In Time

- As soon as we wake up the race begins – hurry up, let’s get a move on, we’re going to be late! But for children, the world can seem like a truly slow-moving place. Is it time to go home yet? Are we nearly there? How long will this take? Follow the journey of one girl as she learns to be more patient and less resistant to the world around her. As she slowly opens her eyes to the wonder of nature she uncovers that some things are really worth waiting for.
- Along with the universal topic and heart-warming texts, it ties in with mental health themes, encouraging readers to slow down and take time in the here and now.

The CAT who COULDN'T BE BOTHERED

BY JACK KURLAND

The Cat Who Couldn't Be Bothered

- A funny and heartwarming picture book about a cat who feels sad and the friends who support him.
- The cat declines a series of invitations from other animals to join in with their games and adventures. At first he appears to be the kind of cat who just wants to stretch out, lie down and do nothing at all . . . alone. But when the other cats ask him what's wrong, they discover the real reason for his behaviour: he feels sad and all he wants to do is nothing. The other animals respond beautifully and their words and actions contain lessons about how we respond to others who are feeling low.

Have You Seen Mikki Olsen?

- Penguin has a favourite teddy called Mikki Olsen. Whatever Penguin does, wherever Penguin goes, Mikki is always right there next to him. But after a particularly busy day, Penguin takes his eye off the toy with potentially terrible consequences. Mikki is lost.. or is he?
- The subject of a lost, most favourite toy is a hugely relatable scenario for parents and children, but the playful twist adds a layer of light relief.
- From an exciting new author-illustrator, this is a heartwarming and funny picture book about a penguin who loses its favourite teddy – which will have little readers shouting out 'IT'S BEHIND YOU!'

The Princess and the Pee

- An imaginative Princess doesn't let much faze her. But every night she wets the bed. And every morning the palace is filled with fussing about the Princess and the pee. Some suggestions are sensible (moving bedroom, a reward system) and some are silly (lemons under the pillow, eating bread). While the royal household is running around for a solution, kind Grandma Grace calmly encourages the Princess to use her imagination as the solution.
- 20% of 4-year-olds and 10% of 7-year-olds face wet their beds on a regular basis. This book will be perfect for parents and educators of these children.
- Written by Effua Gleed and illustrated by Juanita Londoño Gaviria

The Best Bad Day Ever by Marianna Coppo

- From the award-winning author-illustrator behind Petra comes this hilarious and heart-warming story about grumpiness and the power of friendship to brighten up a cloudy day.
- Today is a terrible day for Wolfie: it's cloudy (there is a single cloud), the water in the bubble bath is ice cold, there aren't enough chocolate chips in the cookies and everyone else is having a nice day (lucky them). No one understands Wolfie at school. But then Penguin comes along... and she does understand. Suddenly things start to get a whole lot better.

Our Tower by Joseph Coelho

- Two children look out of their flat window high up in a tower block and see the tops of some trees. They leave the block in search of the tree whose top they know so well and fall down into a magical world under the roots of the tree. There they meet a wise old man who sits in a throne made from gnarled wood. He gives them a magic pebble with a hole inside and when they look through it, their home which they once saw as cold, hard and angular is revealed afresh to be just as powerful, magical and exciting as the wise old trees.
- A deeply personal story written by the award winning poet Joseph Coelho, drawn from his own experience growing up in a tower block and looking for adventure. This story is a celebration of, and a reclaiming of tower blocks as a place where magic and adventure can happen.

A Damsel Not In Distress!

- Once upon a time, hidden deep in a valley in a magical land far away, there was a very tall tower. And trapped at the very top of that very tall tower there was a damsel...In distress!
- The only problem is, the damsel is not in distress. She keeps telling the narrator that she's perfectly fine. The 'terrifying beasts' in the moat are a family of ducklings. The 'prickly brambles' are her rose garden. And the 'wicked old witch' is actually her grandma! But the narrator just won't listen.

- Belle and Grandpa are the best of friends. But Mom says Grandpa Jack can't come to visit for a while, and everything changes.
- This is an enticing novelty format that kids will be eager to dive into – the cover is split down the middle and opens outwards to reveal two smaller booklets bound together inside.
- One story follows Belle, and other shows us Grandpa Jack. Each booklet stands alone but can be read side-by-side. The final spread at the back of the book reveals a shared ending, in which Grandpa Jack and Belle are reunited!
