Dear booksellers and partners,

A glance at our publishing preview for spring and summer 2026 is like stepping into a classic car garage—it reveals carefully curated masterpieces, timeless elegance, and pure passion. At teNeues, we remain true to ourselves and do what we do best: we make books that don't just fill pages, but seek out the extraordinary. In a world where everything is becoming increasingly fleeting, we consciously focus on the enduring, the exclusive, and what you can touch, smell, and feel. Our strength lies in outstanding quality, both in print and content. This spring, that becomes particularly clear. We dive deep into the world of luxury, because it is more than just a price tag—it is an expression of passion. We carry this idea into our automotive collection, which shines with three new, exclusive volumes. With The Maserati Book and Ferrari Milestones, we celebrate Italian elegance. With Porsche Escapes, we immerse ourselves in the lifestyle and travel experience of this iconic brand. Golf is also much more than just a sport, as we show in our opulent volume The Golf Book: the game as an expression of style, lifestyle, and luxury.

Sexiness is a particular highlight of this program for us. Following the success of our bestseller Coolness, we have finally found its successor, which explores the secret of special charisma with an irresistible wink—this book will be on everyone's lips and cause a sensation.

But what would teNeues be without photography? It is the heart of our publishing house, and so we are particularly pleased to present a highlight in the spring: Elliott Erwitt's Kolor. We are finally publishing this volume in a new, revised edition. Erwitt's color photographs, treasured for over 70 years, are an explosion of wit, sensitivity, and color. It is the perfect complement to our black-and-white volumes featuring the grand seigneur of photographic art. We are also proud to present London in Frames by up-and-coming photographer Ovidiu Selaru, whose work has attracted impressive media attention. In Now is Now Tokyo, hip Japanese photographers present a multi-layered, complex portrait of this vibrant metropolis in a quality that is second to none.

And if you think you've seen it all, there's another very special book waiting for you. A unique tribute to the simple elegance of country life, combined with our passion for photography. Feathered Elegance is a work about chickens—and yet so much more. Proof that beauty and style can truly be found everywhere.

Of course, this is just the tip of the iceberg. Discover more titles from the fields of interior design, fashion, sports, travel, and photography in our preview. We are confident that this once again proves our commitment to quality—while also breaking new ground.

Bill on the corner of 5th Avenue office.

Moving ON UP

By the early 1990s, Bill was a bona fide member of the avenue crowd—and shabby 47th Street was no longer a match for his elevated style and clientele.

"The standard of the properties on the jewelry block at the time was absolutely unspeakable," recalls Philip Macgregor, vice chair of the Macgregor Family & Partners investment management firm. "Here were people selling the most beautiful things in the world from buildings that were utterly substandard."

At the time, Macgregor had just purchased 589 Fifth Avenue—a skyscraper located a block from 47th Street—and was looking for flagship businesses that would elevate the new address. Bill was his first call.

"I explained that I had a vision to create the best building in the world, custom-designed for people in the jewelry business, and totally secure," Macgregor says. "I knew that if I could get him to come across the street to the other side of Fifth Avenue, others would follow."

He had would have it. Macgregor's sales pitch aligned perfectly with Bill's own vision for the future: His quest to elevate the New York City diamond trade had taken him to the top of the DDC, and now, it was urging him to leave the industry to more distinguished digs—589 Fifth Avenue was just the place. Bill chose to rent one of the top floors of the building and designed it accordingly with glossy wood paneling that gave an air of exclusivity. It was a move quickly replicated by other dealers.

"Bill was someone who had the courage to make a decision and go for it," says Macgregor. "Ten years after that, when someone would ask, 'Why would I want to move to the east side of Fifth Avenue?' we'd reply, 'Well, the Goldberg company did it. It was enough to fill the building.'"

Everything a modern man's heart desires:
handmade products, exclusive gadgets and collector's items from all areas of life.

The brands and manufacturers presented in this coffee table book stand for authenticity, origin and craftsmanship. Many of them look back on decades, in some cases centuries, of tradition and yet are contemporary because they do not follow the spirit of the times, but help to shape it.

The selection is deliberately personal and subjective, but never arbitrary: icons from
the art of watchmaking, bespoke clothing,
automotive culture, stationery, cuisine,
grooming, accessories and design.

individuality and luxury, offering a glimpse into a dreamlike lifestyle
