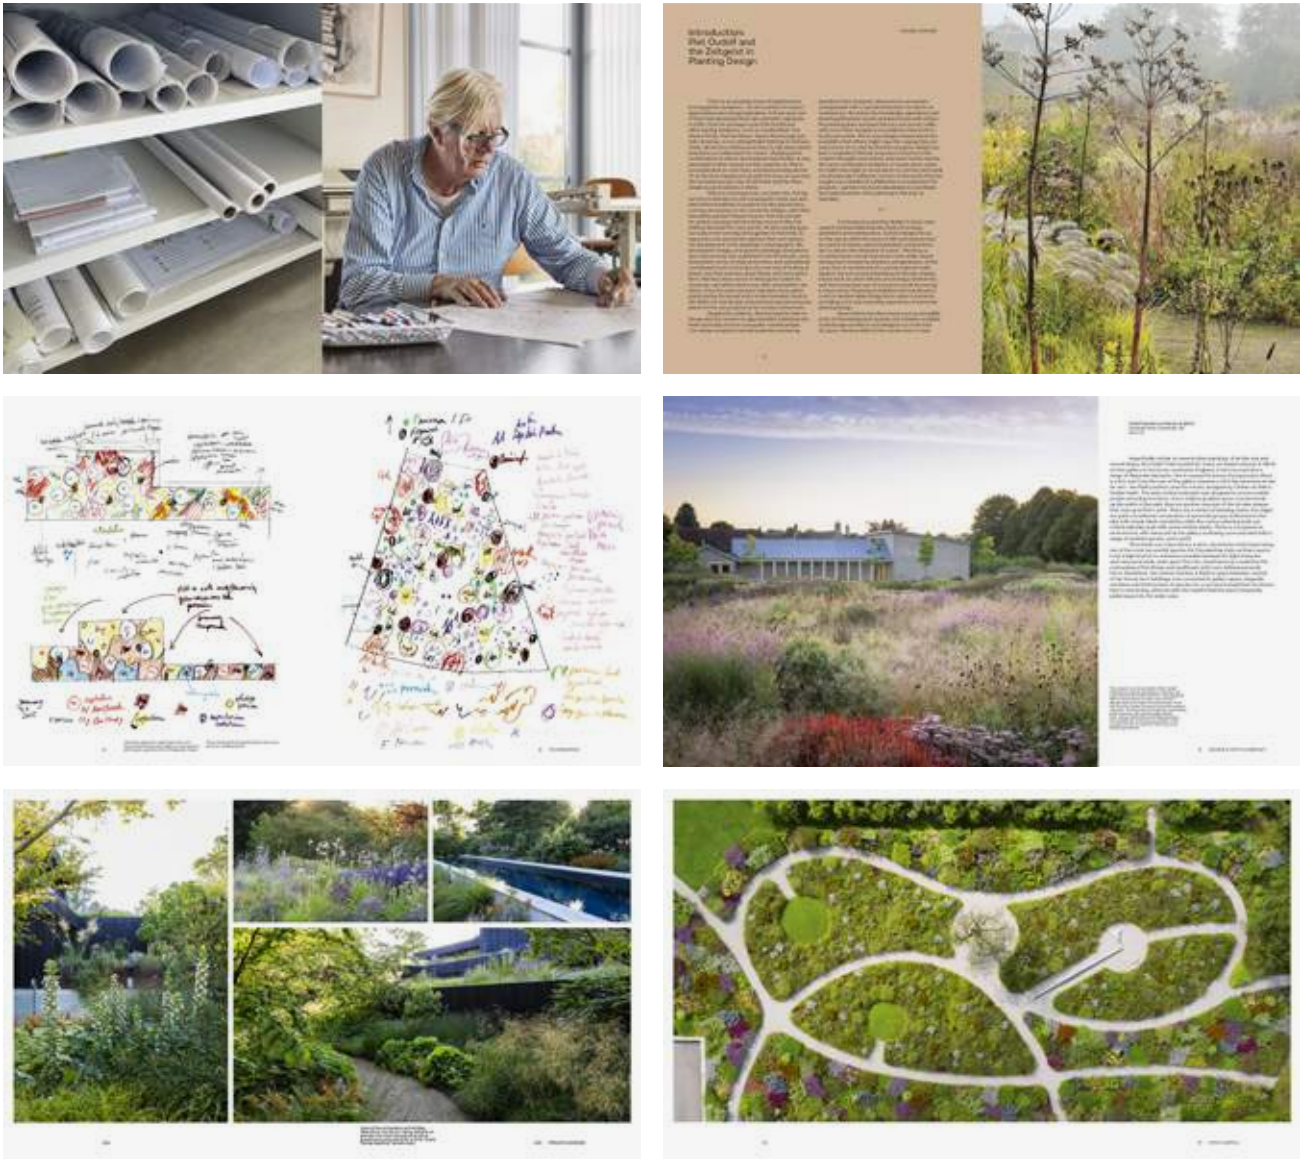

- A major monograph on this internationally renowned garden designer, featuring brand-new work and the largest collection of Oudolf’s drawings ever published
- Offers fresh insight into the work and creative practice of Oudolf, both from a horticultural and artistic perspective
- Showcases high-profile and lesser-known gardens, including Chicago’s Lurie Garden, Hauser & Wirth Somerset and Menorca, Venice Biennale, Singer Museum, Belle Isle in Detroit, Noma, and others
- Features newly commissioned essays on Oudolf’s work, placing it in context and offering fresh perspectives
- With stunning garden photography, gatefolds, and tip-ins to explain key designs

A Home for Every Plant

Wonders of the Botanical World

Matthew Biggs, illustrated by Lucila Perini

Journey across 40 incredible habitats around the world to discover the biggest, boldest, and stinkiest plants

Without plants there would be no life on Earth, but most people are blind to their impact. This stylish and informative introduction to plants sets out to cure 'plant blindness' by introducing children to 66 amazing plants from the six major climactic zones around the world. From the smelliest, such as the massive Titan Arum of the Indonesian rainforest, which stinks of rotting flesh to attract insects, to the hardest-working, including peat moss, an overlooked bog plant that helps protect our planet by trapping carbon dioxide, readers will learn about the vital role of plants in Nature through detailed, vibrant illustrations and fascinating facts. Children will also learn how to use their new-found knowledge of the plant's natural environment to care for the plants around them and at home. This is the perfect compendium for plant-lovers, budding gardeners, and would-be botanists and nature-lovers alike.

Key Selling Points

- A fresh and artful introduction to our world's diverse habitats and the amazing plants that grow in them
- A sturdy and stunning gift that will inspire children to care for the plants around them – perfect for today's market trend for plants and gardening
- Teaches children about plants in the context of their natural environment, ideal for geography and biology curricular tie-ins
- Each climate section concludes with suggestions for four plants that can be grown at home – making clear a vital link between a plant's original environment and plant care in the home, and encouraging hands-on learning and real life application of knowledge
- Fully written, researched, and vetted by expert botanists from around the world

Over 100 artists working with collage, as chosen by art experts, in the latest volume of the indispensable ‘Vitamin’ series

Collage is an artistic language comprising found images, fragmentary forms, and unexpected juxtapositions. While it first gained status as high art in the early twentieth century, the past decade has seen a fresh explosion of artists using this dynamic and experimental approach to image making. Taking a broad definition – from analog cut-and-paste compositions and photomontages to digital composed imagery and animations – Vitamin C+ showcases 108 living artists who employ collage as a central part of their visual-art practice.

Yuval Etgar is a curator and art historian who specialises in the history and theory of collage and image appropriation. His curated and published work includes The Ends of Collage, an anthology of writings on the history and theory of this practice, as well as monographic projects dedicated to the work of Louise Nevelson, Jake Chapman, John Stezaker, Fischli & Weiss, and René Magritte, among others.

Key Selling Points

- Part of the ever-popular ‘Vitamin’ art series, which focuses on contemporary artists through the lens of a specific medium
- Artists nominated by 69 leading experts (including museum directors, curators, critics, and collectors) and presented in A-to-Z format for ease of reference

The Christmas Book

Phaidon editors, with essays by Dolph Gotelli, Bob Richter, and David Trigg

A rich and evocative visual celebration of Christmas, from its religious beginnings to global festive cultural touchstones

This book is a unique and groundbreaking visual celebration of Christmas, a joyous religious and cultural occasion observed by billions of people around the world. The origins of Christmas are in the Christian observance of the birth of Christ on 25 December and, since the early 20th century, it has become a secular holiday with a myriad decorations, rituals, and themes. In The Christmas Book, the significant artistic and cultural influence of Christmas throughout history is explored through a wide range of beautiful and significant artworks and images from across the ages and continents.

Dolph Gotelli is an international expert and lecturer on Christmas, holiday rituals, and Santa Claus. He is Professor Emeritus of Design at University of California, Davis. Bob Richter is an American interior designer, author, and TV personality. He is also the author of A Very Vintage Christmas (2016) and Vintage Living (2019). David Trigg is a writer, critic, and art historian. He is a regular contributor to books on art.

Key Selling Points

- This extraordinary book showcases a broad spectrum of global festive traditions from many different cultures, such as fried chicken for Christmas dinner, surfing Santas, and shoes filled with carrots
- All of these are explored through a wide range of works and media including books, paintings, prints, textiles, ceramics, sculptures, and photography
- Key themes covered include advent and the nativity; the Christmas tree and holiday decorations; gift giving and carol singing; classic Christmas films; and music
- The selection of works includes a diverse range of both lesser-known and iconic artists, including Sandro Botticelli, Grandma Moses, Beatrix Potter, Norman Rockwell, Malick Sidibé, Andy Warhol, and more
- With essays exploring: religious origins; Santa Claus; and celebrating the holiday season in style

A new compact format of this cornerstone of art history, with a preface by the author’s granddaughter and an elegant cover

The Story of Art has been a global bestseller for over half a century. Attracted by the simplicity and clarity of his writing, readers of all ages and backgrounds have found in Professor Gombrich a true master, who combines knowledge and wisdom with a unique gift for communicating his deep love of the subject. Updated with a stunning new cover and a preface written specially by Professor Gombrich’s granddaughter Leonie, this pocket format allows Gombrich’s classic work to continue its triumphant progress for another generation, and to remain the title of first choice for all newcomers to art and its history.

Sir Ernst Gombrich’s standing in the world of art and his popularity with experts and a vast general readership remain unrivalled. Born in Vienna, he came to London in 1936 to work at the Warburg Institute, where he became director from 1959 until his retirement in 1976. He won numerous honors, including a knighthood, the Order of Merit, and the Goethe, Hegel, and Erasmus prizes.

Key Selling Points

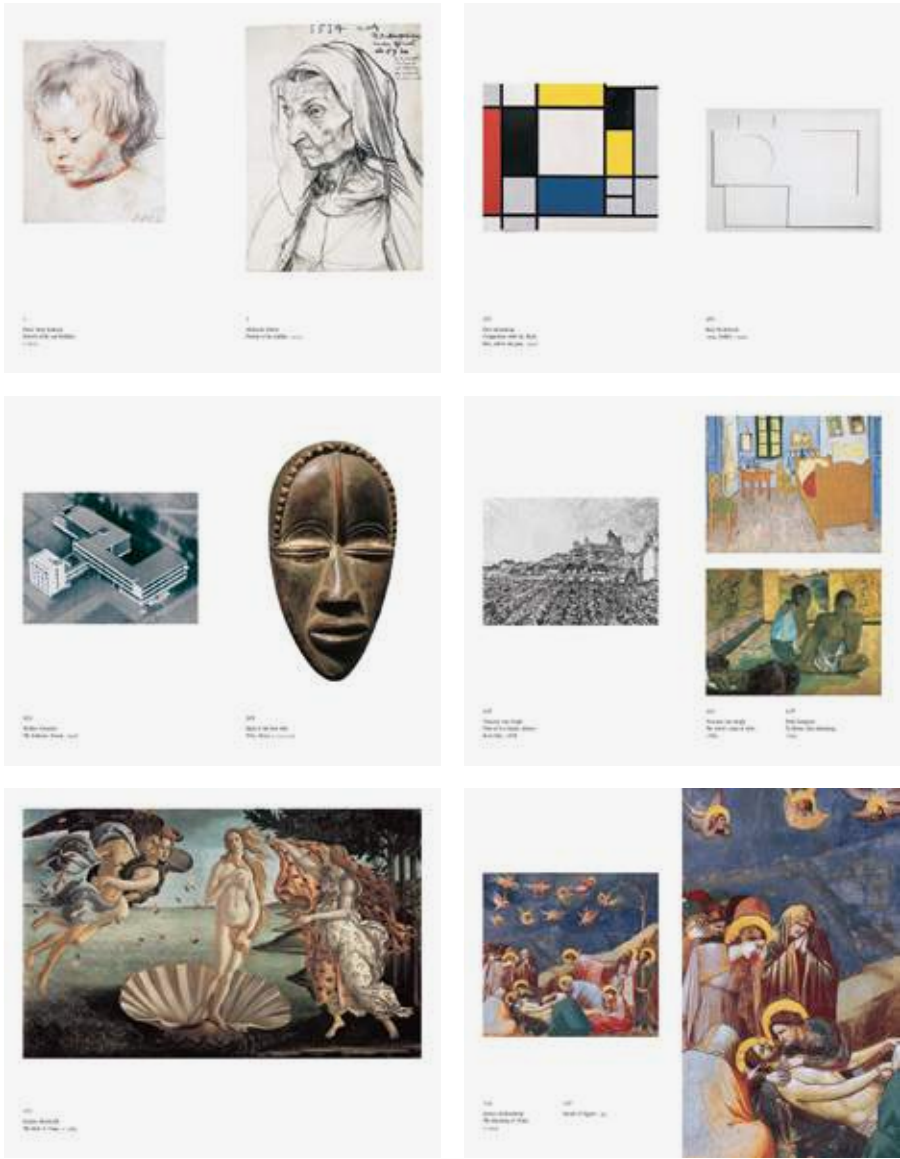

- The finest and most popular introduction to art ever written
- A worldwide bestseller for over half a century, Professor Gombrich’s text is wise, highly accessible, and straightforward – the perfect introduction for newcomers to the subject
- A pleasure to read and a joy to handle, the pocket edition combines smoothly flowing text with a clear, simple design in a convenient and accessible format
- The illustrations, collected together in a separate section towards the back of the book for easy reference, vividly illustrate the lively and engaging narrative and are reproduced in color throughout
- Updated with a new cover and an insightful preface by his granddaughter Leonie, this edition gives a fresh perspective to Gombrich’s much-loved text

From the Birth of the Web to the Rise of NFTs

Omar Kholeif

A leading figure in the world of networked culture explores the artists and events that defined the mass medium of our time

Since 1989, the year the World Wide Web was born, the art world has grappled with the rise of networked culture. In this book, Omar Kholeif, whose prolific career parallels the growth of the internet, tells the story of this mass medium and how it has fostered new possibilities for artists, both analog and digital. Tracing the key artists and innovators from the emergence of browser-based art to the dawn of NFTs, this is a tale for the present and the future.

Dr. Omar Kholeif is an author, curator, broadcaster, and the avatar of Dr. O – a polymath who lives in the metaverse. A leading commentator on art and digital culture, Kholeif is the author of dozens of books, curator of over sixty exhibitions, and founder of www.artpost21.com, which supports art and social justice in the age of the ‘meta’ metaverse. Kholeif is the Director of Collections and Senior Curator at Sharjah Art Foundation, UAE.

Key Selling Points

- An unprecedented survey of the artists and innovators in networked culture from 1989 to today, interwoven with the personal narrative of one of the leading voices on the digital world
- Showcases work spanning a range of media from legendary artists including Lawrence Abu Hamdan, Lynn Herschman Leeson, Nam June Paik, Heather Phillipson, and Wu Tsang

A perfect companion volume to Video/Art: The First Fifty Years by Barbara London and essential reading for artists, historians, fans of the author’s previous books, those who were raised by the internet, and the NFT-curious

Kholeif is the author or co-author of over two dozen books, which have been translated into twelve languages and have sold over 100,000 copies in English alone

Documenting the first-ever art amusement park, launched in 1987 in Hamburg, Germany, in anticipation of its global reintroduction

In the late 1980s, more than thirty of the era's most acclaimed artists – including Jean-Michel Basquiat, David Hockney, and Keith Haring – designed unique and fully operational fairground attractions specifically for the original park, including rides, interactive sculptures, games, performances, and music. Each artist's contribution is documented in photographs that show the artist at work, with details of the artworks, and showing the art in the context of the exhibition. Accompanying the relaunch of Luna Luna in 2023, this book is published for the first time in English with an updated preface.

André Heller is an acclaimed international multimedia artist. He is the creator of best-selling books, large-scale flying and floating sculptures, and garden artworks, and has had a platinum-selling career as a singer and songwriter. In addition to directing shows, plays, circuses, films, and operas, he has also designed fire spectacles, labyrinths, and museums. He lives and works between Vienna and Marrakech.

Key Selling Points

- Published to accompany a preview of the new Luna Luna experience at Art Basel Miami Beach 2022 and Frieze Los Angeles 2023
- Features the work of over 30 of the era's most popular artists, including Jean-Michael Basquiat, David Hockney, Keith Haring, Roy Lichtenstein, and Salvador Dali
- Provides access to rare artworks that have not been widely viewed in 35 years
- Published for the first time in English with an updated preface
- Reintroduces the Luna Luna experience to the world in advance of a 2023 global tour that will feature today's most disruptive artists and add new installations, performances, rides, and games

The first and only monograph to give a comprehensive examination of acclaimed American artist Sarah Sze's painting practice

Since the late 1990s, Sarah Sze has developed a signature visual language that challenges the static nature of art with a dynamic body of work spanning sculpture, painting, drawing, printmaking, video and installation. In recent years, Sze has returned to painting, the medium in which she was first trained. Comprising constellations of painted and collaged elements, her expansive abstract landscapes explore a visual world that is constantly evolving, degrading, and generating new ways of seeing. This book, created in close collaboration with Sze, is the first monograph devoted to her painting practice.

Mark Godfrey is an independent curator based in London. Between 2007 and 2021, he was Senior Curator at Tate Modern. Tina Pang is Curator of Hong Kong Visual Culture at M+, a new visual art museum in the West Kowloon Cultural District, Hong Kong. Madeleine Grynsztejn is Pritzker Director of the Museum of Contemporary Art, Chicago.

Key Selling Points

- Sze is one of the foremost contemporary American artists working today who represented the United States at the Venice Biennale in 2013 and was awarded a MacArthur Fellowship in 2003
- Sze's paintings are highly sought-after and held in the permanent collections of prominent institutions and museums worldwide
- Exquisitely illustrated, luxury volume packaged in a cloth-wrapped slipcase, with each copy numbered and signed by the artist
- With two essays that explore Sze's influences and her working process, plus an interview that expands on the theoretical underpinnings of her painting practice
- Sze will have a major solo exhibition at the Guggenheim Museum, NYC, opening in March 2023

Michael Raedecker

Kate Zambreno, Laura McLean-Ferris, Martin Herbert, John Chilver, Claudia Swan

The most comprehensive survey of the celebrated Dutch artist Michael Raedecker’s work spanning his 30-year career

Michael Raedecker, the acclaimed Dutch artist, records the memories held within spaces and objects in his enigmatic and dream-like paintings. Suburban homes, tree houses, and empty rooms and vacant chairs, all float in haunting isolation. Muted hues are penetrated with thread and needle where the artist hand-sews forms into textural materiality. Since the beginning of his career as a painter, Raedecker has incorporated embroidery into his works as a visual counterpoint to his washed-out paint application. This survey of his work is the most definitive published to date, featuring essays by a unique and diverse group of critics, curators, artists, and academics.

Michael Raedecker lives and works in London. His work can be found in major collections worldwide, including the Art Institute of Chicago; Guggenheim Museum, New York; Kunstmuseum, The Hague; Astrup Fearnley Museum, Oslo; Tate, London; amongst others, as well as in many private collections.

Key Selling Points

- Published to coincide with an exhibition at the Kunst Museum in the Hague in Spring 2023
- The book features the following exclusive essays: Kate Zambreno’s (American novelist, essayist, critic, and professor) short fictional story based on Raedecker’s latest works shown in New York at Grimm Gallery; Laura McLean-Ferris, art writer and curator, focus on the transfer technique; Martin Herbert’s (writer and critic) essay that covers Raedecker’s work over the years; visual artist John Chilver’s interview with the artist; and Professor Claudia Swan’s essay that compares Raedecker’s work to that of Hercules Segers, the 16th century Dutch painter and printmaker.
- Designed by the acclaimed designer, Irma Boom
- Represented exclusively by GRIMM Galleries (Amsterdam, London, and New York)

The bestselling and acclaimed monograph on one of the most influential painters of the twentieth century

Willem de Kooning was a leading exponent of abstract expressionism. MoMA's major de Kooning retrospective in 2011 drew record crowds, and his prodigious achievements continue to provoke and inspire subsequent generations of artists such as Cecily Brown, Rebecca Warren, and Jonathan Lasker. Back in print, Judith Zilczer's critically acclaimed monograph will appeal to a new audience of readers and de Kooning enthusiasts.

Judith Zilczer, curator emerita of the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden, Smithsonian Institution, organized more than two dozen exhibitions in her twenty-nine years at the museum, where she served as historian, curator of paintings, and acting chief curator. She has written and lectured widely and is recognized as the leading authority on the art of Willem de Kooning.

Key Selling Points

- The most wide-ranging and comprehensive monograph on Willem de Kooning available, now available in a new format
- Sumptuously illustrated, the book encompasses his major works and periods, including his controversial 'Woman' paintings, as well as a wealth of accompanying sketches and preparatory drawings

- Offers an unprecedented and compelling examination of de Kooning's body of work

- An illustrated chronology maps de Kooning's life, career, and work, with photographs from the artist's archive interspersed throughout the book, enriching the reader's understanding of the wider art-historical context of his paintings

The first monograph dedicated to one of today's leading and thought-provoking Indian visual artists

Shilpa Gupta's work is an ongoing exploration on how human actions and interactions are subjected to a range of external and internal biddings, from socio-political constructs to personal relationships and technology. The synaesthetic nature of her practice is rooted in the post-liberalizing city of Mumbai in India, where she grew up in the 1990s and the complex political landscape in South Asia. A keen observer of the everyday, Gupta creates videos, interactive installations, sculptures, and participatory performances, stimulating in the viewer a reflection on how places and people are defined and the meaning of belonging.

Key Selling Points

- Shilpa Gupta is internationally known for her profound and socially engaged multi-faceted practice
- Her Venice Biennale installation For in Your Tongue, I Cannot Fit (2019) was hailed as one of the most powerful pieces in the exhibition
- Her work has been championed by many art luminaries and high-profile curators, including David Elliott, Massimiliano Gioni, Gerardo Mosquera, and Hans Ulrich Obrist.
- She is the first artist from the Asian sub-continent – a region with a booming art scene – to be profiled in the Contemporary Artists Series

A fascinating and timely monograph celebrating the work of ground-breaking conceptual artist Cerith Wyn Evans

Cerith Wyn Evans is an artist interested in language and how this can be perceived in spatial terms. Originally an experimental filmmaker, in the 1990s Evans started creating sculptures and installations defined by poetic conceptualism and elegant aesthetic forms. Often made of neon light, his pieces subtly disrupt existing systems of communication, either through the subversion and alteration of given spatial forms or by adopting a communal rather than a singular, authoritarian voice. In 2003 Evans represented Wales at the country's inaugural pavilion at the 50th Venice Biennale.

Hans Ulrich Obrist is Artistic Director of the Serpentine Galleries in London.

Daniel Birnbaum is the Director of Acute Art in London.

Key Selling Points

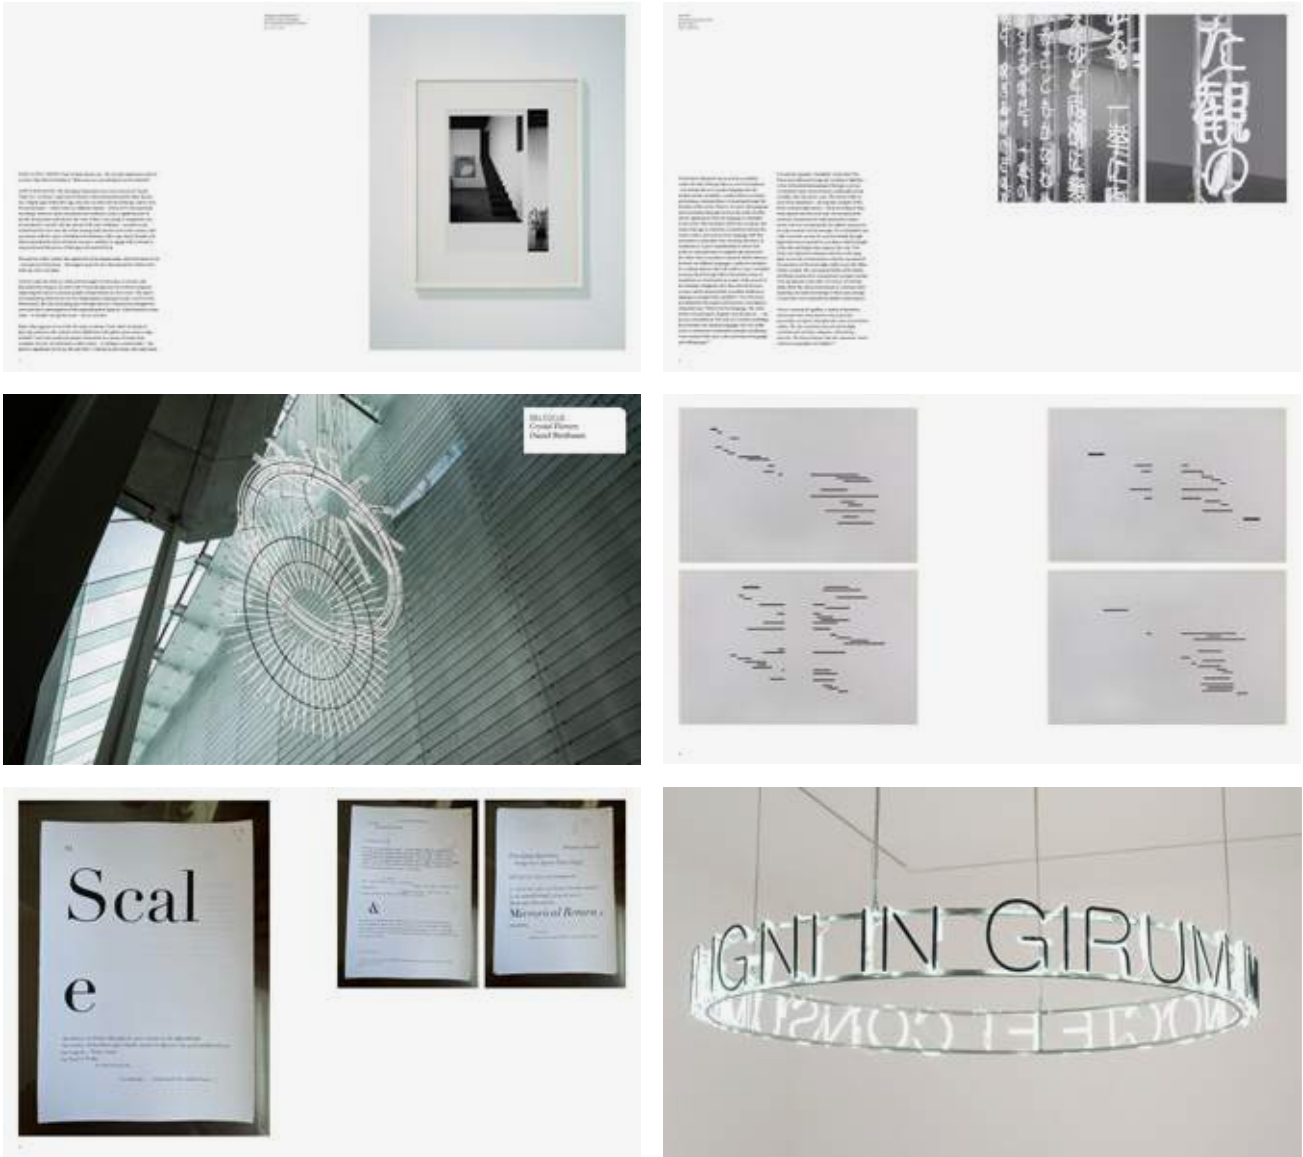

- Evans is one of today's most respected and acclaimed sculptors. Born in Wales and educated through his first language of Welsh, his work reflects his fascination with language, literature, film, music, and philosophy
- His monumental piece Composition for 37 Flutes won the Hepworth Wakefield Prize for Sculpture in 2018
- This book is the first comprehensive study dedicated to his work
- Includes contributions by luminaries such as the former Guggenheim Chief Curator Nancy Spector and the 2011 Venice Biennale director Daniel Birnbaum, together with a previously unpublished text by Evans himself

'[Cerith Wyn] Evans's work is at once technically complex and mesmerizing.'
– Guardian

'He shows how beauty can be dicey, alluring in its fragility.'
– Frieze

'There is a generosity to [Cerith Wyn] Evans's art: as with the linguistic disruptions in his titles through ellipses, equals signs and bracketed afterthoughts, everything in his works is in play, nothing is fixed, meanings are porous. His exquisite luminous universe bestows a space for awe and for dreaming.'

A comprehensive survey of the work of the influential Kenyan-American artist Wangechi Mutu

Wangechi Mutu's multidisciplinary practice grapples with contemporary realities while proffering new models for a radically changed future informed by feminism, Afrofuturism, and interspecies symbiosis. Accompanying a major solo exhibition at the New Museum opening in February 2023, this expansive survey will trace the entirety of Mutu's influential career from early sculptural works of the late 1990s to her collage works of the early 2000s and more recent video works, large-scale sculptures, and site-specific interventions.

Margot Norton is Allen and Lola Goldring Senior Curator at the New Museum.
Essays by Maureen Mahon, Yvonne Adhiambo Owuor, and Tina Campt, and a roundtable discussion with Firelei Báez, Kandis Williams, and Kiyan Williams, moderated by Nana Adusei-Poku.

Key Selling Points

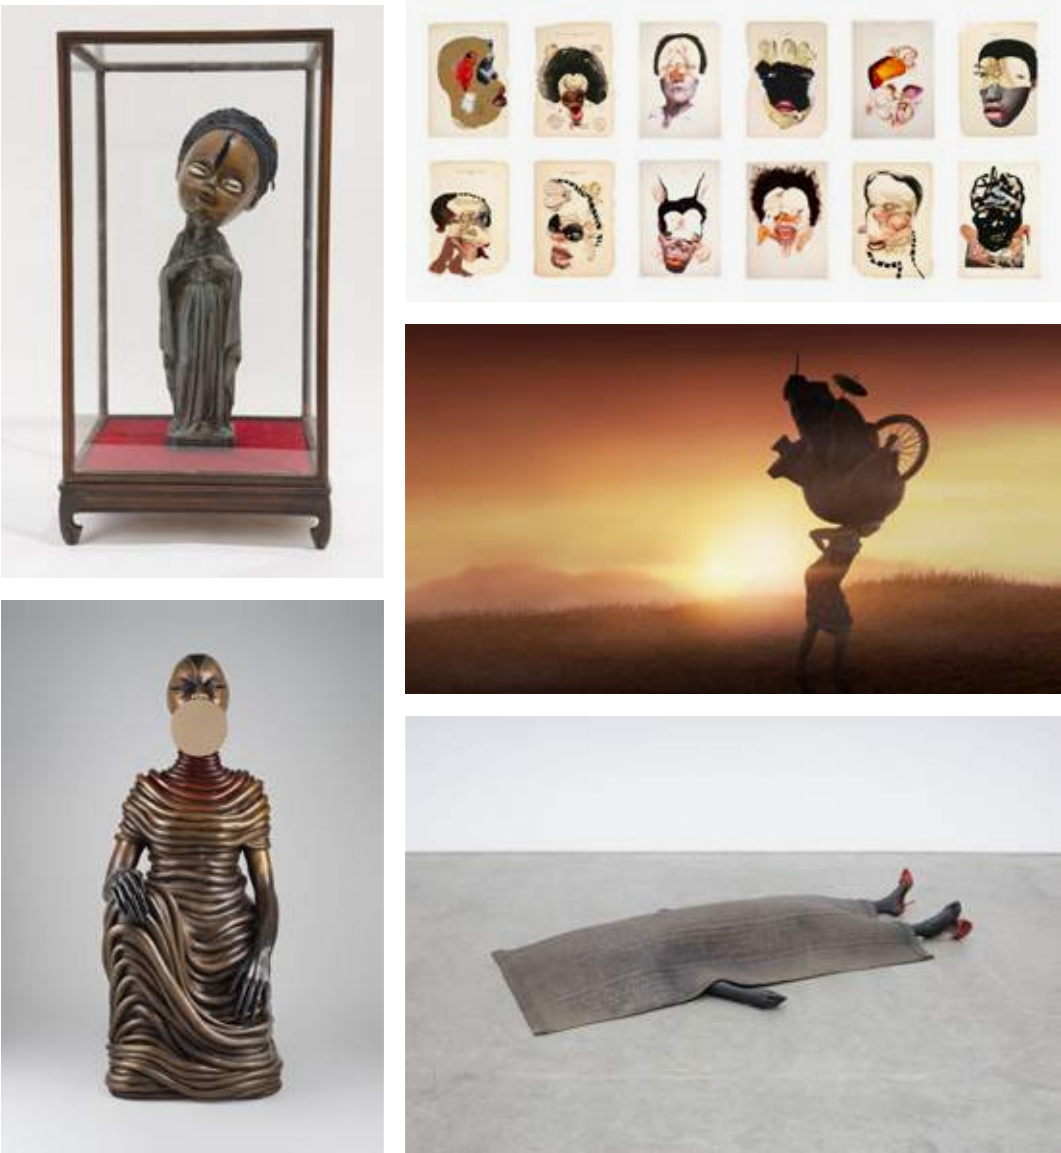

- Accompanies the first comprehensive museum survey in New York to trace the entirety of Mutu's practice, opening at the New Museum in March 2023
- Includes newly commissioned essays by prominent art historians and a new interview with the artist by the exhibition's curators, among other contributions
- The opportunity to see thematic through-lines and progressions across the entire arc of Mutu's career
- Mutu's work addresses some of today's most critical questions concerning historical violence and its impact on women, and our inextricable ties toward one another, our ecosystems, and other life forms
- Her sculptures inaugurated the Metropolitan Museum of Art's Façade Project, and her work is in the collection of the Museum of Modern Art, New York, and Tate Modern, London, among others.

The Garden: Elements and Styles

Classic format

Toby Musgrave

More than 200 garden elements, styles, features, and ornaments for gardeners around the globe

In this book, now in a classic format, garden expert and historian Toby Musgrave explores the creative art of garden-making through more than 200 elements and features. This is the ultimate reference guide to garden elements and styles, with entries ranging from Allée and Bower to Formal, Native Planting, and Xeriscape – each illustrated with examples drawn from historic and contemporary gardens around the world. Whether tending an English cottage garden or a Japanese Zen landscape, gardeners and garden lovers everywhere will be inspired as never before.

Dr. Toby Musgrave is an authority on garden history. He devised and presented the BBC Radio 4 series 'The British Garden', and has published widely. He teaches garden history at the Danish Institute for Study Abroad, and has also lectured at Oxford University and the Royal Horticultural Society. He was consultant editor for The Gardener's Garden (2014) and is author of Green Escapes (2018), both by Phaidon.

Key Selling Points

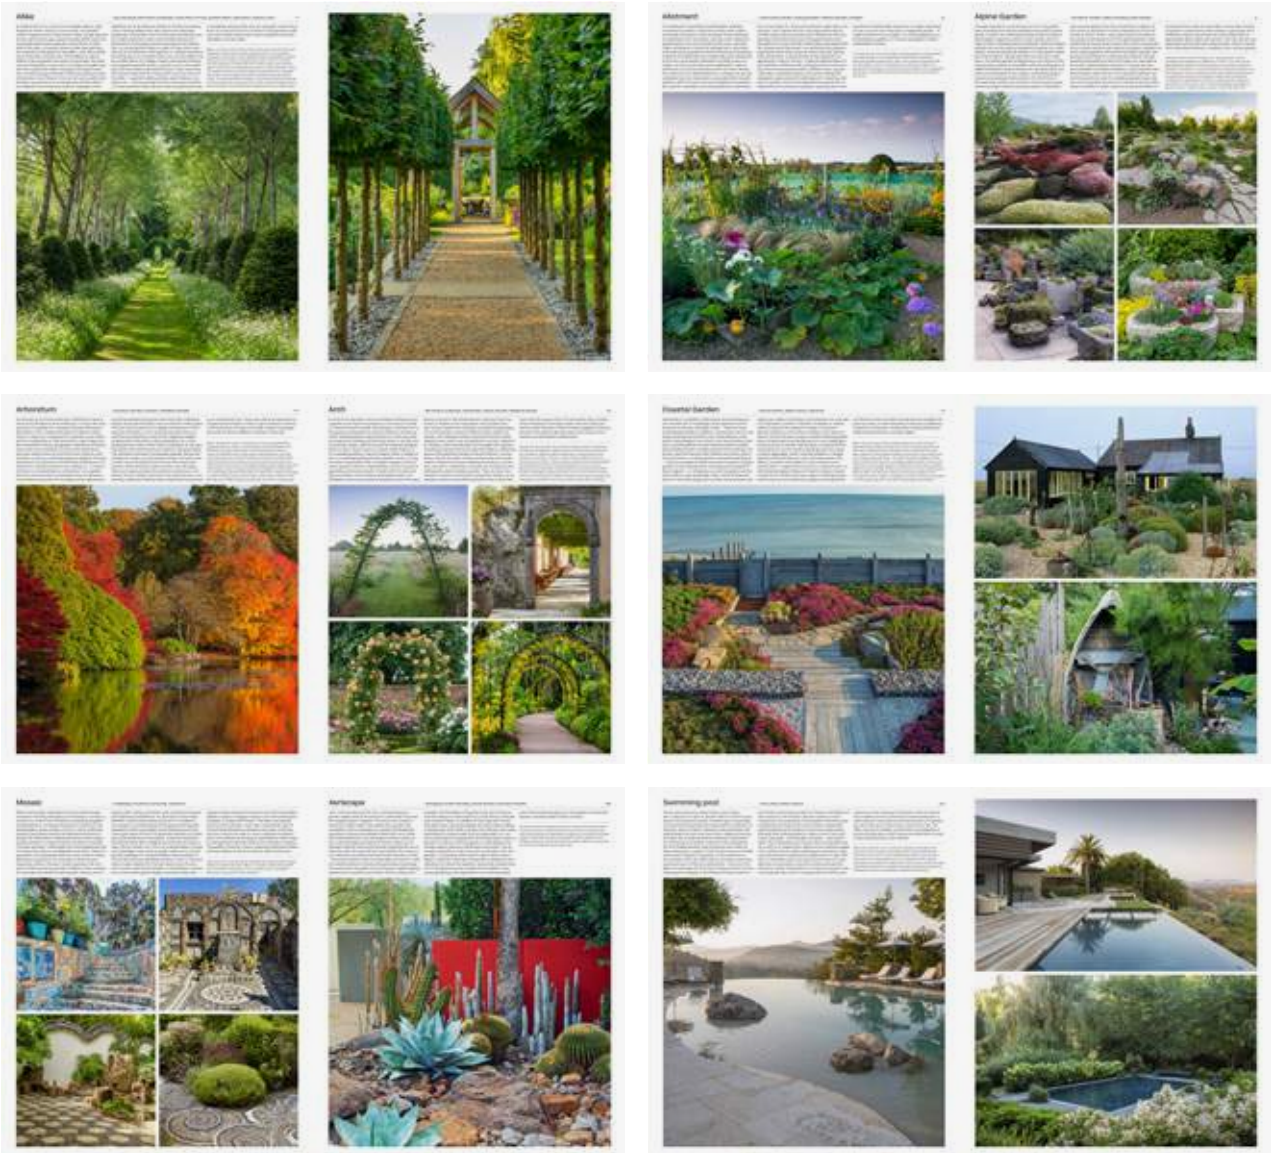

- The first illustrated 'glossary' for gardeners and garden designers, featuring more than 200 definitions and informative descriptions of modern and historical garden styles, features, types, and ornaments – now in an elegant new classic format
- A definitive reference book on garden design and its history, with an easy-to-use A-to-Z organization with handy cross-references
- Comprehensive in scope – entries span styles and types (cottage, Islamic, minimalist); features (basin, gazebo, waterfall); and design theories (borrowed landscape, geometric, informal, vista)
- Features gardens around the world, public, iconic, lesser-known, and private, and the work of emerging and eminent designers, including Andrea Cochran, Emily Erlam, Dan Pearson, and Bernard Trainor

The very first cookbook from the hugely popular Taiwanese-inspired restaurant and cult brand, BAO

With restaurants across London that have quickly achieved cult status, BAO presents an exciting and unique interpretation of Taiwanese food culture. The dishes they create and the restaurants they design look to Taiwanese street food, the late-night grill culture of Tokyo and Taipei, and traditional foam teahouses in Taiwan for inspiration, resulting in inventive takes on classic Taiwanese flavours. This playful cookbook features 100 recipes from across their restaurants and takes readers to the heart of the BAO world, telling their fascinating story for the first time.

Erchen Chang, Shing Tat Chung, and Wai Ting Chung are the brains behind BAO. Brother and sister Shing Tat and Wai Ting were born in Nottingham to parents from Hong Kong, who operated Cantonese restaurants in the city, while Erchen spent her childhood in Taipei, before moving to the UK aged 14. The trio dreamed up BAO in 2013 when they traveled across Taiwan together and were inspired by the informal street food culture and culinary traditions they discovered.

Key Selling Points

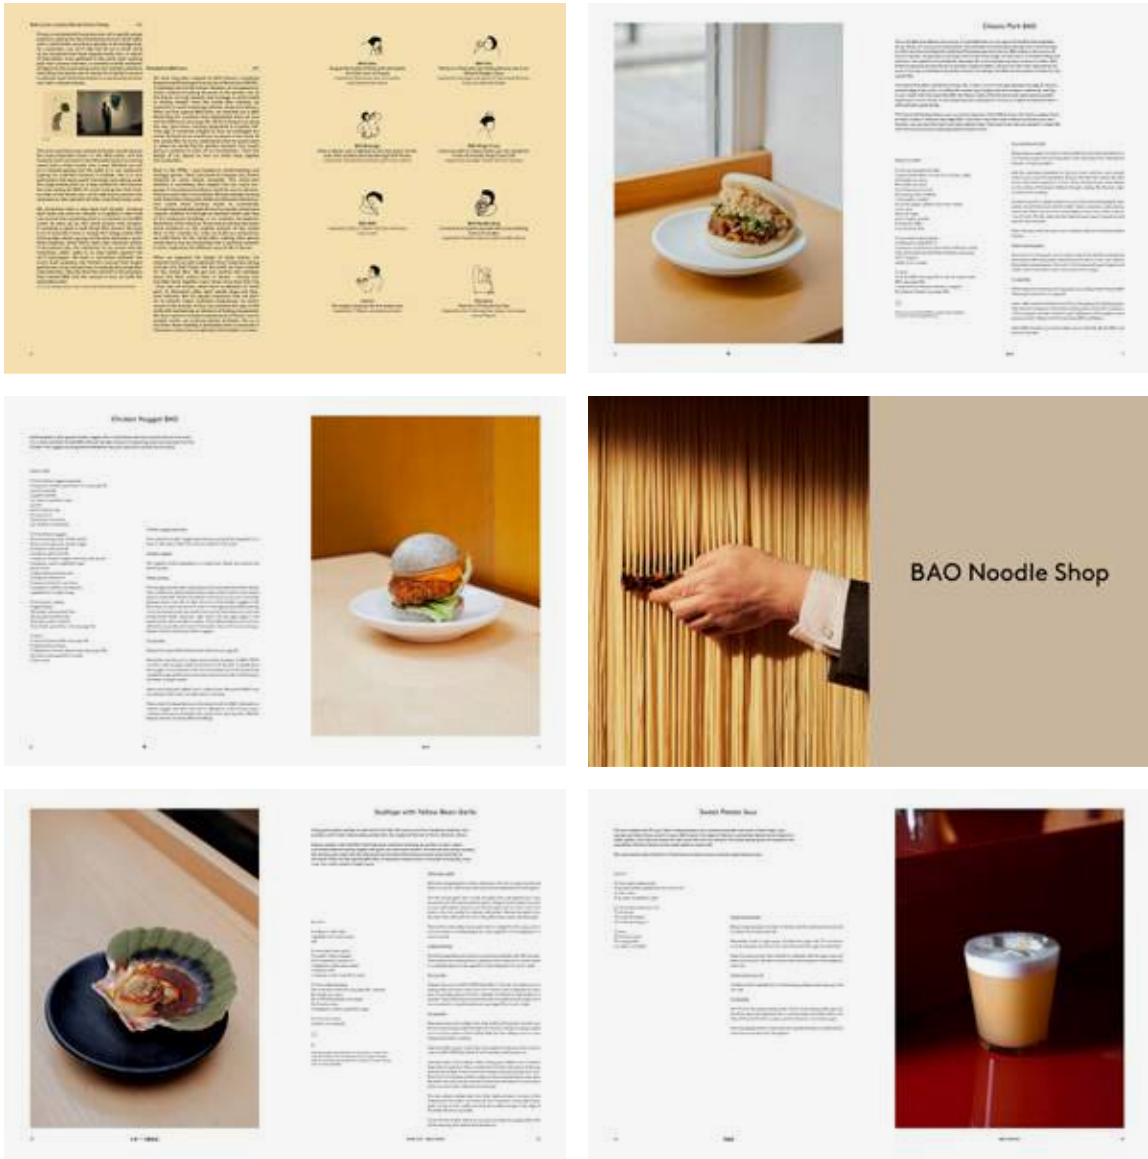

- The recipes range from Fried Chicken BAO, Sad Face BAO, and Dan Dan Tofu Noodles, to Chilli Chicken Wings, Fried Prawn Rolls, and Melon Floatini
- The book takes readers deep into the BAOverse, revealing the inner workings of the brand, the ideas behind the restaurants and also introducing the concepts of the School of BAO, the Lonely Man, and embracing solitude
- In addition to stunning photography of each dish, the book includes never-seen-before family snapshots and candid behind-the-screens images as well as sections devoted to baos, drinks, and basics
- This unique cookbook tells the story behind each of the five BAO restaurants – Soho, Fitzrovia, Borough, King's Cross, and Shoreditch – and explores their individual style of eating and how they are inspired by the team's travels and Asian culture

The exciting debut cookbook from the acclaimed chef of the two-Michelin-starred London restaurant Ikoyi

Ikoyi is one of the most original, flavor-driven restaurants of its time. Run by childhood-friend duo Iré Hassan-Odukale and chef Jeremy Chan, the innovative culinary mind behind the unique tasting menu, its menu is inspired by the spices of Sub-Saharan West Africa and produce from local farms and artisan producers. This debut cookbook tells the compelling story and journey of Chan and Ikoyi, with 80 recipes that Chan has carefully developed to encapsulate bold heat: his signature flavor.

Jeremy Chan is the chef and co-founder of Ikoyi. Born to a Canadian mother and Chinese father, Jeremy grew up between Hong Kong, Canada, and England, experiencing a diverse range of cuisines. After graduating from Princeton, Chan originally worked as an analyst in Madrid, before deciding to become a chef. Today Jeremy is at the forefront of the gastronomic landscape, blending his dishes with spice, flavor, and his personal experiences.

Key Selling Points

- The book includes narratives throughout illustrating Ikoyi's inspiration and inception, as influenced by Chan's experiences living, cooking, and traveling in Hong Kong, Canada, Sub-Saharan Africa, and Europe
- Ikoyi was named one of The World's 50 Best Restaurants in 2022
- Each recipe features a story about how the dish was developed, plus the influences of seasonality and produce from local farms and artisan producers
- Chan is an acclaimed London-based chef with two Michelin stars and a widely admiring international audience, with diners from all over the world

The story, inspiration, and recipes behind one of the world’s leading female chefs and her eponymous restaurant in Curitiba

In this much anticipated book, award-winning chef Manoella Buffara (known as Manu) invites readers to discover how her love for her native Brazil became her greatest motivation. Through never-before-published recipes and specially commissioned photography, Manu tells the story of a culinary career founded on a commitment to indigenous ingredients and underserved communities, as showcased within her restaurant Manu. This, her debut cookbook, encapsulates the ambitions and values of one of the world’s most highly creative and globally respected chefs.

Manoella (Manu) Buffara is based in Curitiba, Brazil. Since opening her restaurant Manu, she has been placed consistently in Latin America’s 50 Best Restaurants Awards and, in 2018, she received the prestigious ‘One to Watch’ commendation at the World’s 50 Best Awards. She participates in conferences and charities around the world, including the prestigious Basque Culinary World Prize. In 2023, Buffara will open the restaurant Ella in New York City.

Key Selling Points

- This highly anticipated cookbook from the acclaimed Brazilian chef Manoella Buffara presents an evocative reflection of the personal journey of the chef and the story of her community, life, and land
- The book includes three personal essays: Araucaria, Melipona, and Passion Fruit
- Features 60 never-before-published recipes, with four evocative menu ‘collections’, and a set of welcome drinks and petit-fours
- The book includes forewords by French chef Dominique Crenn (based in California) and her mentor, Brazilian chef Alex Atala
- Features specially commissioned photographs taken across a single year – of plated food, the land and sea that drive Buffara’s culinary vision, and the communities and ingredients that inspire her

Chefwise

Life Lessons from the Kitchen and Beyond

Shari Bayer

The world's leading chefs offer inspiration, advice, and life lessons from both in and out of the kitchen

To become a great chef or to run a top restaurant, you need to learn from those who have already been there and done it: the chefs. In this unique book, author Shari Bayer has collected the wisdom of Michelin-star celebrities, rising professionals, and restaurant owners all over the world to provide essential insider advice for all aspiring chefs and culinary business people. Filled with inspirational lessons and personal anecdotes, Chefwise covers the things that are not normally taught in culinary school but are essential parts of a contemporary chef's everyday job – from being a creative cook and inspirational leader to a savvy entrepreneur and social-media expert.

Shari Bayer has over thirty years of experience in the hospitality industry, from working the floor at Charlie Trotter's restaurant in Chicago to founding the NYC PR agency, Bayer Public Relations in 2003, and establishing her podcast, All in the Industry on Heritage Radio Network, a member-supported radio station with more than one million monthly listeners worldwide.

Key Selling Points

- Filled with invaluable advice from more than 100 of the world's greatest chefs on topics never taught in culinary schools – a What They Don't Teach You at Harvard Business School for the hospitality industry
- Featured chefs include Massimo Bottura, Jeremy Chan, Tom Colicchio, Nina Compton, Wylie Dufresne, Suzanne Goin, Enrique Olvera, Eric Ripert, Clare Smyth, Jean-Georges Vongerichten, and Alice Waters, among others
- With wide appeal to chefs and other professionals already in the industry, foodies, and anyone who dreams of opening their own restaurant
- One of the first books to provide real insight into and examination of the mechanisms of the culinary industry from a contemporary and holistic perspective, rather than being focused on recipes and techniques

Praise for Eataly: Contemporary Italian Cooking:

‘Not merely another handsome book about Italian cookery ... Eataly is a bible, a guide for modern life, lived without undue waste of time, concentrating on the freshness and background of every ingredient ... The recipes concentrate on freshness and simplicity, with some imaginative combinations of flavours ... a celebration of such ingredients, and of an intelligent understanding of the importance of taking food seriously and with discrimination – both valuable messages in an age of haste and expediency.’ – Times Literary Supplement

‘The latest in Phaidon’s famously

elegant line of cookbooks, but we’re loving it for more than its simple aesthetic and inviting textured cover... [The visual glossary] is arguably the most useful 40 pages ever published in a cookbook.’ – Tasting Table

Alchemy

The Material World of David Adjaye

Spencer Bailey, with a preface by David Adjaye and a foreword by Teresita Fernández

A fascinating new take on the architecture of Adjaye, exploring his approach to five building materials through his projects

In order to understand David Adjaye as an architect, you must look at his projects through the lens of material – a crucial consideration in his practice. Organized into five sections – Stone/Concrete, Wood, Metal, Glass, and Rammed Earth – Alchemy reimagines the traditional architect monograph by examining the importance of material in architecture, a study vital to Adjaye and his design process. The book features over 30 projects around the world, from his 2001 Concrete Garden in London to the Amoako Bofofo Gallery in Accra, Ghana, built with rammed earth and completed in 2022.

Spencer Bailey is the co-founder of The Slowdown, co-host of the Time Sensitive podcast, and author of In Memory Of: Designing Cultural Memorials (Phaidon). He has written for publications such as The New York Times Magazine, Fortune, Newsweek, and Town & Country. From 2013 to 2018, Bailey was the editor-in-chief of Surface magazine. He lives in New York City.

Key Selling Points

- David Adjaye is one of the most in-demand architects today, known for his thoughtful interpretation of public spaces
- Includes a preface by David Adjaye, an introduction to Adjaye's approach to material written by the book's author, and a foreword by the artist Teresita Fernández
- The book will feature over thirty public, commercial, and residential projects from Adjaye's career thus far, through striking visuals, descriptive captions, and an extended narrative provided by the author, based upon multiple conversations with Adjaye
- In 2021, David Adjaye was awarded the RIBA Gold Medal, and he was among seven global leaders to receive a TIME100 Impact Award in 2022

The first authoritative monograph on the life and work of the celebrated Danish-American designer Jens Quistgaard

Jens Quistgaard (1919–2008), considered one of the founders of Scandinavian Modern style, spent 30 years as chief designer at the American company Dansk Designs, resulting in more than 4,000 products. His design philosophy – that utilitarian, everyday items should function harmoniously – influenced his approach to everything from spoons and pans to crockery and pepper mills, and is as relevant today as it was half a century ago. This book delves deep into Quistgaard's life and work to reveal his critical contribution to design history.

Stig Guldberg is an independent consultant, curator, and film director. He has researched, written, and consulted extensively on Jens Quistgaard, including as external curator for DANSK – Design by Jens Quistgaard, HEART – Herning Museum of Contemporary Art, Denmark, 2015, and as contributing author to the accompanying exhibition catalog. He also directed The Designer Jens Quistgaard – A Saucepan for My Wife for ABCFilm in 2009.

Key Selling Points

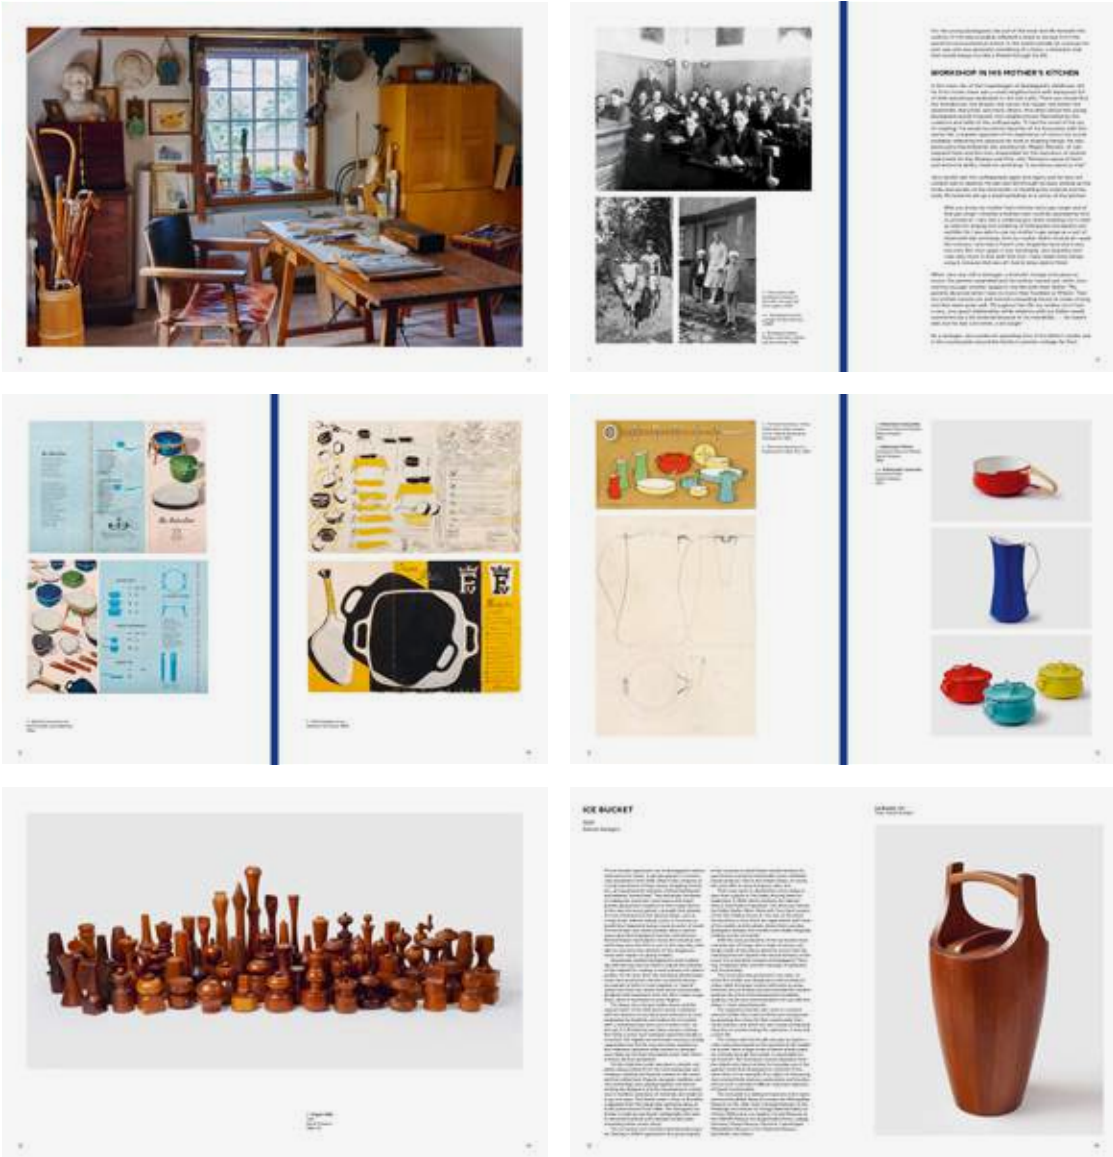

- The first English-language monograph on Quistgaard, an unsung icon of mid-century-modern design
- Includes never-before-seen sketches, archival photography, and ephemera as well as an illustrated inventory of Quistgaard's designs
- Brand new photography of Quistgaard's work and home celebrates his legacy and encourages renewed interest in his output as both an artist and designer
- Quistgaard's work is represented at major museums in Europe and the USA, including Design Museum Denmark, MoMA, New York, and the British Museum, London, with many of his designs still produced today
- Builds on Phaidon's prestigious series of classic design monographs featuring the likes of Verner Panton, Finn Juhl, Harry Bertoia, Ward Bennett, and Jens Risom

The first in-depth exploration of the award-winning cultural center in Saudi Arabia, designed by Norwegian architects Snøhetta

Ithra, also known as the King Abdulaziz Center for World Culture, in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, is an unprecedented architectural achievement. Designed by the Norwegian architectural firm Snøhetta, built by Saudi Aramco, and inaugurated by King Salman bin Abdulaziz in late 2017, Ithra has been listed in Time magazine as one of the world's top 100 places to visit. This book reveals the story behind this striking architectural gem, from its inception to its realization.

James Steele is Professor Emeritus of Architecture at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles. He has written a number of books including Architecture Today, Pierre Koenig, Los Angeles Architecture and Queen Mary, all published by Phaidon. Mashary Al-Naim is Professor and Director of the National Built Heritage Center at the College of Architecture and Planning of the Imam Abdulrahman Bin Faisal University, Dammam, Saudi Arabia.

Key Selling Points

- Designed on a monumental scale by the Norwegian architectural firm Snøhetta, this multi-purpose cultural institution, with its unusual geometric structures, is one of a kind in contemporary architecture
- The first comprehensive overview of this prestigious contribution to Saudi Arabian culture
- With stunning imagery, this publication offers an in-depth, behind-the-scenes look at the inspiration for Ithra, from the competition process and selection of the architect to the complex construction of this monumental achievement
- Winner of Project of the Year and Best Innovative Project of the Year at the Construction Innovation Awards in 2019

The first monograph on the Danish designer, whose approach combines his Scandinavian heritage with a modern design language

David Thulstrup's award-winning international and multi-disciplinary practice includes everything from residential architecture to interiors for restaurants, stores, and hotels, as well as designs for furniture and lighting. This book traces Thulstrup's life and influences from his childhood and education in Denmark, up to the present day, demonstrating his unique approach to design through more than twenty architectural and interiors projects, as well as sixteen designs for furniture.

Having gained extensive experience working for Jean Nouvel in Paris and Peter Marino in New York, David Thulstrup founded his own practice in 2009, grounded on enduring Scandinavian values of honesty and humanism with a particular emphasis on materiality. Describing his style as 'modern simplicity', Thulstrup creates pared-back designs that feel current but stand the test of time.

Key Selling Points

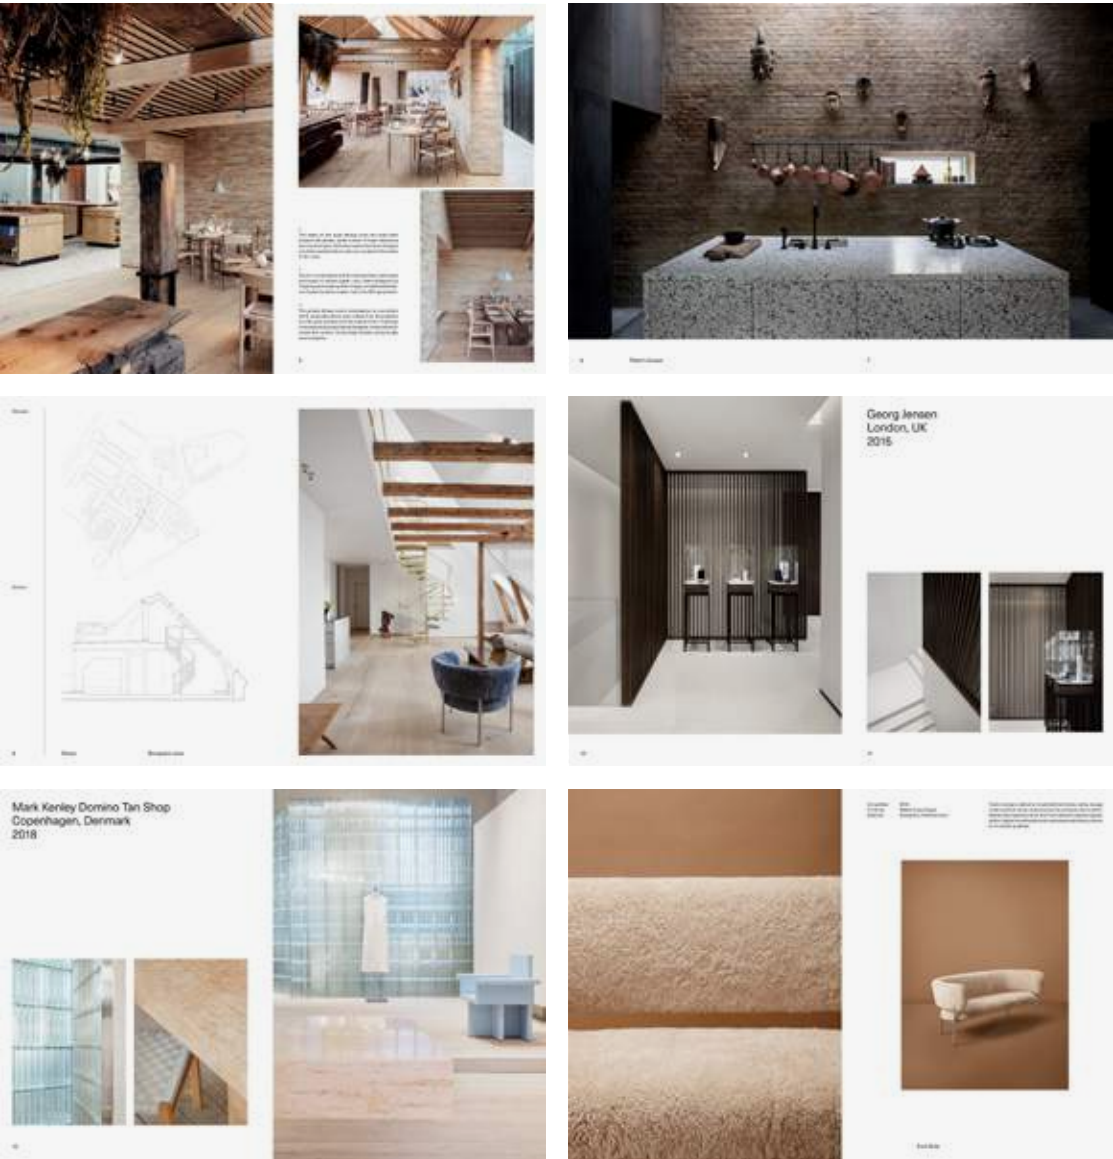

- The book features four in-depth case studies, including his design for the interior and furniture for the new Noma restaurant in Copenhagen
- Written by acclaimed design writer Sophie Lovell, author of Dieter Rams: As Little Design as Possible, published by Phaidon Press (2011)
- Features more than 250 specially commissioned stunning color photographs as well as floor plans, architectural drawings, mood boards, and process photographs
- Among the practice's most recent awards are a number from Architectural Digest, Dezeen, Monocle, and *Wallpaper

Herman Miller

A Way of Living, anniversary edition

Edited by Amy Auscherman, Sam Grawe, and Leon Ransmeier

A chronicle of the rich history of this innovative furniture company, from its founding in the early twentieth century to today

For more than 100 years, Michigan-based Herman Miller has played a central role in the evolution of modern and contemporary design, producing timeless classics while creating a culture that has had a remarkable impact on the development of the design world. Ten chapters and thousands of illustrations tell the Herman Miller story as never before, documenting its defining moments and key leaders – making Herman Miller: A Way of Living an indispensable addition to the bookshelves of design-lovers around the globe.

‘... a company archive that is rich with material from and about the legendary figures who helped make Herman Miller a leader in postwar American design.’

– Pilar Viladas, T Magazine

Key Selling Points

With 10 chapters and thousands of illustrations, this is the first monograph to chart the history of Herman Miller – a company known as much for its pioneering designs and international influence as for its emphasis on environment and community service

- New and archival photography illustrates the evolution of Herman Miller’s furniture designs over the course of the century

- Features the stories and creations of legendary designers, including Ray and Charles Eames, George Nelson, and Alexander Girard

- Now with a luxurious real-cloth case – a volume for all design aficionados and furniture fans to treasure

Back in print, the essential exploration of the design, history, and culture of the motorcycle – an icon of the machine age

Motorcycles are ubiquitous in the world’s streets and cities, evolving over decades in engineering and design to meet individual transportation needs. With the coming demise of the internal combustion engine and the rise of electric-powered vehicles, motorcycle design is being revolutionized by new technologies, the demands of climate change, and global social transformation. The Motorcycle: Design, Art, Desire traces the exciting evolution of this automotive icon – and the culture of desire, freedom, and rebellion that surrounds it.

Charles M Falco is professor of optical sciences and of physics at the University of Arizona. Alongside his lifelong passion for motorcycles, his work has seen him collaborate with artist David Hockney on a research project into the historic use of optical aids in painting. Ultan Guilfoyle is an award-winning producer, director, and writer, whose films include Sketches of Frank Gehry (2006) and Making Space, Five Women Architects (2015).

Key Selling Points

- Showcases 100 superb examples of motorcycle design from the late 19th century to the present day and beyond to the technological innovations of the future
- Written by internationally renowned motorcycle experts, Professor Charles M Falco and Ultan Guilfoyle, who reveal the motorcycle's influence in realms as diverse as film, fashion, sport, advertising, and technology
- Beautifully illustrated with specially commissioned photography and archival ephemera, this visually arresting survey will prove compulsive reading to design lovers and motorcycle fans alike

Spaghetti! An Interactive Recipe Book

Cook in a Book Series

Lotta Nieminen

Cook pasta from scratch inside this interactive recipe book – fry, simmer, boil, drain, grate and more!

A simple but accurate recipe takes young readers through the steps of cooking spaghetti, from chopping onions to serving up a plate of steaming hot pasta with tomato sauce, while the interactive novelty features invite them to participate in the process ... without any chance of spilling anything. Move the tab up and down to add the onions and garlic, lift the flap to open the can of tomatoes, pull the tab to bring the water to a boil, use the punch-out fork to twist some spaghetti onto your fork to taste, and more. One hundred percent adult-free, danger-free, and mess free – cooking spaghetti has never been so independent!

Lotta Nieminen is an illustrator, graphic designer, and art director from Helsinki, Finland, running her own New York-based studio. In 2014, she was nominated for Forbes magazine's annual 30 Under 30 list. In 2010, she received the Art Directors Club Young Guns award. Her client list includes Google, The New York Times, and Vanity Fair, among others.

Key Selling Points

- The fifth book in Phaidon's groundbreaking Cook in a Book series, following the widely embraced first four titles, Pancakes!, Pizza!, Tacos!, and Cookies!
- Paper-engineered novelty features allow readers to safely fry, simmer, boil, drain, and eat!
- Features a real recipe, so that parents and kids can cook outside of the book as well
- Lotta Nieminen's acclaimed art style elevates this title from the 'expected' novelty-book aesthetic
- Features: embedded tabs, embossing, pull-out tabs, and punch-out pieces

Who Ate What?

A Historical Guessing Game for Food Lovers

Rachel Levin, illustrated by Natalia Rojas Castro

Guess what people ate throughout history in this deliciously informative introduction to culinary history

In this first book of culinary history for children, readers will discover the fascinating dishes eaten by 10 high-interest historical peoples – from prehistoric humans to children of the future. Whether munching on mud-baked hedgehogs like the ancient Egyptians, or nibbling tacos topped with chillis grown in space like the astronauts of today, readers will be immersed in the diverse, tasty, weird, and wonderful food history of the world. Packed with guess-what challenges, unbelievable facts, and delicious reveals, this fact-filled interactive read-aloud encourages an interest in food (and perhaps a bit of subtle encouragement to taste something new!), and is perfect for history-lovers and food-enthusiasts alike.

Key Selling Points

- Featuring high-interest diverse peoples throughout history – such as ancient Egyptians, Vikings, pirates, ninjas, Ethiopian empresses, and more – to draw readers into the fascinating world of culinary culture and history
- Using wit and an interactive guessing game to provide an accessible and entertaining way to talk about history through a food lens, encouraging a life-long interest in food
- Includes four real recipes from different times – a great resource for hands on learning at home and in the classroom
- A playful approach to an unusual and important non-fiction topic. Who Ate What? tells a much bigger story about people and tradition, history and culture, science, and nutrition

Louise Bourgeois Made Giant Spiders and Wasn't Sorry.

Fausto Gilberti

A clever, quirky picture-book biography of one of the most important figures of modern and contemporary art

Louise Bourgeois was a world-famous artist who told stories of her life through her art until she was 98 years old. She drew, wove, and sculpted pieces inspired by her experiences, often using everyday objects that reminded her of her family and her past. Her famous giant spiders fascinate – and sometimes terrify – art-lovers to this day, but the truth behind the inspiration for these towering sculptors is not as scary as it may seem. This is an inspiring story about a young girl who became the first female sculptor to have a solo exhibition at the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

Fausto Gilberti is a painter and illustrator based in Brescia, Italy. He studied at the Accademia di Belle Arti di Brera in Milan, and has been part of more than a hundred solo and group exhibitions, both in Italy and abroad. He writes the books in this artist biography series to make contemporary art approachable and enjoyable for his two children.

Key Selling Points

- A unique picture-book celebration for children of one of the most important modern and contemporary woman artists of our time
- The fifth title in a series of unique biographies that relay the spirit and essence of the great modern and contemporary artists of our time in a voice and style that is pitch-perfect for young readers
- Unusual, striking black-and-white illustrations bring Louise Bourgeois and her signature sculptures to life like never before
- Includes a four-color reproduction of the artist's work and a summarizing biography in the back of the book

A guide to the art, artists, and culture of graffiti from the 1970s to today, as told by the taggers themselves

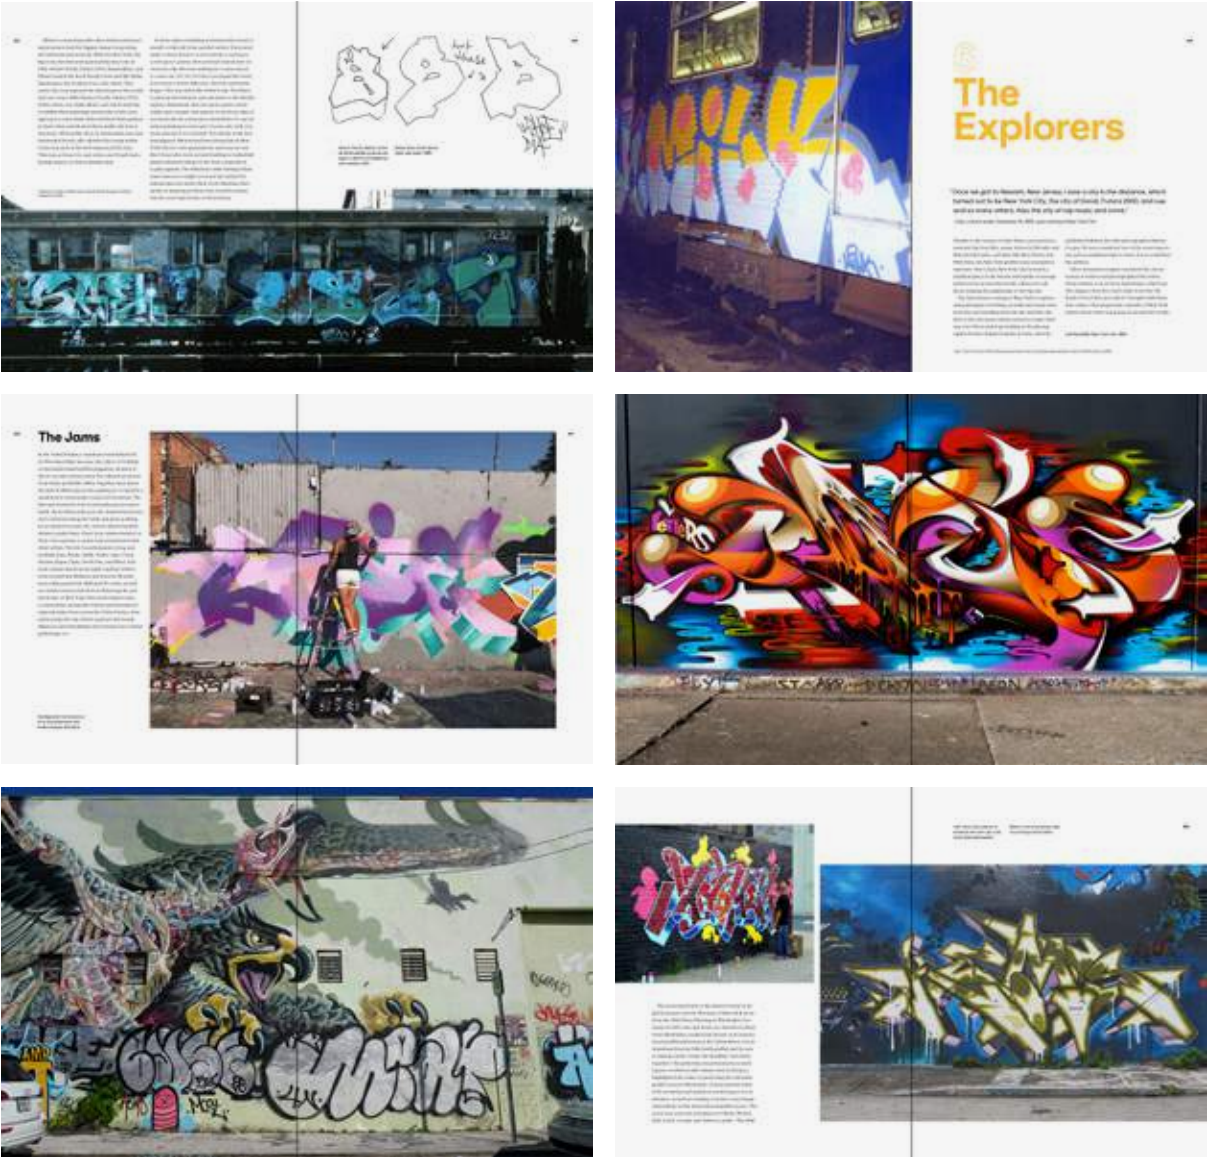

This major copublication with the Museum of Graffiti chronicles the worldwide graffiti movement from its birth in the 1970s, through the street and train painting of the 1980s, to its emergence as an artistic genre admired in museums and sold at auction. Told through essays, hundreds of images, and interviews with the artists – both the underground outlaws and the writers who went mainstream – The Wide World of Graffiti will become the standard-bearer of the art form’s history and life today.

Alan Ket is an artist, graffiti historian, and cofounder of the Museum of Graffiti. Ket has contributed to such publications as the 1990s cult zine Stress, and graffiti, music, and culture magazines Complex and Vibe. He has consulted on product launches embodying street culture and has worked with art institutions to develop programming. Ket has documented street art throughout the world while painting with many of the top graffiti artists.

- Key Selling Points
- Gives an insider's view through multiple interviews with celebrated graffiti artists, including Roger Smith of Sane Smith, Hotboy Hert, DESA, Shirt King Phade, RIME, MadC, Saber, AURA, and others
 - Includes hundreds of never-before-seen photographs of graffiti art from the 1970s to today, many of which have been provided exclusively for this volume by the artists themselves
 - A unique contribution from the first and only museum dedicated to graffiti as an art form

‘From the perspective of a graffiti writer, the debate about whether graffiti is art or crime is pointless because, ideally, it is both. In the graffiti community a writer cannot achieve status solely based on artistic ability. The writer must also be willing to work outside the law and assume great risk. The movement – which I have been documenting in New York for over 30 years – was founded on this principle and it defines its essence.’ – New York Times

‘A whole industry grew up around fencing train yards and other potential sites, developing graffiti-proof silicon coatings, criminalizing the purchase of spray paint, and arresting the artists and making them scrub off each others’ work. At the same time, the work of artists including Jean-Michel Basquiat and Keith Haring, was discovered by the media and art magazines, coveted by private collectors, and featured in museum and gallery exhibitions.’ – PRINT Magazine

Milton Glaser: POP

Steven Heller, Mirko Ilić, Beth Kleber

An overview of the work of illustrator and designer Milton Glaser during the 1960s and 70s

From 1954, when he co-founded the legendary Push Pin Studios, to the late 70s, Milton Glaser largely defined the international visual style for illustration, advertising, and typeface design. Across thousands of works across all print media, he invented a graphic language of bright, flat color, drawing and collage, imbued with his customary wit. This collection from Glaser's Pop period features hundreds of examples of his work that have not been seen since their original publication, demonstrating the graphic revolution that transformed design and popular culture.

Steven Heller is author, co-author, and/or editor of hundreds of seminal books on design and popular culture. Mirko Ilić has collaborated and coauthored numerous books with Glaser and Heller, and is an instructor at Cooper Union and the School of Visual Arts. Beth Kleber is the founding archivist of the Milton Glaser Design Study Center and Archives at the School of Visual Arts in New York.

Key Selling Points

Milton Glaser was one of the most celebrated graphic designers of his day, whose work graced countless book and album covers, posters, magazine covers, and advertisements, both famous and little-known, and many here unseen since their original publication

Glaser's renowned work garnered solo exhibitions at the Centre Georges Pompidou and the Museum of Modern Art. Creator of the iconic 'I ♥ NY' logo and cofounder of New York magazine, he received numerous accolades and lifetime achievement awards

Interest in Glaser's legacy continues unabated, with modern creatives acknowledging his influence; in 2014 Mad Men creator Matthew Weiner enlisted Glaser to design the ad campaign and branding for the show's final season

'If graphic design has a grand master, then Milton Glaser is Michelangelo.' – Chip Kidd, The Believer

'It was Milton Glaser, who – probably more than any graphic designer of his generation – forged the sophisticated, exuberant advertising look of the late 1960s, the time Mad Men is now traversing.' – New York Times

'Even if you only knew Glaser's "I heart New York" design, you'd still have to agree that his impact has been profound worldwide. Since 1977, New York State sees more than $1 million a year in licensing fees from the design; Glaser pocketed only $2,000 for the original, which is now in the Museum of Modern Art ... His iconic 1967 psychedelic Bob Dylan poster is playful, even as it riffs on a famous self-portrait of Marcel Duchamp. It embodies the two elements that define his work: intelligence and humor.' – PRINT Magazine

Donna Dennis

Poet in Three Dimensions

Essay by Helaine Posner, Conversation with Donna Dennis, Rackstraw Downes, and Nicole Miller

The first monograph on the architectural sculptor and installation artist and long-time collaborator with the NY School poets

Best known for creating large-scale installation work inspired by American vernacular architecture, Dennis finds beauty in sites shaped by ordinary people, which become repositories for memory and feelings. This book contextualizes Dennis's work within contemporary art and the women's movements and examines sculptural installations and public-art projects that represent points of passage on a symbolic life journey. A conversation between Dennis and painter Rackstraw Downes brings to life the artist's influences.

Helaine Posner, Chief Curator Emerita of the Neuberger Museum of Art, is the author of monographs on Kiki Smith and Louise Fishman and co-author of After the Revolution: Women Who Transformed Contemporary Art and of The Reckoning: Women Artists of the New Millennium. Rackstraw Downes is an artist and author of Rackstraw Downes: Nature and Art Are Physical: Writings on Art, 1967 – 2008. Nicole Miller's essays have appeared in Art in America and other national publications.

Key Selling Points

- This book has a dedicated audience of collectors and art historians interested in the architectural sculpture movement of the 1970s, public art more broadly, and those who study feminism in art
- The book is supported by exhibitions of Dennis's new work, including wall dioramas of night skies and scenes, and watercolors in New York and the Private Public Gallery, Hudson, New York
- Publication coincides with Women's History Month
- Includes insightful text by Helaine Posner, a recognized scholar of feminist art, plus commentary from Dennis on the sources and process of creating the work

'To dwell principally on Dennis's realism ... is to miss the poetic, mythic nature of her art ... She is of that American strain of deceptively straightforward artists whose work harbors the dark visions underlying Edward Hopper's cannily constructed paintings and Robert Frost's subtly haunted verse.'

– Robert Berlind, The Brooklyn Rail

'What really sets Dennis's work apart is the way it draws its inspiration from the real world, rather than from art theory, and the way it speaks to the heart rather than the intellect.'

The definitive monograph on the work of sculptor, installation artist, and Arte Povera pioneer Luciano Fabro

Luciano Fabro was a founding member, and later leading critic, of Arte Povera, the materials- and experience-based art movement that began in Italy in the late 1960s. He went on to be exhibited internationally, becoming the first artist from the group to receive a major US retrospective, at the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art in 1992. This comprehensive, heavily illustrated monograph is the first complete overview of Fabro's life and career, written by esteemed critic and curator Margit Rowell, who interacted with Fabro repeatedly in his later years.

Margit Rowell is an art historian and independent curator who has held key curatorial positions at cultural institutions in the United States and Europe, including the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum, the Centre Georges Pompidou, and the Museum of Modern Art. She is the author, coauthor, or contributor to numerous books on twentieth-century artists. She lives in Paris.

Key Selling Points

- The first comprehensive study of Fabro, the cofounder and foremost theorist of Arte Povera, with the full support and participation of the artist's estate
- Timed to coincide with an exhibition at the legendary Paula Cooper Gallery in New York, and fully supported by Fabro's international galleries, Christian Stein (Milan) and Simon Lee (London and Hong Kong)
- A controversial artist, yet still a critical favorite: in 2018 the leading art publication The Brooklyn Rail dedicated an entire issue to Fabro; New York Times critic Roberta Smith wrote that Fabro treated 'art-making less as a profession and more as a continuing experiment intended to keep himself entertained and the viewer slightly off-balance'

'Fabro's subjection of works to the principles of equilibrium and grace, autonomy and singularity ... allied with an approach where less can always give way to more, the necessary always to the superfluous, demonstrates his connection with dandyism as well as the Baroque. But it is important to specify that the term "dandyism" refers to that passion for making and exhibiting a thing that is unique and sensual, that gives, to the touch of the hand, a sensation enigmatic and indescribable.'

– Artforum

'Why, then, should we take a new look at Fabro? In my opinion, it is because of what he can tell us about the possibilities of sculpture. Sculpture, for Fabro, was something that could be sensed, felt, touched, and tasted by the viewer. Before Félix González-Torres was piling up his candy installations, Fabro distributed sweets wrapped in messages, as part of an installation titled Computers di Luciano Fabro, Caramelle di Nadezda Mandelstam.'

The most comprehensive monograph available on the greatest living glassblower, Lino Tagliapietra

Lino Tagliapietra has been described as the world's greatest glassblower, a figure born from the five-hundred-year-old culture of Venetian glass, but who revolutionized glass as a discipline. Even more astonishing, as Tagliapietra hit his full stride, he has become a notable figure in the unfolding story of modern sculpture – an artist whose distinctive works are coveted by collectors of contemporary abstract art and whose vision makes us think about art history in new and profound ways.

Glenn Adamson is a curator, writer, and historian working at the intersection of contemporary art, craft, and design history. He was previously director of the Museum of Arts and Design in New York, head of research at the V&A in London, and curator of the Chipstone Foundation in Milwaukee. Henry Adams is the Ruth Coulter Heede Professor of Art History at Case Western Reserve University. He is a graduate of Harvard University and Yale University, and the author of fourteen books and many articles.

Key Selling Points

- The most comprehensive monograph of revered glass artist Lino Tagliapietra
- Features hundreds of new photographs of the artist's work, showcasing the impressive breadth and depth of his repertoire
- Glenn Adamson's and Henry Adams' insightful texts provide a unique perspective into the artist's craft

Rogan Gregory

The Result is Not the Answer

Rogan Gregory, with contributions by Edwina von Gal, Stanford Gregory, Tremaine Gregory, Pamela Shamshiri, and Evan Snyderman

The first monograph of Rogan Gregory, the artist/designer on the forefront of contemporary organic form-making

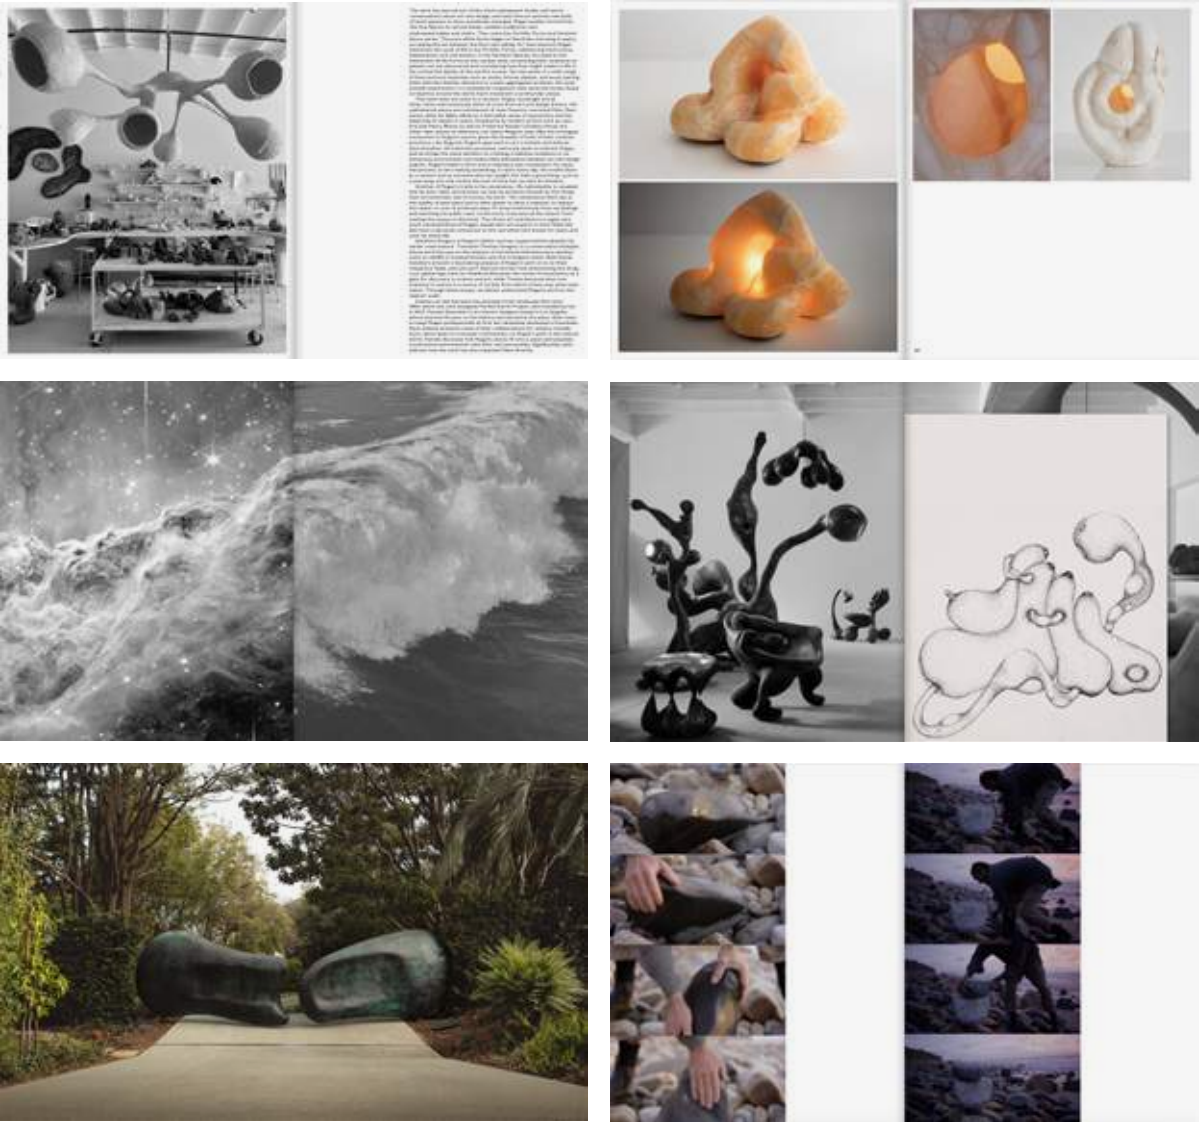

Rogan Gregory's work pushes boundaries across media and scale – from miniature bronze animal forms to towering sculptures and furniture in innovative aggregated materials. Gregory's iterative process and life-long interests in abstract forms, geology, and evolutionary biology allow him to develop an organic aesthetic unlike that of any designer working today. This debut monograph explores Gregory's work through the elemental inspirations that condition his work. Contributions by landscape architect Edwina von Gal, interior designer Pamela Shamshiri, and conservation biologist Tremaine Gregory reflect the synthesis of disciplines Gregory brings to his practice.

Rogan Gregory began his career in New York City as a design consultant for luxury fashion brands, and later as an acclaimed designer in his own right. He later explored furniture and object design, with solo exhibitions at R & Company in 2016 and 2018. He has been featured in multiple media outlets, including Architectural Digest and The Wall Street Journal.

Key Selling Points

- Rogan Gregory's star is rapidly ascending, with prominent solo exhibitions in development as well as major design and lifestyle media attention
- The latest in a successful string of co-publications with groundbreaking design gallery R & Company
- The book will be an object in its own right, incorporating Gregory's design and materials sensibilities, as well as a specially packaged limited edition to coincide with the release of the trade edition

'After getting his start designing clothing – first with his denim line Rogan, then with the environmentally focused label Loomstate – the artist has bravely switched paths, devoting the past three years to creating tables, lighting, and other striking objects, some as small as a two-inch bronze talon.' – Architectural Digest

'Known for handcrafted works that at times appear to elegantly melt, bloom, or even embrace, Gregory finds his inspiration in nature, pointing to everything from the female form to marine life, and even the mysteries of outer space.' – Design Miami/Forum

'As we worked together, I learned that Rogan's pieces are a constellation of characters, drawing inspiration from primordial forms, unreachable corners of the Earth, and the mysterious abyss of outer space. They encapsulate shapes that return you to something forgotten, animalistic, ancient, and otherworldly.' – Pamela Shamshiri

More than 250 rooms by iconic designers – the definitive illustrated handbook on the timeless style of grandmillennial-chic

Chintz, ruffles, wicker, and skirts: old-school decorating details are making a comeback in a fresh, new way thanks to a crop of designers putting their own unique spin on the classics. Join Schumacher, the legendary design company, for a tour of spaces that meld an appreciation for the past with an eye to the future. From cozy canopied beds to cheeky needlepoint pillows, it's granny chic for the next generation.

Emma Bazilian is a design writer, editor, and the content director at FREDERIC magazine and FSCO Media. A former editor at House Beautiful, she is an avid needlepointer and collector of vintage fabrics. Stephanie Diaz is the art director of FREDERIC magazine and FSCO Media. Prior, she lead the visual team at Schumacher and served as an art editor at Architectural Digest. A lifelong New Yorker, she has art directed two design books: The Authentics and S Is for Style.

Key Selling Points

- Using Schumacher's iconic patterns, luminary interior designers illustrate how to breathe new life into traditional design to create chic, modern, swoon-worthy rooms to inspire and emulate
- Features rooms designed by icons of contemporary interior design, including Mario Buatta, Mark Hampton, Miles Redd, Parish Hadley, Mary Meehan, Billy Baldwin, and David Hicks to name a few
- The first book on 'grandmillennial' style – the viral term coined by Charm School author Emma Bazilian, in a 2019 House Beautiful article
- Chapters comprise visually exuberant explorations of Chintz & Florals, Checks & Stripes, Toile, Matching Skirts, Slipcovers, Bed Hangings, Window Treatments, Scallop, Wicker & Rattan, Treillage, Decorative Painting, Vintage & Antiques, Collections, and Table Setting

Incorporating both formal details and welcoming elements, a sophisticated and balanced look tailored to a sense of home

Twenty-five interiors – by the water in the Hamptons, in prestigious Manhattan buildings, including 15 Central Park West, and in the New England countryside and Europe – present the work of Foley & Cox, a firm committed to creating unique spaces for clients. Taking creative cues directly from their clients – their perceptions, preferences, and passions – the firm creates serene interiors infused with personal style. The Foley & Cox portfolio is filled with multiple projects from a select group of clients, which is a tribute to the firm's astute interpretation of their goals through the selection of furnishings, fabric, color, and artwork.

Michael Cox (with Mary Foley) founded Foley & Cox in 2002 and now directs a firm dedicated to global luxury residential projects. Cox brings a breadth of expertise in interior architecture, furniture design, customized color palettes, and global sourcing, gleaned from his tenure at Ralph Lauren Home, that ensures a unique solution to each project. Foley & Cox Home is the retail extension of the foley&cox brand. The store and website offers customers a selection of fine antiques and home luxuries from resources and artisans that have been curated and cultivated all over the world. Pamela Jaccarino is editor-in-chief of Luxe magazine.

Key Selling Points

Contemporary interiors, carefully layered with color and texture and highlighted by sophisticated artwork and decorative objects, will appeal to an international audience of design enthusiasts

Established retail presence of Foley & Cox Home on Warren Street in Hudson, New York and a partnership with the fabric and wallpaper firm Holland & Sherry offer venues for events and promotion

'Michael Cox and Mary Foley founded their design company in 2002, and 20 years later, the firm is still putting their trademark stamp – a mix of über-graciousness, deference to natural light and art, comfort – on residences around the world.' – Architectural Digest

'Foley & Cox delivers a look that is inviting, sophisticated and tailored to the client like a couture gown. In all cases, the firm applies an assured touch, combining tasteful colors, clean lines, and generous helpings of natural light for rooms that are charming and appropriate.' – The Franklin Report

'Vintage pieces from the Tyrol dialogue with unique designs acquired in Los Angeles and treasures from the Paris flea market. The art focuses on local creators and emerging talent. The result is a modern house, but with patina, elegant, but easy to live in.' – Elle Decor Spain

How to Draw Sci-Fi Heroes and Villains:
Brainstorm, Design, and Bring to Life Teams of Cosmic Characters, Atrocious Androids, Celestial Creatures
– and Much, Much More!
By Prentis Rollins, with additional texts by Jacqueline Ching

From a renowned illustrator of DC and Marvel comic books, an engaging instruction book for teens and adults alike

How to Draw Sci-Fi Heroes and Villains is an art instruction book filled with original, full-color art and step-by-step instructional texts, teaching readers and burgeoning artists how to conceptualize, design, and draw their own science-fiction characters, good and evil, from fantastical realms of their imagination – including how to colorize characters, draw anatomical poses, and create inventive costumes. The book will also feature supplementary inspirational images culled from movies, TV, history, and pop culture.

Prentis Rollins is a longtime illustrator in the American comics industry. He wrote How to Draw Sci-fi Utopias and Dystopias (Monacelli Press, 2016), is the author of several graphic novels, and has taught pen-and-ink drawing at The School of Visual Arts. Jacqueline Ching is a children's book editor and author, who has written for Disney, Powerkids Press, Time for Kids, and the Milestone/DC line of superhero comics

Key Selling Points

- A follow-up title to the bestselling How to Draw Sci-Fi Utopias and Dystopias, this is the second Monacelli Studio book from Prentis Rollins, veteran illustrator of DC and Marvel Comics
- 10 to 16-year-olds are the core target audience, but this book will also engage and teach adults of all ages the fundamentals of drawing imaginative 'good' and 'evil' science-fiction characters
- Two original, dynamic teams ('Heroes' vs. 'Villains') are presented by the author as a fascinating and inspiring way to teach about drawing science-fiction characters
- Two, full-color, 3-page foldouts featuring the Heroes team and the Villains team spectacularly showcase the fully-realized and finished characters

Praise for How to Draw Sci-Fi Utopias and Dystopias:

'For all those clear-eyed artists, ages 12 and up, engaging in and reimagining this world, How to Draw Sci-Fi Utopias and Dystopias gives an in-depth look at the process of completing sci-fi illustrations – from the thought behind them to constructing basic forms and objects on paper, converting roughs into finished pencil drawings, inking them in, and coloring them in Photoshop. Prentis Rollins teaches that the only way to create authenticity in a science fictional world is to root the imagined in the real, becoming the sole authority on its narrative and rationales. He demonstrates the astounding power of storytelling with 32 step-by-step case studies created and imagined just for this book.' – Thinking Animation
